Overview

Top 20 reviews twenty grammar areas that are essential for good English writing at the intermediate to advanced level. In the review in Top 20, however, emphasis is placed on helping students to notice the gap between their own language and correct English. Therefore, the focus of Top 20 is for students to produce and edit original pieces of writing as they learn how to find and correct common grammatical errors.

New to this Edition

Based on user feedback, the second edition of Top 20 has been modified in the following ways:

- Inclusion of new chapters on conditionals and on editing essays.
- Revision and reordering of chapters to reflect a progression from nouns to pronouns to verbs.
- Streamlined chapter on confusing words to deal with the most commonly mistaken word pairs.
- Clearer grammar explanations.
- Inclusion of authentic grammar examples from actual academic textbooks. These examples represent seven academic disciplines most common to our students: law, history, psychology, humanities, communication, study skills, and physical science.

Course and Students

Depending on the class level and the amount of writing and work that is done outside of class, there is enough material in Top 20 for seventy to ninety classroom hours. However, if time limitations exist, the material could be covered in as few as forty-five hours with an advanced-level group, provided that many of the exercises are done as homework.

This book is designed for intermediate to advanced students. However, the passages in many of the exercises are from real textbooks that were written for native speakers. Thus, students will have to understand the grammar points well to be able to apply them in the exercises.

For many students, a major obstacle to future educational plans is not being able to write effectively and easily in English, so the quality of any written work they do is very important. Poor grammar is often what keeps students from producing a solid piece of original writing. Because grammar is such an integral part of good student writing, the exercises in Top 20 focus exclusively on grammar problems.

The title Top 20 refers to the twenty chapters in the book. Each chapter focuses on a common area of difficulty in English grammar, including verb tenses, articles, gerunds and infinitives, noun clauses, modals, pronouns, subject-verb agreement, word forms, and parallel structure. We selected the topics in the chapters of Top 20 after surveying many experienced teachers, student writers, textbooks, and course curricula.

You, the teacher, are always the best judge of which chapters should be covered and in which order and to what extent. No one knows the language needs of your students better than you do. It is up to you to gauge the needs of your students and then match those needs with the material presented in the chapters of Top 20.

Text Organization

As we have said, each of the twenty chapters focuses on one grammatical question that affects the quality of student writing. To facilitate customized instruction, each chapter is independent of all other chapters and can be taught in any order. In addition to the twenty chapters, with their specific grammatical focus, at the back of the book are four appendixes: Appendix 1 reviews the parts of speech; Appendix 2 briefly reviews how to construct comparative and superlative forms of adjectives and adverbs; Appendix 3 lists irregular verb forms; and Appendix 4 lists conjunctions and transitions and their functions.

Contents of a Chapter

Following is a description of the common features of each chapter and the types of exercises found in them.

Opening Discussion: Check Your Grammar

Each chapter opens with a Check Your Grammar exercise designed to test students' knowledge of the grammar point to be examined, using subject matter drawn from one of seven academic areas familiar to the majority of students. After the students have done the exercise and discussed their findings with a partner, it is up to the teacher to go over the exercise with the students to help them understand the nature of the grammar problem they will be studying.

Grammar Reviews and Explanations

The grammar reviews and explanations cover problems that characterize student writing, not speaking. Top 20 is not meant to be a complete grammar book; instead, it reviews common problem areas and helps students focus their attention on the gap between what they are writing and what they should be writing. For this reason, certain grammar points have been given special emphasis, others very little. For example, we have not focused much on the future perfect tense because our analysis of student writing needs indicates that attention to other areas such as the present perfect and consistent verb tense usage is the more prudent approach.

Exercise Types

Second-language acquisition (SLA) research shows the importance of awareness in the second-language learning process. Students using this text have had basic grammar instruction, but many continue to make errors. The exercises in Top 20 are designed to raise students' consciousness of the types of errors they make in their writing. Studies have also demonstrated that the number of exercises—frequency of practice—is as important as the nature of the exercises themselves (Folse 2006, Fotos 2002, and Laufer and Hulstijn 1998).

Original Sentences Some exercises ask students to write original sentences to illustrate a very specific aspect of a given grammar point. We recommend that you have students discuss their answers in groups and possibly write some of their sentences on the board for general class discussion about what is correct, what is not correct, and why a gap between the two exists.

Selecting the Correct Form Some exercises present students with two to three answer options, and students must underline or circle the correct answer. The incorrect answer options are almost always forms that students with various first languages would use. Thus, this kind of exercise is harder than it might appear.

Editing

Exercise

Editing of Sentences Because a paragraph is only as good as the sentences in it, the exercises on editing sentences present students with sentences one at a time. The sentences are often about a single topic and are related to each other. Students are asked to focus on one specific grammar issue—for example, verb tenses—and check for that specific grammar point in each of the sentences.

Editing of Paragraphs In the exercises on editing paragraphs, students are given a paragraph written for native speakers. Common sources for the exercise text are business books, history books, education texts, speech books, sociology texts, the Internet, and newspapers. Students are not told where the errors are, but they are always told how many errors to look for or what type of errors there are.

These two points are important in helping students practice looking for, finding, and correcting specific errors that they are likely to be making. Since the teaching goal is to enable students to edit for specific kinds of errors, it makes sense to tell them what errors to look for. For example, if we want students to check for subject-verb agreement and word endings, then teachers and materials should train students to look for these particular mistakes. Instead of the more typical directions that ask students to find “the errors” in a given piece of writing, the most effective exercises direct students to find, for example, five errors: two subject-verb errors and three pronoun errors. In this way, student writers are actually editing for the types of errors that teachers want them to focus on.

Multiple Choice Multiple-choice exercises follow the traditional format. Four choices are usually offered with only one choice being correct. The Chapter Quiz in each chapter follows this format as well.

Locating the Error In error identification exercises, students read single sentences in which four words or phrases have been underlined. Students must circle the letter labeling the word or phrase that contains a grammatical error and then write their edited answer above the error. Error identification exercises are helpful in the overall SLA process because they can raise learners' consciousness of a linguistic feature by requiring learners to focus their attention on the difference, or gap, between the incorrect form and the correct form (Schmidt, 2001).

Original Writing To achieve the goal of connecting grammar instruction and focused review, each chapter of Top 20 ends with an exercise called Original Writing. Students are given a prompt to which they are asked to respond by writing a paragraph, two paragraphs, or an essay. (It is up to each teacher to establish the writing length parameters of any exercise.) We believe that students should not be writing extensively but rather intensively when the goal is to improve writing accuracy. Thus, this activity asks students to write a short piece, but the demands on grammar proficiency are high. Students are told to practice certain aspects of the grammar covered in the chapter, to underline their original examples, and to check their correctness with a partner. Underlining key linguistic features has been shown to enhance noticing and learning of new material.

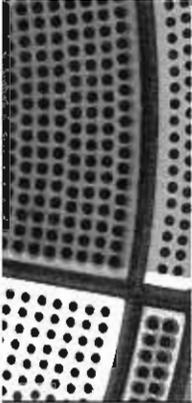

More About the Exercises in Top 20

Teachers have long noticed that students may do well in a grammar class where the focus is on one grammatical form in one type of exercise, but these same students may experience writing problems when trying to transfer or apply this knowledge to original writing. For some reason, students do not transfer the material they have just been taught to their writing. As a result, the majority of the exercises in Top 20 deal with language in context—that is, language in a series of related sentences, in a whole paragraph, or in a short essay. Our experience has shown that students can improve their editing for a specific kind of grammatical error when they review the grammar issue and then practice their editing skills in written exercises of various lengths (sentences, paragraphs, or essays). The 239 exercises in Top 20 and the additional web activities offer more than enough material to satisfy most students' written-grammar needs.

Though a wide array of exercise types is included (see the previous section, Contents of a Chapter), the three exercises most commonly used are fill-in-the-blank, error correction (editing), and original student writing of paragraphs. The most important objectives of Top 20 are to enable students to feel more comfortable with ESL grammar and to improve their writing by honing their editing skills. Consequently, the number and variety of exercises that students tackle are crucial to the success of Top 20.

Acknowledgments

Top 20 is the result of the planning, input, and encouragement of a great many people. We are especially grateful to our editorial team at Houghton Mifflin, including Susan Maguire, Joann Koyzrev, and Kathy Sands-Boehmer, as well as our new team at Thomson Heinle, including Tom Jefferies. This second edition is truly a conglomerate work produced by many minds.

We wish to express our immense gratitude to Kathy Smith, our developmental editor, who so diligently helped us implement reviewers' and teachers' suggestions into the first and now this second edition. Without her contributions, Top 20 would most certainly not be Top 20.

Thanks to the members of TESL-L, an invaluable means of communicating with ESL and EFL professionals all over the globe, who offered their ideas on the use of context in practicing grammar through writing, and to the hundreds of students and teachers who have given us feedback and ideas on our writing and grammar materials.

Finally, we thank these reviewers, whose comments were instrumental in the development of Top 20: Mary Burdick, Northern Essex CC; Lee Culver, Miami Dade College; Kathy Flynn, Glendale CC; Janet Harclerode, Santa Monica College; Mary Hill, North Shore CC; Nick Hilmers, DePaul University; Nancy Megarity, Collin County CC; Maria Spelleri, Manatee CC; Mo-Shuet Tam, City College of San Francisco; and Kent Trickel, Westchester CC.

Nouns

In this chapter, you will review the forms and characteristics of nouns and the words that go with them. Two important categories of nouns are count nouns and noncount nouns. Briefly, count nouns name things that can be counted, such as car and computer. Noncount nouns name things that cannot be counted, such as freedom and happiness.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Three of the five underlined words contain an error related to nouns. Can you explain why each of these underlined words is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

The Environmental Protection Agency

The Environmental Protection Agent (EPA) was created by Congress in 1970 to replace the fifteen federal agencies that previously were responsibility for enforcing the legals that regulate environmental pollution.

From: Frank A. Schubert (2004). Introduction to Law and the Legal System. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 665.

1.1 Count Nouns

Nouns that can be counted are called count nouns. They can be singular or plural in form.

Singular: one subject a problem one reason a child

Plural: five subjects two problems three reasons eight children

1.1.1 Singular Count Nouns

Singular count nouns, together with any descriptive adjectives, have an article (a, an, the) or another determiner before them (my, your, this, one, every, each).

an exam, a long exam, my brother, my oldest brother, each chapter, each new chapter

Don't use a singular count noun without an article or other determiner.

Incorrect: ~~house~~ ~~new house~~ ~~car~~ ~~old car~~

Correct: a house their new house my car our old car

However, in a few idiomatic expressions, no article is used:

have dinner in school at home at work by bus (by + transportation) by phone (by + communication)

Exercise 1 Underline the fifteen singular count nouns that have articles or determiners. Circle the articles and determiners. The first one has been done for you.

Modern Households

By the end of the twentieth century, almost every person in the country owned at least one telephone and one television set. Most homes also had a washing machine, and many possessed a microwave oven. Since the beginning of the new millennium, the cellular phone has become commonplace, and most households now have a computer. The times have certainly changed. They have changed so much that most people cannot even imagine an evening at home without a computer or some other appliance.

1.1.2 Plural Count Nouns

Plural count nouns are sometimes preceded by the definite article the or by another determiner, or they may appear alone. Plural count nouns are NOT preceded by a or an.

Incorrect: ~~a houses~~ ~~an expensive houses~~

Correct: the houses some houses big houses some big houses

Regular Plurals

Most count nouns form their plural by adding -s to the singular noun.

cat / cats tree / trees taxi / taxis sweater / sweaters schedule / schedules course / courses professor / professors

Irregular Plurals

A few common count nouns have an irregular plural form.

man / men	woman / women	child / children	mouse / mice
fish / fish	tooth / teeth	foot / feet	person / people or persons knife / knives	thesis / theses	criterion / criteria	fungus / fungi
self / selves	analysis / analyses	datum / data	focus / foci life / lives	alumnus / alumni	medium / media	hypothesis / hypotheses half / halves	sheep / sheep	hero / heroes	species / species

A few plural nouns do not have a singular form:

glasses pants jeans scissors tongs clothes

Special Spellings of Plurals

A few types of count nouns form their plurals in a slightly different manner. Nouns ending in a CONSONANT + y form their plurals by changing the -y to -i and adding -es.

library / libraries lady / ladies copy / copies theory / theories

This rule does not apply to nouns that end in a VOWEL + y.

tray / trays monkey / monkeys survey / surveys boy / boys

Nouns ending in -s, -ss, -sh, -ch, -x, and -z add -es to form the plural.

class / classes bush / bushes bench / benches box / boxes quiz / quizzes

Exercise 2

Six of the ten underlined words and phrases in this paragraph contain an error. Circle the errors and write the corrections above.

Current Economic Indicators

All economic indicators are up. People are building new houses at a very high rate.

1

They are also buying a new cars. Among consumer products that are selling well are cellular telephones, computer, and big-screen TV sets. Unemployment is low—jobs are not difficult to find, but a good employees are. Some firms are offering bonuses or stock options to attract capable person. Interest rate are at a comfortable level, resulting in heavy sales of consumer item.

10

Exercise 3 Read the paragraph and underline the twenty-one plural nouns. Do not include possessive forms. Then circle the seven irregular plural nouns. The first one has been done for you.

Current Stress Research

Research has shown that everyone, even children, is subject to stress. In addition, statistics indicate that stress affects people's physical health, causing headaches and heart problems. After conducting surveys and collecting a large amount of data, some psychologists are now trying to determine the best methods for coping with stress. They are also testing various hypotheses to determine why some workers seem less affected by stress than their counterparts. Preliminary analyses seem to support the theory that people with adaptive skills and optimistic attitudes suffer fewer physical problems associated with stress. Finally, new research to measure the physical effects on health of both positive and negative stress in people's lives is under way. The results of this research will guide physicians in treating their patients who suffer from chronic stress.

1.2 Noncount Nouns

Nouns that cannot be counted are called noncount or mass nouns. They are used with singular verbs.

- Noncount nouns are often liquids or gases.
water air oil oxygen
- Noncount nouns often refer to a whole or a mass made up of small particles or items.
sugar salt white sand
new furniture homework good news equipment money expensive clothing
- Noncount nouns are often weather phenomena, fields of study, raw materials, abstractions, or sports and pastimes.
rain economics gold happiness respect soccer hot weather psychology hard coal luck satisfaction cards

Note: Cards can be a noncount noun meaning a game of cards, or it can be a count noun meaning individual cards.

The following noncount nouns are often mistakenly used as plural count nouns:

Incorrect: furniture$ advice$ homework$ equipment$ information$
Correct: furniture advice homework equipment information

Exercise 4 Read the paragraph and underline the seventeen count nouns. Draw a circle around the twelve noncount nouns. The first two have been done for you.

Protein

It is a commonly known fact that dairy products such as (milk), yogurt, and cheese are rich sources of calcium, but how many people know that these food products are also loaded with protein? This is the reason that dietitians recommend that people consume two to four servings of this group each day. A glass of milk or a cup of yogurt has high-quality protein that is equivalent to an ounce of meat or cheese or to one egg. These food items are certainly good for your health. Whenever possible, however, you should opt for items that are not so high in fat.

1.2.1 Comparing Noncount and Count Nouns

Noncount nouns are like count nouns in certain ways.

1. Noncount nouns act like singular and plural count nouns.

- Like singular and plural count nouns, noncount nouns may have certain determiners in front of them, such as the definite article the or the possessive adjectives my and your.
- Possessive adjectives have the same forms in front of all three types of nouns: singular count nouns, plural count nouns, and noncount nouns.
- You can use this and that with singular count nouns and noncount nouns; these and those can appear in front of plural count nouns only.

Singular Count Nouns		Plural Count Nouns		Noncount Nouns
Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun
the	car	the	cars	the	traffic
an	apple	Ø	apples	Ø	fruit
my, your	vegetable	my, your	vegetables	my, your	rice his, her, its	job	his, her, its	jobs	his, her, its	work
our, their	job	our, their	jobs	our, their	work
this, that	cat	these, those	cats

2. Noncount nouns act like plural count nouns. Like plural count nouns, noncount nouns may be preceded by determiners and certain expressions of quantity, or they may appear alone.

In the chart below, the determiners before plural count nouns and noncount nouns are the same.

Singular Count Nouns		Plural Count Nouns		Noncount Nouns
Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun
a	taxi	Ø	taxis	Ø	traffic
the	taxi	the	taxis	the	traffic
one	taxi	some	taxis	some	traffic
		a lot of	taxis	a lot of	traffic enough	taxis	enough	traffic
		plenty of	taxis	plenty of	traffic

Incorrect: Let's get taxi.

Correct: Let's get a taxi.

Remember that singular count nouns must have an article or determiner.

Some taxis have air conditioning.

There aren't enough taxis in this city.

Taxis are more comfortable than buses.

There will be some traffic on the highway tonight.

There is plenty of traffic on that narrow road.

Traffic is always heavy on weekends.

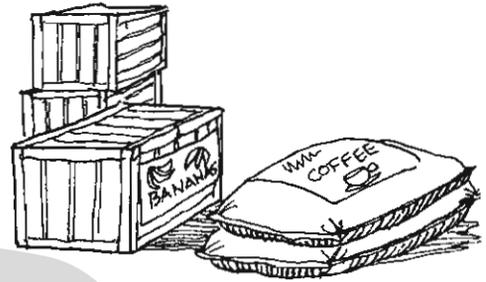

In the following chart, the determiners—certain expressions of quantity—before plural count nouns and noncount nouns are different.

Singular Count Nouns		Plural Count Nouns		Noncount Nouns
Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun	Determiner	Example of noun
		many	taxis	much	traffic
		a few	taxis	a little	traffic
a/the/one	taxi	few	taxis	little	traffic several	taxis	a great deal of	traffic
		four	taxis

Exercise 5 Underline the correct noun form(s) or determiner in each sentence. The first one has been done for you.

1. Dr. Rachel Lindstrom is studying a special aspect of (a biology / biology).
2. She is doing (research / a research) on (a certain plant / certain plants) and their products that countries export.
3. For example, Dr. Lindstrom has found that (some plants / a plants) contain substances that can fight (a diseases / a lot of diseases).

4. She and her colleagues now have (an information / enough information) to write (book / a book) about their investigations.
5. Specifically, this new volume will examine the consequences that can result from a country's (export / exports).
6. For example, does the fact that Colombia exports (several / a great deal of) coffee have any negative impact on Colombia?
7. In Ecuador, (many / much) types of bananas can be found all over. They are harvested and sent worldwide.
8. In the United States, bananas grow in only (a few / a little) places, so the fact that Ecuador exports its bananas is good for the United States. However, is there any negative effect of this exportation on Ecuador? Only time will tell.

Exercise 6 Read each sentence and underline the correct choice(s) in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

Studying for the Law

Henry is studying at Harvard University; he's going to become (lawyer / a lawyer).
 1

(A law / Law) is a difficult subject. It requires (a concentration / a lot of concentration). (A lawyer / Lawyers) study in law school for three years. After law school, the graduates have to take (a difficult examination / difficult examination).
 2 3
 4
 5
 (Some graduates / Some graduate) pass this examination, but others don't.
 6
 (A little graduates / A few graduates) take the examination a second or even a third time. (Some people / A people) say that there aren't (enough good lawyer / enough 8 9
 7
 good lawyers). Others say that there aren't (many good lawyers / many good lawyer). (Some lawyers / A lawyers) feel satisfied with (a work / their work).
 10
 11 12
 (This lawyers / These lawyers) have clearly chosen the right profession. At the end of each day, (satisfaction / satisfactions) with one's work is extremely important.
 13
 14

Exercise 7 Put a check mark (✓) beside each of the expressions that could be used correctly before each noun. The first one has been done for you.

_____ new student	_____ students failed	The students said that they
in our class didn't pass	the test.	had _____ information,
the test.		but it was not enough.
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> A	_____ A	_____ an
_____ Ø	_____ Ø	_____ Ø
_____ The	_____ Some	_____ some
_____ That	_____ Much	_____ the
_____ These	_____ A lot of	_____ enough
_____ Some	_____ A few	_____ a lot of
_____ Many	_____ A little	_____ many
_____ Much	_____ Enough	_____ a few
_____ Enough	_____ Several	_____ a little
_____ A few	_____ Four	_____ one
_____ Two	_____ That	_____ those
_____ Plenty of	_____ Plenty of	_____ plenty of
_____ A great deal of	_____ A great deal of	_____ a great deal of

Editing

Exercise 8

Read the following article from a business publication. If the underlined noun phrase is incorrect, write your corrected edit on the line. If it is correct, write correct on the line.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____
7. _____
8. _____
9. _____
10. _____

Small Business Success

In today's world, what does it take to make a business succeed? A study of hundreds of successful small businesses found they had much characteristics in common. It found that the owners of successful businesses:

- have enough time to devote to the business, typically 60+ hours each week;
- have many capital to cover costs for six months;
- provide an adequate training to each employee;
- provide close supervision of new employees;
- treat both customers and employees with a great deal of respect
- request feedback from customers.

Second, the employees of successful businesses:

- have sufficient education to handle the job;
- understand the importance of customer service;
- earn good salary and have access to health insurance;
- receive a little weeks of vacation every year;
- have some flexibility in work hours;
- receive a regular feedback on their performance from their supervisor.

Exercise 9

In eleven of the underlined noun phrases, the quantifiers are used incorrectly. Find the errors and make the corrections. More than one option may be correct. Use Ø to indicate that no article or other quantifier is needed.

Rainforest Island

Rainforest Island has been treated extremely well by nature. It has much dense forests, which produce beautiful wood. On the north side of the island it has mountains where a coffee is grown. In the southern area, there are thousands of acres of bananas and one sugar there as well. The island exports a lot of wood, coffee, bananas, and sugar. There are other resources to be developed, too. The eastern shore has a beautiful beaches and would be ideal for tourism; so far, however, tourism has not brought many money. There are only a little hotels on the island, and these are not in good condition. There is a good news, though; the Islands Hotel Investment Group is planning to invest heavily in the area. This will result in much excellent facilities and will provide many work for the inhabitants of the island. Even more important, at the end of the twentieth century, a few oil was discovered just off the northern shore. Since then, scientists have found that there is many oil underneath the island. Until now, Rainforest Island has had to depend on agriculture, but in the future—with oil and tourism about to be developed—it is likely that there will be some changes in the character of the island.

CHAPTER QUIZ

Exercise 10 Circle the letter of the correct answer. Be prepared to explain your answers.

- We need to buy _____ for the living room.
A. a new furniture C. new furnitures
B. new furniture D. a few new furnitures
- I got _____ wonderful news today! I'm getting a 10% raise.
A. a C. a few

Articles: a, an, the Articles—those little words that can be so difficult to use correctly—introduce and identify nouns. There are two kinds of articles in English: indefinite (a, an) and definite (the). Articles occur before nouns (the book) and before adjective + noun combinations (a big book).

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Five of the eight underlined words or phrases contain an error related to articles. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Architecture—More Than Solving Problems

In the architecture, as in any art, it is never enough to solve a problem. Building forms have the profound effect on the quality of life; the painting and the sculpture reflect, comment on, and affect future of the arts and of humanity.

From: M. Witt, Brown, C., Dunbar, R., Tiro, F., and Witt, R. (2005). The Humanities: Cultural Roots and Continuities, 7th ed., Vol. 1. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 304.

2.1 Article Basics

This chart gives you the basic uses of articles in English. (For a review of count and noncount nouns, see Chapter 1.)

	Articles
	Count Nouns		Noncount Nouns
Indefinite articles (a, an)	a cat	cats	money an ugly cat	ugly cats
	an answer	answers
Definite article (the)	the cat	the cats	the money addition, _____ visual aids are often _____ part of presentations, as is _____ 13 14 15

interaction with _____ audience. Not all people who are good at public speaking 16 can deliver _____ effective presentation.

17

2.2 Indefinite Articles

The indefinite articles are a and an. Use a and an with indefinite singular count nouns. Here are the main rules for indefinite articles.

2.2.1 Uses

1. Use a and an to introduce a singular count noun.

Let's take a speech class this semester.

There is an excellent show on TV tonight.

2. Use a and an to define or classify something.

Jambalaya is a rice dish that is native to south Louisiana.

My brother is an investigator for the city health department.

3. Use a and an to show that you are talking about one (of the item).

Excuse me. Do you have a pencil that I could borrow?

I need an eraser, as well.

Do not use one interchangeably to mean a. "Do you have one pencil?" emphasizes the number, not the pencil.

Special time expressions: One is used before day, week, month, and so forth, to refer to a particular time when something occurred, as in "One day I visited the new museum in town."

4. Use a and an for a general truth about a singular count noun. Reference is to all or most of the members in the group. (Note that a plural count noun without any article expresses the same idea.)

A piano has 96 keys. (= Pianos have 96 keys.)

A teacher should plan lessons. (= Teachers should plan lessons.)

We do not usually use an article with a noncount noun. Articles can be used with abstract nouns that are derived from verbs.

Time is money. (no article)

Hospitals saw a demand for better care. (abstract noun)

Exercise 2 Read the sentences and determine which of the four rules applies to the underlined noun or noun phrase. Put the rule number(s) in the blank. The first one has been done for you.

1. 3 Georgia O’Keeffe was an American painter born in 1887 near Sun Prairie, Wisconsin.
2. _____ O’Keeffe grew up on a dairy farm and knew at an early age that she wanted to be an artist.
3. _____ She held jobs as a commercial artist and as a teacher before moving to New York in 1918.
4. _____ In New York, O’Keeffe found a new life with Alfred Stieglitz, a photographer and owner of the 291 gallery.
5. _____ In 1928, she took a vacation and went to Taos, New Mexico.
6. _____ The trip had an impact of such enormity that it changed her life forever. She referred to northern New Mexico as “the faraway.”
7. _____ New Mexico was a place with wide vistas and far-reaching horizons. O’Keeffe bought a Model A Ford with which to explore the back roads of her new home.
8. _____ O’Keeffe’s large-flower paintings have been referred to as a woman’s art style, as though art created by a woman differed from that made by a man.
9. _____ Today O’Keeffe remains an important contributor to American art of the twentieth century.

2.3 Definite Article the

The definite article is the. Use the with definite singular, plural, and noncount nouns. Use the to indicate that you are referring to something specific. Here are the main rules for definite articles.

2.3.1 Uses

1. Use the to refer to a specific thing or person. This includes nouns made specific by prepositional phrases or adjective clauses.

Specific: The window in the kitchen has been closed all day.

General: A window is usually rectangular in shape. (= Windows are usually rectangular in shape.)

Specific: The pilots who work for that airline will go on strike at midnight.

General: A pilot wears a uniform. (= Pilots wear a uniform.)

2. Use the for the second and all subsequent references to the same item. Note that sometimes different nouns are used to refer to the same thing. Using a variety of vocabulary items with the article the is an excellent device for coherence in your writing.

A deadly car crash (noun A—first reference) involving three vehicles (noun B—first reference) occurred on Highway 62 last night. Police said that the wreck (noun A—second reference) happened just after midnight. Though damage to the three cars (noun B—second reference) appeared to be minimal, the accident (noun A—third reference) claimed two lives.

Crash → wreck → accident: Notice how crash becomes wreck and then becomes accident.
Vehicles → cars: Vehicles becomes cars. These different words still refer to the same original thing, and the article changes from indefinite (a) to definite (the).

3. Use the with a superlative, with a ranking, or with a comparison between amounts.

Many sports offer good exercise, but tennis is the best sport for people of all ages.

The third part of any joke is usually the punch line.

The more time you spend editing, the more corrections you'll make.

4. Use the with the parts of something or members of a group.

I like this watch. The minute hand is blue, and the hour hand is red.

Today the small-business owner finds it hard to compete against superstores.

The is used to talk about a body part in a more formal way, for example, in science or health discussion.

The stomach contains special liquids to help with digestion.

However, when we are referring to our own bodies, we use possessive adjectives, not the.

My stomach hurts because I ate all the chocolates.

5. Use the when the item is known to both the writer and the reader (or to the speaker and the listener), when the context makes it clear, or when there is only one possible item.

Rick: Where's your phone?

Cara: It's next to the refrigerator.

6. Use the in general statements about a whole species (kind), class, or category.

The Apple computer was not developed by Bill Gates.

The green sea turtle is on the threatened and endangered list.

More medicine is needed for the sick. (the sick = sick people)

The use of the + SINGULAR NOUN is more formal than the more conversational style of using plural + no article.

The tiger is native to India. (formal) Tigers are native to India. (less formal)

7. Use the with unique, one-of-a-kind items (especially when talking about nature).

The sun is shining directly overhead.

Take a look at the sky! The clouds are moving fast today.

There's nothing you can do to change the past, so plan for the future.

8. Use the with certain proper nouns: oceans; seas; rivers; groups of islands, lakes, mountains; deserts; plural names of countries; areas identified by direction words; buildings; schools with of / for; and sports teams.

the Atlantic Ocean

the Hawaiian Islands

the United States

the Sears Tower

the University of Texas

the Academy for the Arts

the Boston Red Sox

the North

Exercise 3 As you read the paragraph, fill in each blank with a or the. The first one has been done for you.

 The Wainwright and Reliance Buildings

_____ Wainwright Building in St. Louis, Missouri, has all _____ elements
2 _____ 3 of _____ modern skyscraper: _____ entire building is carried on _____ 4 _____ 5 _____ 6 fireproofed steel frame, and its three sections are connected in relation to their functions: ground-floor shops and entry, midsection offices, and topmost floors where mechanical systems were placed. It should be compared with _____ 7 Reliance Building, designed by Burnham and Root. Built in _____ summer of 8
1891, it is also _____ self-supporting metal cage with glass infill. It was simple to 9 erect and maintain. _____ walls were great expanses of glass, some fixed, some 10 movable panels, providing light and ventilation for _____ offices lining each side 11 of its central corridor. Visually, _____ building is _____ very clear expression 12 _____ 13 of its function, which is to be tall, economical, and useful. Chicagoans pointed with pride to _____ development of _____ "Commercial Style," but some critics felt 14 _____ 15
its simple expression of function through form was too commercial. It would not be until after World War I that _____ tradition would be completely broken.

2.4 No Article (∅)

In English, articles are not always necessary with nouns. Here are the main rules indicating when no article is needed before a noun.

2.4.1 Uses

1. No article is needed when you are referring to the whole group, class, or category.

Most people agree that more tax money should be spent on education.

We need to buy furniture for the new house.

Tigers are native to India.

2. No article is needed when you are referring to a thing in general, rather than to a specific member of a group.

The most popular subjects are English, math, and world history.

Love is easier for some people to express than for others.

I've never been interested in studying nature.

Beaches offer a place to play or to relax.

Exception: Use an article when you refer to a specific kind within a general thing.

I understand English well, but I sometimes have difficulty understanding the English spoken by young children.

The love he felt for his children couldn't be measured in words.

He developed a sudden interest in the nature of rainforests.

The beach he runs on is pure white sand.

3. No article is needed with names of cities, states, countries, and continents. Exceptions include place names with the words united, union, or republic of, as well as plural names. (See Section 2.3, Rule 8.)

New York Florida France Argentina Asia North America

4. No article is needed with a (single) lake, but use the with all other bodies of water. (See Section 2.3, Rule 8.)

(Exception: the Great Salt Lake)

Lake Michigan Lake Tikal Lake Okeechobee Lake Victoria

5. No article is needed with directions, but use the with areas identified by direction words.

Go north on the highway. I live south of the city.

He lives in the South. (the southern part of the U.S.)

6. No article is needed with diseases:

HIV AIDS cancer cholera heart disease diabetes

Some exceptions to this rule include the following:

the flu the measles the mumps the chicken pox

Use a with injuries, symptoms, and other nondiseases:

a cold a headache a heart attack a broken leg

7. No article is needed with the names of people, businesses, and most magazines.

Dr. Jenk's office is next to Brenda's office.

Microsoft has its head office in the state of Washington.

I just bought a subscription to Newsweek.

Exception: With a person's title that has no proper name, use the article.

This is the President.

8. No article is needed with months, dates, days, holidays, or seasons.

Christmas is December 25th. My birthday is January 23rd.

Classes start on Tuesday. Valentine's Day is next week.

We travel to California every winter.

Exception: Use the with dates in a phrase using the preposition of:

the 12th of August

9. No article is needed with chapters, numbers, highways, and interstates.

Please read Chapter 8 for tomorrow and answer question number 15.

Can you tell me whether Highway 60 will take me to Interstate 95?

10. No article is needed with commonplace words in certain idiomatic expressions. No article implies that an activity is taking place at that location; the refers to the place of the activity.

He is at home now. (NOT at the home)

He's at work. (NOT at the work)

Marguerite is still in bed. (NOT in the bed)

They're on vacation. (NOT on the vacation)

Exercise 4 As you read the paragraph, fill in each blank with the or \emptyset . The first one has been done for you.

Landforms and Water

The ¹ United States offers fine examples of geographical landforms and bodies of water. From ² mountain ranges to ³ lakes to ⁴ rivers, the country has them all. ⁵ Rocky Mountains, stretching 2,000 miles from central ⁶ New Mexico to northeastern ⁷ British Columbia, are undoubtedly the most impressive landforms in ⁸ nation. Along ⁹ Rockies, separating the streams that flow into ¹⁰ Pacific Ocean from those that flow into ¹¹ Atlantic and to ¹² Gulf of Mexico, is ¹³ Continental Divide. There are hundreds of ¹⁴ rivers in ¹⁵ United States, some of which act as state boundaries. For example, ¹⁶ Chattahoochee River separates ¹⁷ Alabama and ¹⁸ Georgia. Similarly, ¹⁹ Hudson River separates New Jersey from New York. Texas and ²⁰ New Mexico have a common border in ²¹ Rio Grande River. ²² Great Lakes form a boundary between the United States and ²³ Canada. There are five lakes: ²⁴ Michigan, Superior, Huron, Ontario, and Erie. Other well-known lakes include ²⁵ Lake Okeechobee in Florida, Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana, ²⁶ Great Salt Lake in Utah, and Lakes Champlain and Placid in New York. Many cities located on ²⁷ lakes and other bodies of water also serve as ²⁸ ports. Chicago, on Lake Michigan, is one such example. Tampa in ²⁹ Florida and New Orleans in Louisiana are both ports on ³⁰ Gulf of Mexico. San Francisco serves as a port on the Pacific Ocean while Boston does the same on ³⁰ Atlantic.

Exercise 6

Read the following paragraph. There are twelve mistakes in article usage. The first one has been done for you. Find the additional eleven and correct them.

A Vacation to Remember

Ø

I'll never forget my first trip to ~~the~~ Florida. It was in the September of 1980. I went to Naples for a week and rented one hotel room on beach. During my visit, I had both positive and negative experiences. I got a sun poisoning. I walked on the beach. I thought a manatee was the shark. I ate lots of good seafood. I collected the shells. I went sailing in Gulf of Mexico. I watched sun set every evening. I saw different kinds of palm trees. I experienced the real meaning of the humidity. I fell in love with the climate. After my vacation, when I was back at the work, I made a decision to move to Florida some day. It took more than fifteen years, but the one day came when I packed my car and drove south. I never looked back.

Pronouns and Possessive Adjectives

Pronouns are similar to nouns because they often take the place of subjects or objects. In this chapter, you will review several important types of pronouns. You will also learn about possessive adjectives, which are easily confused with pronouns.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the four underlined words contain an error related to pronouns and possessive adjectives. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

The Impact of English Ideas

The American Revolution and the events that followed them reflected the impact of English ideas on a pioneering society. The colonists worked well together at the local level in meeting their common needs. Beginning as they did—in a new environment—the colonists were critical of any limitation on his freedom.

Adapted from: Witt et al., The Humanities, p. 220.

3.1 Common Pronouns

These are the most common English pronouns:

Subject pronouns: I you he / she / it we you they who Object pronouns: me you him / her / it us you them whom

In general, don't use a pronoun if you have yet to mention the noun. The word that the pronoun refers to is called the antecedent (coming before).

I don't like to eat [?]it. (Object pronoun; we have no idea what it is; there is no antecedent. Remember: An antecedent is the noun that a pronoun refers to.)

My mother is making lasagna. I don't like to eat it. (In the first sentence, lasagna is the antecedent of the pronoun it.)

Note: If a noun and a pronoun connected with and are in the subject or object position in a sentence, the noun should be listed first.

Incorrect: ~~I and my classmates~~ will be studying for the final exam all weekend.

Correct: My classmates and I will be studying for the final exam all weekend.

Exercise 1 Read the following sentences. Change the underlined nouns to pronouns. Use the subject and object pronouns from the list on page 27. The first one has been done for you.

Our Busy Lives

My sister Sheila is in medical school. ^{She} Sheila is one of the busiest people I know.
1

My brothers, on the other hand, want to become famous athletes, so my brothers spend a lot of time practicing to become better at sprinting and running. I myself am busy studying literature with Dr. Smith. He is a great professor, but his lectures are repetitive. I am tired of listening to Dr. Smith and his lectures. When my sister comes home on weekends, my sister often goes to the cineplex with my brothers and me.

4 5

Everyone in my family is usually too busy to do things together. However, my family is planning a trip to Spain next year. My family and I have never been to 6

Spain, so we are very excited about seeing Spain. Madrid and Barcelona are two of 7 the most famous cities in Spain. These cities offer many things to do, and thousands of tourists travel to these cities every year. If everything goes well, we will all take a break from our busy lives and have a great vacation. I am certainly looking forward to this vacation.

8

3.2 Object Pronouns Used After Prepositions

Use the object pronoun in prepositional phrases, even if the prepositional phrase comes at the beginning of the sentence.

According to them, it's not easy to get into that field.

Besides me, a lot of people are signing up for Dr. Winston's class.

I will never forget our trip to France and the Eiffel Tower standing grandly in front of us.

Exercise 2 As you read the following sentences, put an object or a subject pronoun in the blanks. The first one has been done for you.

1. Rachel Williams, who is the Vice-President of Marketing for Ex-Co, was supposed to run today's important stockholders' meeting, but she was not able to attend the meeting.
2. Instead, Miguel Rodriguez, Ex-Co's well-known but not so popular CEO, stepped in to run the meeting. According to _____, the company's stock has lost 20 percent of its value this quarter, a negative trend that is expected to continue for at least another fiscal year.
3. This loss will most definitely affect the merchants. These merchants bargained for the sale of Ex-Co's goods, but _____ weren't successful at maintaining their target prices.
4. Most of Ex-Co's employees, however, blamed the company's losses on Paul Lee, the company's financial analyst. Because of _____, the proposed increases in salary didn't go through.
5. The bureaucracy in certain corporations is staggering. However, with a new restructuring plan, _____ should decrease as time goes by.
6. Ex-Co's employees don't have much confidence in this new plan. _____ want to organize a walkout if the changes are not implemented smoothly.
7. According to business analysts who follow the ups and downs of Ex-Co, all of these problems are not surprising. With the economy so sluggish, it is no surprise that employees are unhappy with the current situation. Knowing the company all too well, _____ do not see a happy ending for themselves or for Ex-Co.

3.3 Possessive Pronouns Versus Possessive Adjectives

It's easy to confuse possessive pronouns with possessive adjectives. Remember that possessive adjectives, like all adjectives, describe something. They are always used with a noun. Their function is to show ownership—to whom does the object belong?

Did you get your car repaired today?

Compare possessive adjectives with possessive pronouns, which take the place of nouns and are used alone. Nouns do not follow possessive pronouns.

I just got my car repaired. When will you get yours repaired?

This chart compares possessive adjectives with possessive pronouns:

Possessive Adjectives	Possessive Pronouns
my+NOUN	mine
your+NOUN	yours
his, her, its+NOUN	his, hers
our+NOUN	ours
your+NOUN	yours
their+NOUN	theirs

Exercise 3 Read the paragraph and fill in the blanks with the correct possessive adjective or possessive pronoun. The first one has been done for you.

Choosing a university is not an easy task. First, you must decide what your 1 major is going to be. Why is this important? Many schools are famous for certain fields of study, so a university that is famous for _____ business program might 2 not be a good choice for people who want English literature to be _____ field of 3 study. A friend of _____, James, decided to study at the University of Michigan 4 because it has an excellent language program. _____ parents wanted him to stay 5 in California and go to UCLA, but for the program he was interested in, going to a school in Michigan made more sense. Another important factor is tuition. For example, my brother, who worked part time throughout high school, was able to get into a private university. The cost of _____ university is much higher than 6 _____, which, as a public university, costs me 70 percent less per year. _____ 7 choice was purely economic. The bottom line is this: Whatever university you 8 decide on, make the best of _____ choice and take advantage of everything the 9 university has to offer. It can be one of the most important decisions of _____ life. 10

3.3.1 Possessive Pronouns and Antecedent Agreement

In writing, one of the most prevalent pronoun errors occurs with agreement. Make sure that pronouns always agree with their antecedents in number (singular or plural), and in gender. (See Section 3.1 for a definition of antecedent.)

The boys always ride to school on their bikes.

The possessive adjective their (plural) agrees with the noun boys (plural).

Britney usually calls her friends after school.

The possessive adjective her agrees with the noun Britney (singular, feminine).

Incorrect: Each person in this class should have ~~their~~ own textbook.

The possessive adjective their is plural, but its antecedent, person, is singular. You can correct this error in two ways:

1. Change the possessive pronoun to the singular his or her.

Each person in this class should have his or her own textbook.

However, many writers do not like the use of “his or her” because it is wordy.

2. Make the subject plural: people.

People in this class should have their own textbook.

An important additional benefit to using plural subjects is that verbs in the present tense do not need an -s ending. In other words, you are less likely to make mistakes with subject-verb agreement if the subject is plural. Remember this good strategy in your writing!

Exercise 4

The following paragraph contains seven errors concerning pronouns or possessive adjectives. Underline the errors and write a correction above each one.

Irrigation

Irrigation management is an interesting field, especially in places where water supplies are low. Irrigation experts have various tasks such as taking soil samples, checking existing water tables, and projecting the amount of rain for the future. These people usually get his degrees from irrigation institutes. Them study many years in order to become familiar with the various tasks involved in her profession. For some of they, a job with local water authorities is a good place to begin his career. Others prefer to find jobs as contractors, working independently to aid farmers with our irrigation needs. Whatever the job, irrigation experts are becoming increasingly important. Water is a precious commodity, and they cannot be taken for granted.

3.4 Reflexive Pronouns

When both the subject and the object refer to the same person or thing, you can use a reflexive pronoun as the object, or second noun. The reflexive pronoun refers to the subject. Here are the reflexive pronouns:

myself yourself himself herself ourselves yourselves themselves itself

The children saw themselves on the television monitor.

The skier hurt himself when he veered off the main ski slope.

Do not use a reflexive pronoun after a preposition unless the pronoun is the same as the subject.

Incorrect: My sisters laughed at myself when I dyed my hair.

Correct: My sisters laughed at me when I dyed my hair.

Correct: I laughed at myself when I dyed my hair. (The subject pronoun I and the object of the preposition pronoun myself are the same person.)

Reflexive pronouns are never used as subjects.

The following are NOT grammatically correct English words:

hisself ourselfs theirselves

Editing

Exercise 5

Read each sentence. If it is correct, put a C in the blank. If there is an incorrect pronoun, put an X in the blank and make the correction above the error.

- _____ 1. The defendant looked around and silently asked herself how the jury felt about her.
- _____ 2. At the same time, the members of the jury were probably asking themselves how they got chosen to participate in the trial.
- _____ 3. The prosecuting attorney questioned the defendant about whether she had incriminated herself by not answering a previous question.
- _____ 4. During closing remarks, the jury members wondered how many times the defense attorney had listened to himself practice that speech.
- _____ 5. Since the trial took longer than expected, the judge asked that the jury members be sequestered in a hotel, without any access to outside information. This event put themselves in a difficult position.
- _____ 6. With no access to newspapers, television, or any source of outside information, the members of the jury had to find other ways of entertaining themselves while they were sequestered.
- _____ 7. The jury foreman promised hisself that he would remain calm during deliberations.
- _____ 8. After the trial, one of the jury members said, "We certainly didn't enjoy ourselfs during this time, but serving on this jury was our civic duty."

3.4.1 Using Reflexive Pronouns for Emphasis

You may hear reflexive pronouns used to emphasize a point. In this case, the reflexive pronoun means the same thing as the noun or pronoun it refers to, or reflects.

I don't know what you want to do, but I myself want to go to the park.

It was he himself who built the tree house in the backyard.

We enjoyed the play itself but not the musical score.

When using reflexive pronouns, be careful with prepositions. Note the differences in meaning between these sentences:

Lisa painted herself green for the Halloween party. (Lisa painted her body.)

Lisa painted by herself. (Lisa painted alone; we don't know what she painted.)

Exercise 6 Fill in the blanks in the following paragraph with reflexive pronouns or with prepositions (for example, for, at, of, and by) and reflexive pronouns. The first one has been done for you.

Personal Ambition

Richard is an ambitious young man. He lives by himself and never asks for help from anyone. He is an accomplished painter. In fact, he has recently painted a self-portrait. He never officially studied art, but he _____ says that there is nothing a person cannot learn by practicing. When Richard first started painting, the results were not so good. Richard, always a good sport, just laughed _____ and 3 tried again. He doesn't feel sorry _____ when he makes a mistake. He learns from 4
his mistakes and goes on. At a special art auction held last week, one of his paintings sold for more than $1,000! He was very proud _____! The buyers _____ were 5 6 surprised that Richard was a novice painter. Richard _____ was not; he knows how much he can accomplish in his life.

3.5 You, one, and they Used as Indefinite Pronouns

You can use the indefinite pronouns you, one, and they in general terms.

One never knows what can happen during a long trip. (One refers to any person. This use is more formal than you.)

Credit card companies can harass you if you don't pay your bill on time. (You refers to any person. This use is considered informal. Some instructors may consider this word too informal for academic writing. Follow your course guidelines.)

They ski in the Alps, but I'd be afraid to. (They refers to people in general. Do not use in formal speech or writing. Instead, use a specific noun, such as "Many Swiss" instead of "They" in this example.)

Exercise 7 Read the following dialogue. Above the underlined indefinite pronouns, write the person or people these pronouns refer to. The first one has been done for you.

Joanne: Hi, Gina. What's new?

Gina: Don't ask! I'm mad!

Joanne: Why? Who are you mad at?

People who work in travel agencies

Gina: A travel agency. They never get anything right.

Joanne: What happened?

Gina: I booked a flight and cruise to Mexico for spring break.

Joanne: And?

Gina: You know the saying "You should always double-check everything"?

Joanne: Sure. You never know the kinds of mistakes people will make.

Gina: Well, I should've listened to that advice. I bought my tickets and thought everything was fine until I noticed that the dates were all wrong! And my tickets are nonrefundable. Now it's too late to change the tickets.

Joanne: Can you talk to someone at the agency? Complain maybe?

Gina: You know how they are ... everything's about contracts and reading the fine print.

I'm stuck with these tickets, and the travel dates, unfortunately, fall during final exams this semester.

Joanne: Hmm. Maybe you could talk to your professors about changing the exam dates. You should never underestimate the flexibility of some instructors.

Gina: Maybe you're right. You never know! I'll give it a try.

 Exercise 8

In each item, one of the four underlined words or phrases is not correct. Circle the letter of the error and write the correction above the error.

1. Mike flew to Toronto to be with her sister. It had been over two years since they had seen each other.
D

2. Everyone in the airplane terminal moved quickly out of their airport lounges except the people who were in the jetway at the time.
A B
C D

3. Mike took so many suitcases with him on vacation. He even brought himself laptop, seven paperbacks, and his sister's CD player. His sister and he bought it a few years ago.
A B C
D

4. It was the airline union that worked to give their members a new deal including more
A B sick leave, a higher salary, better benefits for ramp workers and their families, and a more solid pension plan.

CHAPTER QUIZ

Exercise 9 Circle the letter of the correct answer. Be prepared to explain your answers.

- At the beginning of the semester, we asked our professor for his guidelines for writing our final research paper. Based on what _____ told us, we must cite at least ten articles and two books.
A. he
B. himself
C. his
D. Ø
- Many of my classmates checked with fellow students who have taken this course with Dr. Thompson. It seems that a 20-page research paper is standard for most of _____ courses.
A. Dr. Thompson
B. himself
C. his
D. Ø
- At our first class meeting, Dr. Thompson clearly stated, "It goes without saying that all students are supposed to do _____ own original research, which means that no one should use any material from any outside source without citing it appropriately in the paper."
A. they
B. them
C. their
D. theirs
- Unfortunately, when reading the submissions, Professor Thompson found two students who had apparently copied substantial portions of _____ final papers from the Internet.
A. they
B. themselves
C. their
D. theirs
- Not surprisingly, both students denied this serious charge. When Professor Thompson showed them the Internet site that closely resembled their papers, the students insisted that there was no proof of plagiarism in their research papers and that, in fact, _____ was the original and the Internet version was the plagiarized paper!
A. they
B. themselves
C. their
D. theirs
- The students discussed this serious charge with the professor and then the department chair, but _____ were not satisfied with the result.
A. they
B. themselves
C. their
D. theirs

Verb Tense Review

This chapter reviews the verb tenses in English. In Chapter 5, you will work with specific problems that many writers have with verb tenses.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Three of the five underlined words or phrases contain an error related to verb tenses. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Terrorist Attacks

The September 11, 2001, attack on the World Trade Center by terrorists who hijacked two civilian airliners and were using them as missiles against the twin towers had left the nation stunned, angry, and determined to bring those who orchestrated the attack to justice. Unknown to American intelligence, in 1999 a group of terrorists in Germany led by Mohammed Atta has already formulated their plan to attack the United States.

4.1 Verb Tenses in English

The following chart gives you an overview of the twelve verb tenses in English. Then each tense is treated separately with examples of form and the most common uses, followed by practice exercises.

	REGULAR VERB	IRREGULAR VERB
Present:	I paint	I eat
Present progressive:	I am painting	I am eating
Present perfect:	I have painted	I have eaten
Present perfect progressive:	I have been painting	I have been eating

	REGULAR VERB	IRREGULAR VERB
Past:	I painted	I ate
Past progressive:	I was painting	I was eating
Past perfect:	I had painted	I had eaten
Past perfect progressive:	I had been painting	I had been eating
Future:	I will paint	I will eat
Future progressive:	I will be painting	I will be eating
Future perfect:	I will have painted	I will have eaten
Future perfect progressive:	I will have been painting	I will have been eating

4.2 Present Tense

The present tense takes the form:

VERB or VERB + -s I eat. He eats.

4.2.1 Uses

- For general truths and facts that are not limited to a specific time Water boils at 100° Celsius.
- For a repeated, habitual, or usual action
They play tennis every Saturday morning.
- For information from a book, a poem, research, or other work (this is often called the literary present)
In the play, Romeo and Juliet love each other despite their family differences.
- For a future event (but there should be a future expression, usually an adverb or adverbial phrase)
The flight from Boston to New York departs in fifteen minutes.
- For a future event in an adverb clause. (See Chapter 15 for adverb clauses.)
It is unclear what the world population will be when the United Nations celebrates its 100th birthday in 2045.

Exercise 1 Write one sentence for each of the five uses of the present tense.¹

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

Use 3. _____

Use 4. _____

Use 5. _____

4.3 Present Progressive Tense

The present progressive tense takes the form:

am / is / are + VERB + -ing I am eating.

4.3.1 Uses

1. For an action that is happening at this moment and that will have a definite end

Doctors are meeting in Amsterdam to discuss treatments for AIDS.

2. For a longer action that is happening "now"

"Now" can be a short time such as "at this second" or a longer time such as "today" or "this month / year / decade."

Kevin is working on four projects this month.

3. For a repeated action that causes irritation or problems (often used with the word always)

Politicians are always discussing ways of increasing government spending.

4. For an event in the near future (used with an adverb indicating future)

Twenty students are taking TOEFL next Wednesday.

Remember that we usually put only action verbs in progressive tenses. Therefore, we can say I am going, I am eating, and I am exercising, but we do not usually say I am knowing, I am having, or I am being. However, it is possible to put nonaction (stative) verbs in the progressive whenever they have an “action” meaning.

I am having a problem. He is being impolite.

Exercise 2 Write one sentence for each of the four uses of the present progressive tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

Use 3. _____

Use 4. _____

4.4 Present Perfect Tense

The present perfect tense takes the form:

have / has + PAST PARTICIPLE I have eaten.

4.4.1 Uses

1. For an action that started in the past and continues in the present

California has been a state since 1850.

2. For an action that has just been completed

We have just finished Unit 7.

3. For a past action that still has an effect on the present

The government has raised taxes, and many companies have laid off workers.

4. For an action that happened several times (no specific past time) and may happen again

The government has increased the sales tax three times.

5. To indicate that you have (or don't have) the experience of doing something (no specific past time)

Have you ever read Hamlet?

6. For a change or an accomplishment that has occurred (no specific past time)

Because of the high demand for oil, the price of gasoline has increased.

Scientists have cloned a sheep and a cat.

7. To indicate an unfinished action that may happen (no specific past time)

The judge has not decided the fate of the criminal yet.

Exercise 3 Write one sentence for each of the seven uses of the present perfect tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

Use 3. _____

Use 4. _____

Use 5. _____

Use 6. _____

Use 7. _____

4.5 Present Perfect Progressive Tense

The present perfect progressive tense takes the form:

have / has + been + VERB + -ing I have been eating.

4.5.1 Uses

1. For an action that started in the past and is continuing in the present for a specific duration, with emphasis on the fact that it is still happening

The president has been discussing this problem for more than two years.

2. For an action that started in the past and is continuing in the present for a nonspecific duration, meaning "recently" or "lately"

Congress and the President have been discussing this problem.

Exercise 4 Write one sentence for each use of the present perfect progressive tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

4.6 Simple Past Tense

The simple past tense takes the form:

VERB + -ed I ainted.
or IRREGULAR form I ate.

4.6.1 Uses

1. For an action or condition that was completed in the past

Miners discovered gold in California in 1848.

2. For a series of finished actions

Texas became a state in 1845, and California joined the U.S. in 1850.

Exercise 5 Write one sentence for each use of the past tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

4.6.2 Two Other Expressions for Past Time: used to and would

In English, used to and would also express past tense.

4.6.3 Uses

1. For a past habit or action that is no longer true: used to OR would

When I was a young boy, I used to play tennis after school every day.

When I was a young boy, I would play tennis after school every day.

2. For a past fact that is no longer true: used to

When I was a young boy, my family used to live in Pennsylvania.

Incorrect: When I was a young boy, my family would live in Pennsylvania.

Note that in the question form for used to, the final -d is dropped:

"Did you use to live in Pennsylvania?"

and in the negative form for used to, the final -d is dropped as well:

"I didn't use to like strawberry ice cream."

Incorrect: "I didn't used to like strawberry ice cream."

Exercise 6 Write sentences for the uses of past time with used to and would. For Use 1, write one used to sentence and one would sentence. For Use 2, write one statement, one question, and one negative example using used to.

Use 1. used to _____

would _____

Use 2. statement _____ question _____

negative statement _____

4.7 Past Progressive Tense

The past progressive tense takes the form:

was / were + VERB + -ing I was eating.

4.7.1 Uses

1. For an action in the past that was interrupted

We were eating dinner when the phone rang.

2. For an action that was happening at a specific time

At 7 p.m., we were eating dinner.

3. For background or atmosphere information

When I boarded my flight, I immediately realized that it was not going to be a fun trip. Several people were standing in the aisles. A few children were crying. Another child was standing on the seat next to mine. A tired-looking flight attendant was already staring at her watch even before the door was closed.

Exercise 7 Write one sentence for each use of the past progressive tense. For Use 3, write one longer example using several verbs in the past progressive tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

Use 3. _____

4.8 Past Perfect Tense

The past perfect tense takes the form:

had + PAST PARTICIPLE I had eaten.

4.8.1 Uses

1. For a past action or condition that ended before another past action or condition began
The man told us that we could not play tennis because it had rained too hard.

2. For a past action or past condition that ended before a specific time in the past

When Los Angeles became the capital of California in 1845, it had been a city for only ten years.

Often the past tense can be used instead of the past perfect tense. For example, when before or after is used in the sentence, you know which action happened first.

Kayleen had taken French before she took Spanish.

Kayleen took French before she took Spanish.

In contrast, expressions such as by the time often require the past perfect tense.

Incorrect: By the time he arrived, the meeting began.

Correct: By the time he arrived, the meeting had begun.

Exercise 8 Write one sentence for each use of the past perfect tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

4.9 Past Perfect Progressive Tense

The past perfect progressive tense takes the form:

had + been + VERB + -ing I had been eating.

4.9.1 Use

The past perfect progressive tense describes a continuing action that started in the past before another past action either began or interrupted the first action:

I had been working there for almost five weeks before I received my first check.

Exercise 9 Write a sentence using the past perfect progressive tense.

4.10 Future Tense

The future tense takes the forms:

am / is / are + going to + VERB	I am going to eat .
will + VERB	I will eat .

There are two ways to express the future in English: be going to or will. Many times you may use either verb without any difference in meaning. However, each form also has its special use, and there are times when only one is correct. In general, there are many more uses for be going to than for will. Unfortunately, many nonnative speakers have been taught that will is the better or “more correct” future form. For this reason, the most common error with future tense is for nonnative speakers to overuse will.

4.10.1 Uses

1. For a future plan: be going to
As a result of his speech, I am going to support him in the next election.
Most of my classmates are going to go to Hawaii for New Year’s.
2. For a voluntary action: will (especially as a request or a response)
Ben: Will you carry this bag for me, please?
Sue: Sure, I will.
3. For a promise: will
I will send you a postcard when I’m in Paris next week.
4. For a prediction: will or be going to
In the next decade, consumers will spend more on electronic goods.
In the next decade, consumers are going to spend more on electronic goods.

Exercise 10 Write a sentence for each use of will and be going to.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

Use 3. _____

Use 4. _____

be going to _____

4.11 Future Progressive Tense

The future progressive tense takes the form:

will + be + VERB + -ing I will be eating.

4.11.1 Uses

1. For an “interrupted” action in the future

I will be watching TV when you call at eleven tonight.

2. For picturing the future

In 2050, families will be living in much larger houses. People will no longer be communicating by telephone. Students will be learning from home via the computer and new video machines.

Exercise 11 Write one sentence for each use of the future progressive tense. For Use 2, write one longer example using several verbs in the future progressive tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

4.12 Future Perfect Tense

The future perfect tense takes the form:

will + have + PAST PARTICIPLE I will have eaten.

4.12.1 Uses

1. For a future action that is completed before another future action
I will have worked here for more than five years when I get my promotion.
2. For a future action that is completed before a certain point of time in the future
I will have worked here for more than five years by the year 2010.

Exercise 12 Write a sentence for each use of the future perfect tense.

Use 1. _____

Use 2. _____

4.13 Future Perfect Progressive Tense

The future perfect progressive tense takes the form:

will + have + been + VERB + -ing I will have been eating.

4.13.1 Use

The future perfect progressive tense describes a continuing action that will be finished at a specific time in the future:

The pilots will have been flying for almost fifteen hours by the time we reach Zurich.

Exercise 13 Write a sentence using the future perfect progressive tense.

Exercise 14 Fill in the blanks with the correct forms for the verbs shown. A few answers have been provided for you.

	Work	Talk	Eat
Present:	he works	_____	_____
Present progressive:	_____	they are talking	_____
Present perfect:	_____	_____	_____
Present perfect progressive:	_____	_____	I've been eating Past: used to	_____	_____	_____
would	_____	_____	_____
Past progressive:	_____	_____	_____
Past perfect:	_____	_____	_____
Past perfect progressive:	_____	_____	_____
Future:	_____	_____	_____
Future progressive:	_____	_____	_____
Future perfect:	_____	_____	_____
Future perfect progressive:	_____	_____	_____

Exercise 15

Read the following paragraph and look at the seven underlined verbs. Five of them contain an error. Circle the errors and write the corrections above. Explain to a partner why the other two are correct.

True-False Questions on a Test

Answering true-false questions on a test is tricky, but there were certain ¹ things that you should know about these tests. Most true-false tests are containing ² more true statements than false statements simply because they are made up by teachers. Since teachers prefer to leave true information in your mind, they usually had stacked ³ the test with true statements. Of course, some teachers will fool you, but after the first test, you'll know ⁴ for sure. On a true-false test, it was ⁵ a good idea to guess at answers that you do not know even if credit is subtracted for wrong answers. According to the laws of probability, you should get 50 percent right when you will guess ⁶ even if you know ⁷ nothing about the subject matter. If you are able to make intelligent guesses, you should be able to do much better than that.

Exercise 16

Read the whole paragraph. For each pair of blanks, fill in the first blank with the name of the correct verb tense and the second blank with the verb in that tense. The first one has been done for you.

Advertising

More than 125 years ago, the Campbell Soup Company (introduce) past/introduced ¹ canned condensed soup and (give) _____ / _____ the world its first ² convenience food. Since then, those well-known red-and-white labels and the sigh "M'm! M'm! Good!" (become) _____ / _____ icons of American culture. Although sales of the popular brand total $4.3 billion and Campbell's brands currently (account) _____ / _____ for 80 percent of canned 4 soup sold in the United States, the company (face) _____ / _____ 5 declines in domestic sales. Turning to global markets, Campbell executives (hope) _____ / _____ that in the very near future, more than half of the 6 firm's profits (come) _____ / _____ from foreign sales.

 7

Exercise 17 Read the following paragraph and underline the correct verb forms in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

Tales from Literature

In the history of English, tale (is, had been) a close cousin of tell; stories
 1
 (have, will have) a much longer association with voices than with pages. Some of the greatest and most familiar tales (are being, were) told for centuries before they 3
 2
 (had been, were) written down by folklorists such as the Brothers Grimm. When 4 we read them, we notice how much there (has been, is) to hear. The peasants and townspeople who (recite, recited) their tales for the Brothers Grimm 6
 5
 (had, will have) memorized them word for word as a magician might memorize
 7
 a spell (and indeed, in medieval German and English, the word spell might mean either a story or an incantation). A story (changes, would change) gradually 8
 over decades of telling, but a traditional tale was not to be loosely paraphrased.
 The telling, that is, the spell, required certain syllables in a certain order. In this respect, the traditional tale is more like a poem or song than it (is, was) like most 9 modern novels, which (will not be, are not) intended to be read aloud, let alone 10 memorized.

CHAPTER QUIZ

Exercise 18 Circle the letter of the correct answer. Be prepared to explain your answers.

A. have recycled and reused
B. had recycled and reused
C. recycled and reused
D. recycle and reuse
7. Lebesch and Jordan _____ the entrepreneurial spirit of the workforce through employee ownership. In fact, employees share in decisions, serve as taste testers, and receive detailed information about NBB's financial performance.
A. unleash
B. have unleashed
C. had unleashed
D. would unleash

Problems With Verb Tenses

This chapter focuses on three of the most common problems that writers have with verb tenses: (1) incorrect forms, (2) shifts in verb tense, and (3) confusing verb tenses. As you study this chapter, you can refer to Chapter 4 for examples of the forms of the verb tenses.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Five of the eight underlined words or phrases contain an error related to verb tenses. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Thematic Apperception Test

Harvard psychologist Henry Murray has developed the Thematic Apperception Test (TAT) in the 1930s (Murray, 1938). The test consists of a set of pictures depicting ambiguous scenes that may be interpreted in different ways. In this test, a subject had been asked to tell a story about the scene, what led up to these events, and what the eventual outcome had been. Murray believed that the stories that people tell revealed aspects of their own personalities.

From: J. Nevid (2007). Essentials of Psychology: Concepts and Application. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 496.

5.1 Problems With Verb Forms

English has twelve verb tenses (see Chapter 4 for more information), but five verb tense forms often give writers the most trouble:

- 5.1.1. Progressive tenses
- 5.1.2. Passive voice and past participle
- 5.1.3. Perfect tenses, past participle, and have
- 5.1.4. Do and the form of the verb
- 5.1.5. Modals and the verb

Study the following rules, errors, and correct examples. Do you sometimes make these errors in your writing? Do you know when and why?

5.1.1 Progressive Tenses and -ing

With a progressive tense, it is easy to forget the -ing. The rule is:

Use be + PRESENT PARTICIPLE (base verb plus -ing) for a progressive tense.

Don't forget the -ing.

While passengers on long international overnight flights are sleeping, the pilots are working hard to make the flight as smooth as possible.

5.1.2 Passive Voice and Past Participle

In passive voice, some writers forget to use the past participle form of the verb. The rule is:

Use be + PAST PARTICIPLE (base verb plus -ed) for the passive voice.

After the exams have been graded, they will be returned to the students.

5.1.3 Perfect Tenses, Past Participle, and have

For perfect tenses, you need to use the past participle with the correct form of have (have, has, had, will have). The rule is:

Use have + PAST PARTICIPLE for perfect tenses.

We had visited Los Angeles before the last earthquake struck, but we have not gone back since then. (The past participle of go is irregular: gone.)

5.1.4 Do and the Form of the Verb

With do / does / did, don't put an -s or -ed on the verb. The rule is:

Use the base form of the verb with do / does / did.

Do not add any endings to a verb following do / does / did.

How many people do you expect to attend the gathering this Saturday evening?

5.1.5 Modals and the Verb

With modals, such as would, may, can, some writers make the mistake of adding the word to before the verb or adding an ending (-s, -ed, -ing) to the verb. The rule is: Use only the base form of the verb after modals. Do not use to after modals. Do not add any endings to the verb.

Some scientists will participate in the experiment, but others may refuse to do so.

Exercise 1 As you read the paragraph, underline the correct verb forms. The first one has been done for you.

The Architecture of the Golden Gate Bridge

Millions of people all over the world have (see, saw, seen, seeing) the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, so people now (equate, equated, equating) the Golden Gate Bridge with the city of San Francisco. Though they know that the Golden Gate Bridge is in San Francisco, what they do not (know, knew, known, knowing) is that the nickname of this structure was “the bridge that couldn’t (be, been, being) (build, built, building).” The idea of the construction of a bridge across San Francisco Bay had (be, been, being) (discuss, discussed, discussing) for years before the construction of the Golden Gate Bridge was actually (start, started, starting) in 1933. This bridge was (consider, considered, considering) impossible to build for a variety of reasons. First of all, the weather in the area—with high winds, rain, and fog—was rarely good. Second, engineers (think, thought, thinking) that the strong ocean currents in the bay meant that the bridge could not (to be, be, been, being) (construct, constructed, constructing). In addition, they were (concern, concerned, concerning) about how the strong winds in the area would

(to affect, affect, affected, affecting) any large structure. Finally, it was the Depression.

14

The poor economy was (cause, caused, causing) people to experience incredible

15 difficulties, so many people thought that it would (to be, be, been, being) foolish to spend such a large amount of money on such an impossible project. Getting the funds to build a bridge of this magnitude was a monumental task. In fact, it took four times as long to collect enough money to build the bridge as it actually took to build the bridge. Despite all these hindrances, the bridge was (erect, erected, erecting) in four and a half years at a cost of 36 million dollars. The cost was high not only in monetary terms but also in human life: fourteen lives were (lose, lost, losing) during the construction of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Exercise 2 As you read the paragraph, fill in each blank with the correct form of the verb in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

Political Parties in the U.S.

In every presidential election since 1952, voters across the nation (have) have 1
(be) been (ask) asked, "Generally speaking, do you usually (think) _____ of 2 3 4 yourself as a Republican, a Democrat, an independent, or what?" Most voters (think) 5 _____ of themselves as either Republicans or Democrats, but the number of those who think of themselves as independents (have) _____ (increase) _____ 6 7

5.2 Maintaining the Same Verb Tense

In a nutshell, this is the rule for being consistent with verb tenses: Do not change verb tense in a paragraph unless you have a specific reason for doing so.

A common error made by writers is an incorrect shift in verb tense. For example, if your paragraph is about the history of a country, most of the verbs will be in the past tense. If your paragraph tells how a machine works, most of the verbs should be in the present tense. Pay careful attention to the topic that you are writing about because a topic usually has a certain range of verb tenses normally associated with that topic.

5.2.1 When a Tense Shift Is Correct

Sometimes a shift in verb tense is necessary, but it is important to consider the time of the action of the verb and its relationship to other actions or events in the paragraph. You may want to state a present fact, such as Nuclear reactors are a huge threat to our well-being.

then explain why you believe this by supporting it with a past historical fact:

The horrible nuclear accident at Chernobyl in 1986 killed almost three thousand people in the immediate and surrounding areas as well as in faraway lands.

This shift from present tense to past tense is logical because the historical event occurred in the past, but nuclear reactors still exist.

5.2.2 Switching Between Present Tense and Past Tense

Shifting between the present and past tense of a verb is the most common shift error.

Error 1: You begin a narrative paragraph in the past tense, shift to present tense, and then shift back to past tense.

Error 2: You start explaining something in the present tense and unexpectedly shift to past tense.

The solution to this problem is to think about the time of each action that you are writing about and to proofread your work carefully with this time in mind.

Exercise 3 As you read the paragraph, find and correct ten errors in shifting verb tenses. Be sure to take into account the time of the action.

Buying a Used Car

One of the worst experiences that I have ever gone through was buying a used car. I had heard many things—both good and bad—about buying a used car, but I never think anything bad would happen to me. I respond to an advertisement in the local newspaper. After I was calling the person and I made arrangements to see the car with him, I went to the owner's house and take the car for a test drive. The car seemed fine, but of course I took it to a car repair shop to have a professional mechanic look it over. Once he tells me that the car seems okay to him, I paid $2,900 cash for the car. The owner assured me that everything in the car was working fine. Unfortunately, less than a month after I buy the car, the engine started making noises. Soon after, the car stopped running completely. I called the owner, but legally, he did not have any obligation to me. I quickly learn the meaning of the phrase "as is." In the end, I have to pay an additional $2,000 to have a new engine installed. Therefore, my used car ends up costing me almost $5,000. In hindsight, I could have used that sum as a large down-payment on a brand-new car.

Exercise 4

As you read the paragraph, find and correct seven errors in shifting verb tenses. Be sure to take into account the time of the action.

Censoring Music

One of the basic rights that we enjoy is freedom of speech, and this includes our right to listen to any kind of music that appealed to us. However, some of the music that is currently being played on the radio is obscene and should be banned. I don't have any children, but I do have* a seven-year-old niece. While I was driving her to school the other day, we were talking and listening to the radio. One of the songs on the radio is about sex and had some foul language in it. My niece asks me what one of the words meant. Clearly, what children heard has an influence on them. While I agree with the concept of free speech, I also thought that everyone had an obligation to set limits and not cross those lines. When songs deal with sex and use foul language, I think that the limit will be breached. This is not censoring; it is common sense.

Exercise 5

As you read the paragraph, find and correct thirteen errors in shifting verb tenses. Be sure to take into account the time of the action.

Working as a Server

Everyone has eaten in a restaurant, but I wonder how many people really know how hard a server's job is. I have been a server for almost five years. At first, it was a part-time job, but now it is my main job. I worked at a small upscale restaurant called the White Wolf Café. The restaurant served dinner from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m., but my shift runs from 4 p.m. to midnight. I get to work a few minutes before 4:00. After I have clocked in, I start folding napkins. Sometimes I had to help set silverware on the tables, but sometimes someone else takes care of that task. Though

* Do/does/did + VERB is the emphatic form: I do have a car. I did study the material.

we open at 5:00, hardly any customers showed up till around 5:30 or 6:00. For the rest of the evening, my job entailed greeting customers who are sitting in my section, which consisted of six tables. I explain things on the menu, take people's drink orders, take their food orders, and made sure that customers have what they need. I think that I am a good server because I am good at anticipating what people needed before they ask for it, and customers appreciated my service. The work is hard, but I enjoy working with people. The only negative aspect of this job is dealing with rude or difficult customers, but this was part of every job that deals with the public. We stopped serving food from the kitchen at 10:00, but some customers did not leave until 11:00. I have to stay until midnight to clean up and then organize some things for the next day. My job as a server is not an easy one, but I love this job and cannot imagine doing anything else.

Exercise 6 Analyze Real Language for Verb Tenses

Select a paragraph from an article or website that you find interesting. Underline all of the verbs in the excerpt. Work with a partner to identify and give a reason for the tense of each verb. Remember that some verb tense shifts, for example, are correct in moving from a present fact to the past history of how that fact came about. In your excerpt, can you find examples of verb tense shifts? Explain why the writer made these shifts.

5.3 Confusing Verb Tenses

In English, there are twelve verb tenses. (See Chapter 4.) Some tenses are easy to use; others are more difficult. A few verb tenses are easily confused with others. Most of the confusion centers around four verb tenses, all of which have a connection to past time.

5.3.1 Past Tense

Use the past tense when you are referring to an action that is finished:

Lincoln governed the United States during a difficult period.

Common errors that happen when you mean to use past tense:

Past progressive: Lincoln was governing ... (indicates a longer action that was interrupted)

Past perfect: Lincoln had governed ... (indicates that one past action happened before another past action)

5.3.2 Present Perfect Tense

- Use the present perfect tense when you are referring to an action that began in the past and continues now:

The U.N. has solved world problems for five decades.

- Use the present perfect tense when you are referring to an action that is important now:

The government has reformed the tax system.

- Use the present perfect tense when you are referring to a past action with an indefinite time, especially an accomplishment:

Scientists have discovered how aspirin works.

Common errors that happen when you mean to use present perfect tense:

Present progressive: The U.N. is solving ... (indicates an action that is continuing right now)

Past tense: Scientists discovered ... (indicates an action that is finished, with no relationship to the present; often used with a specific past time)

Present perfect is often used for a past action when that action is relevant or important to the new information being presented. Consider this example from a conversation:

Ann: It's hot in here!

Pedro: I know, but I've turned on the air conditioner, so we have to wait a few minutes.

The action of turning on the air conditioner is clearly a past action, but we use present perfect tense to show that it has a relationship to Ann's first statement "It's hot in here!"

5.3.3 Past Progressive Tense

- Use the past progressive tense when you want to set the scene or atmosphere in prose:

What a scene! A mother was trying to quiet her children.

- Use the past progressive tense when you are referring to a longer action that was interrupted:

The cashier was studying a receipt when the phone rang.

The flight was going smoothly when the pilot received a radio message about possible bad weather.

Common errors that happen when you mean to use past progressive tense:

Incorrect: The cashier is studying a receipt when the phone rang. (Use of the present tense makes the verb tenses inconsistent.)

Incorrect: The flight went smoothly when the pilot received ... (Use of the past tense implies a sequence of events instead of one event that was interrupted by another event.)

5.3.4 Past Perfect Tense

Use the past perfect tense when you are referring to a past action that happened before another action:

I had never lived abroad before, so living in Malaysia was difficult.

A common error that happens when you mean to use past perfect tense:

Past tense: I never lived abroad ... (Indicates that you are talking about one event that was not necessarily completed before the second event.)

Exercise 7 Read the paragraph and underline the correct verb tenses. Distinguish between using the past tense, the present perfect tense, and the past perfect tense. Be sure to take into account the time of the action. The first one has been done for you.

Exercise 8 Each of the following statements contains a puzzle. Read each one and then answer the questions. Be sure to identify the verb tenses in your answer and explain what they mean. The first one has been done for you.

1. Karen was writing a book in 1995. Lynn wrote a book in 1997. One of these books was published in 1998. Whose book was it? Lynn's How do you know?

The past tense verb "wrote" shows that the book was completed, while the past progressive tense verb "was writing" shows that the writing continued and may still continue.

2. Tom has been ill since last week. Jerry was sick last week. Which person might not be ill now? _____ How do you know?

3. Mohammed lived in Pakistan for twelve years. Twi has lived in Turkey since 1999.

Hussein used to live in Syria. Which of these people might live in the U.S. now?

_____ How do you know?

4. When the lights went out last night, Kevin was studying. Jack had studied. Who is probably better prepared to take the test today? _____ How do you know?

5. Luke, Kyle, and Rick share an apartment. At 9:15 last night, the phone rang. Luke had taken a shower, Kyle was going to take a shower, and Rick was taking a shower. Which one could not answer the phone? _____ How do you know?

6. Explain what the time of the action means in each sentence:

a. When the phone rang, I was eating. _____

b. When the phone rang, I ate. _____

c. When the phone rang, I had eaten. _____

d. When the phone rang, I was going to eat. (More common: When the phone rang, I was about to eat.) _____

e. When the phone rang, I had been eating. _____

■ ORIGINAL WRITING

Exercise 10 Write a paragraph about either (1) an important current event or (2) an important recent problem.

- Tell what the current situation is, why or how this event or problem happened (including when it began), and what is going to happen next.
- Use both affirmative and negative forms.

Try not to shift tenses unnecessarily or confuse any tenses. Underline all of the verbs. Exchange paragraphs with a partner and check each other's work for correct verb tenses.

Subject-Verb Agreement

This chapter covers subject-verb agreement, including these problematic categories:

- basic subject-verb agreement
- subjects separated from verbs
- indefinite pronouns as subjects
- quantity words as subjects
- plural nouns that take singular verbs

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the three underlined words contain an error related to subject-verb agreement. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Hieroglyphic Systems

Both Mesopotamian cuneiform and Egyptian hieroglyphics was cumbersome systems of writing. In fact, only scribes with many years of training could write them. A form of writing corresponding to our alphabet (from alpha and beta, the first letters of the Greek alphabet) seem to have developed in response to the need of soldiers, traders, and merchants for a more efficient and easier writing system.

From: Witt et al., The Humanities, p. 31.

6.1 Basic Subject-Verb Agreement

This is the main rule to remember about subject-verb agreement: A subject must agree with its verb in number (singular or plural). The rules on the next page show how to form singular and plural verb tenses. In the examples notice how the verb changes to plural when the subject is plural.

1. For a singular third-person subject in present tense, the verb must have an -s ending. For all other subjects, the verb does not end in -s. (Modals never add any ending.)

singular

I live
you live
he / she / it lives

plural

we live
you live
they live

Singular: The President of the U.S. lives in the White House.

Plural: The President's immediate family members live there, too.

2. For the irregular verb be, the singular uses am, are, and is for present tense and was and were for past tense.

singular

I am I was you are you were he / she / it is he / she / it was plural

we are we were you are you were they are they were

Singular: President John Kennedy was assassinated on November 22, 1963.

Plural: On that day, President and Mrs. Kennedy were visiting the city of Dallas.

3. In the following examples, the auxiliary verbs has and have (present perfect) must agree with each subject.

singular

I have you have he / she / it has

plural

we have you have they have

Singular: The White House has had the name "White House" since 1801.

Plural: U.S. presidents have lived in the White House since 1800.

4. In "there + verb" constructions, the word there is never the subject. The subject comes after the verb.

Singular: There seems to be some question about the origin of this container.

Plural: There were several international officials visiting the city yesterday.

Exercise 1 Read the following paragraph. Underline the subjects once and the verbs twice.

Communication

A good story is essential to a good speech. A good story certainly helps a speaker to grab and maintain people's attention. Sources for good stories for speeches are everywhere. You can find stories in children's books and in holy books. You can highlight the exploits of heroes from mythology or movies in order to make a point. Sports celebrities and historical figures often have life stories that you can use to inspire and teach. Personal incidents from your childhood and life-changing events are excellent sources for stories for speeches. In fact, all of us are surrounded by stories. Good speakers keep their eyes and ears open for presentation topics. When they read a compelling story in a newspaper or magazine, they clip it. When they hear someone tell a great story, they write it down.

Adapted from: I. Engleberg and Daly, J. (2005). Presentations in Everyday Life: Strategies for Effective Speaking, 2nd ed. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 300.

6.2 Subjects That Are Separated From the Verb

You may find it more difficult to see the connection between the subject and the verb if there is extra information between them. The extra information can be a prepositional phrase (Chapter 7), an adjective clause (Chapter 14), or a reduced clause (Chapters 14–16). In general, this intervening information does not affect the verb.

The little girl in the light blue jumper and matching tennis shoes is crying.
(prepositional phrase)

The new board members who decided to vote down the proposed stock split are renegotiating their positions. (adjective clause)

The thundershowers pounding the coastline have caused some damage to the sand dunes. (reduced adjective clause)

Exercise 2 Read the following paragraph. Underline the subjects once and the verbs twice.

Business Management—The Subway Story

In 1965, when Fred DeLuca, age seventeen, borrowed $1,000 from Dr. Peter Buck to open a sandwich shop, he did not realize that the two of them were launching an immensely successful global business. At the time, DeLuca and thousands of other college students were thinking about earning money to pay for college. The surprising result was a franchised organization with its name on 16,000 restaurants in seventy-four countries. Today Subway has more U.S. restaurants than McDonald's, and it is second only to McDonald's in the number of outlets worldwide. Nearly four decades after Subway's founding, its growth and enthusiastic customer acceptance around the globe have made DeLuca a billionaire.

Adapted from: W. Pride, Hughes, R., and Kapoor, J. (2005). Business, 8th ed. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 97.

6.3 Indefinite Pronouns as Subjects

The list below shows common indefinite pronouns. Though these pronouns often refer to more than one person or thing, they take a singular verb when they act as the subject.

	every-	some-	any-	no-
-one	everyone	someone	anyone	no one
-body	everybody	somebody	anybody	nobody
-thing	everything	something	anything	nothing

Is anyone coming to the party tomorrow night?

Something has to be done about the increasing crime rate!

If you believe in yourself, nothing is impossible.

Exercise 3 As you read the following paragraph, fill in each blank with the correct form of the verb in parentheses. Be sure the verbs agree with their subjects. The first one has been done for you.

Around here, nothing (get) gets done because everybody (believe) _____ that someone else (be) _____ going to do the work. This is a problem because 3 usually no one actually (do) _____ the work. When nobody (do) _____ the 4 5
1 2
work, everyone (blame) _____ someone else. No one (want) _____ to take 6 7
responsibility. Anyone who can't recognize this paradox probably (have [negative]) _____ much experience in the real work world.
8

6.4 Expressions of Quantity

Quantity expressions can be troublesome when it comes to subject-verb agreement. The rules below govern quantity expressions with both singular and plural verbs.

- When a quantity word is followed by a prepositional phrase, the verb usually agrees with the quantity word.

One of the presidential candidates is in town today.

Three of my classes were canceled yesterday!

- Some expressions of quantity can take either a singular or a plural verb depending on whether the noun in the prepositional phrase is singular or plural.

	Singular	Plural
All of the ...	All of the restaurant was full.	All of the restaurants were full.
A lot of ...	A lot of the money was torn.	A lot of the bills were torn.
Some of the ...	Some of the pizza has been eaten.	Some of the pizzas have been eaten.
One-half (third, quarter) of the ...	One-third of the population is going to vote.	One-third of the people are going to vote.

- The quantity word none takes a singular verb. Remember that none means “not one” (and “one” is singular).

I looked at all the paintings. None is interesting to me.

None of the paintings is interesting to me. (formal)

In spoken English, most people use a plural verb when a plural noun follows none. Never use a plural verb with none in formal academic writing.

Informal use only: None of the paintings are interesting to me.

Exercise 4 Look around your classroom as you complete these sentences. Be sure to consider quantity when choosing a verb. The first one has been done for you.

- One of my classmates is sleeping in class.
- None of my friends _____
- Some of the people in class _____
- Everyone _____
- Some of the desks _____
- No one in the class _____
- One-half of the class _____
- One-half of the students _____

When you use the following quantity words alone as subjects, without objects of prepositions after them, they take the verbs indicated below.

Singular

One is / makes
A little is / falls
Each is / needs
Every is / has

Plural

Both are / need
A few are / fall

Exercise 5 As you read the paragraph, underline the correct form of the verb twice in parentheses.

6.5 Connecting Words and Phrases and Subject-Verb Agreement

The next two sections show some common connecting words and phrases. The agreement of the verb depends on the particular connecting word or phrase.

- With the connecting words neither + nor and either + or, the verb must agree with the subject that is closer to the verb.

Neither the professor nor her students are in the library.

Neither the students nor the professor is in the library.

Either my mother or my uncles are taking a vacation next week.

Either my uncles or my mother is taking a vacation next week.

- With the connecting phrases along with and together with, the verb must agree with the first noun mentioned.

The professor, along with her students, is in the library.

The students, along with their professor, are in the library.

The anatomy books, together with the corresponding instructor's guide, look brand new.

The instructor's guide, together with the corresponding anatomy books, looks brand new.

Exercise 6 The phrases in the first column are subjects, and the phrases in the second column are verbs plus objects or prepositional phrases. Match the second column of verb phrases with their corresponding subjects. One answer will not be used. The first one has been done for you.

- | | | |
|---------------|---|--|
|   c | 1. The committee members, along with the company president, | a. want to change musical style. |
|   | 2. Some of the more recent history books | b. is eligible to become president. |
|   | 3. None of the storm victims | c. are evaluating the annual report. |
|   | 4. Either the romantic comedies or the action film | d. is excited about the performance. |
|   | 5. Everyone in the modern dance class | e. discuss oppression of Native Americans. |
|   | 6. Two-thirds of the band members | f. are going to win the movie award. |
|   | 7. Anyone born in the United States | g. is going to get government aid. |
|   | 8. Half of the class | h. is scheduled to be shown on TV tonight. |
| | | i. isn't ready for the exam. |

A number of Versus the number of

The phrases a number of and the number of have different subject-verb agreement rules:

- The quantity phrase a number of always takes the plural form of the verb.

A number of consulting firm addresses were left to me by my old boss.

- The number of takes the singular verb ending.
The number of consulting firm addresses in the directory is extremely short.
- A number of literally means “quite a few” or “many,” while the number of refers to the actual number or quantity of items, so a number of is plural and the number of is singular.

6.7 Some Nouns That Look Plural But Take a Singular Verb

Some nouns seem to be plural because they end in -s (mathematics) or because they have a number in them (fifty dollars). However, nouns like these take a singular verb.

1. Names of areas of study usually take a singular verb even when the noun has an -s ending.

Mathematics is not an easy subject for many people, including myself.

2. Country names with the plural -s ending take the singular verb form.

The Netherlands is also known as Holland.

3. Expressions of money, time, and distance take the singular verb form.

Fifty dollars for a dinner for one person seems like a lot of money to me.

Exercise 7

The following paragraph contains six errors in subject-verb agreement. Read the paragraph and correct the errors. The first one has been done for you.

Setting Budgets

Kim, along with three of her friends, ^{is} ~~are~~ going to move to New York City next summer. They are all very excited about the move, but they are having some money problems. One of the biggest problems are the amount of money that they have to spend on rent. There are four of them, and a two-room apartment in Manhattan cost almost $3,000. Three thousand dollars are a lot of money to spend every month. Because of this, the friends has been saving money for the past three years. Kim's money, together with the others' funds, is probably going to be enough to pay for half a year. In this way, they don't have to worry too much about finding jobs right away. Kim and her friends wants to be stage performers on Broadway, but they will have to work hard to make it. They have to make a reasonable budget for themselves and stick to it.

Prepositions

In this chapter, you will review and practice the most commonly used prepositions in English. Prepositions come in two basic types: single-word prepositions, such as in and by, and multiword prepositions, such as in front of. Their use can be literal, such as on the table, or idiomatic, such as on the contrary.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Four of the eight underlined words contain an error related to prepositions. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Space Bubble

Every person is surrounded for a psychological bubble of space. The size of the bubble depends in the person's cultural background, emotional state, and the activities in which he or she is participating. Throughout Northern Europe, people tend to prefer a larger zone of personal space and often avoid of touching and close contact. They require of more room around them and structure their lifestyles to meet the need for this space, both in public and in private.

7.1 Common Prepositions

We can group many prepositions into categories such as time, location, or direction. Some prepositions, such as at, are in all three of these categories. Other prepositions need to be memorized and are used with specific nouns, verbs, or adjectives. The exercises in this chapter will offer you practice with different kinds of prepositions. In the chart on the next page, you can see the most common English prepositions. How many do you recognize?

about	beside	inside	past above	besides	in spite of	since across	between	into	through after	beyond	instead of	throughout against	but	like	till
ahead of	by	near	to
along	close to	next to	toward(s)
among	despite	of	under around	down	off	underneath
as	during	on	unlike at	except	onto	until
back to / from	far from	on top of	up before	for	opposite	upon behind	from	out	with below	in	outside	within beneath	in back / front of	over	without

7.2 A Few Basic Rules

These few basic rules about prepositions will help you as you work through this chapter.

1. A preposition is a word that shows the relationship between a noun or a noun equivalent—a noun phrase, a clause (see Chapter 18), or a gerund phrase (see Chapter 10)—and another word in a sentence.

The girls' soccer team played on the new field. (On shows the relationship of the noun field to the verb played.)

2. A preposition always has an object. The object can be a noun, a pronoun, or a noun-equivalent (a noun phrase, a clause, or a gerund phrase). Together they form what is called a prepositional phrase. In the following examples, the preposition is bold and the object is circled. The prepositional phrase is in a box.

They received a notice from Mr. Taft. (object = noun)

They received a notice from him. (object = pronoun)

They received a notice from a young lawyer. (object = noun phrase)

They received a notice from a young lawyer who works downtown. (object = noun phrase + adjective clause)

They received a notice about cleaning their yard. (object = gerund phrase)

3. Some prepositions may be used as adverbs or as particles. Their meanings can be either literal or idiomatic.

He walked up the stairs. (preposition; literal meaning)

Stand up. (adverb)

Look up the rule. (particle; used with the verb look to form one unit of meaning—look up—which is idiomatic)

7.3 Prepositions of Time

Prepositions of time can be about a specific time, a general time, or a length of time.

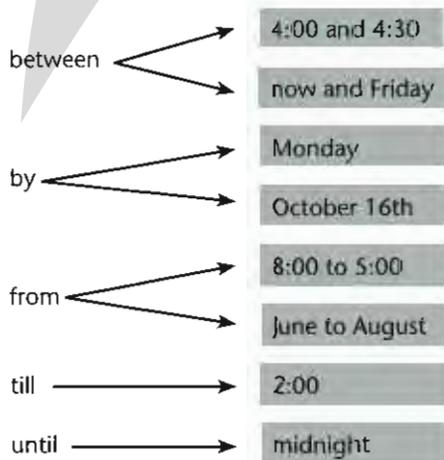

7.3.1 Specific Time

Here is a list of prepositions of specific time:

after	during	past
at	for	since before	from	till
between	in	to
by	on	until

Use these prepositions when you know the specific time, such as at 6:00 or before noon.

Here are more examples:

Expressions of Specific Time

It's 10 to / till 3.

It's ten minutes to 3:00.

It's 20 after / past 7.

It's twenty minutes after 7 o'clock.

in time

They arrived in time to see the opening act. (not too late) on time	They arrived on time for the meeting. (at the required time) out of time	That's it. We're out of time . (The allotted time is over [for us.]

at the end of	The report is due at the end of the day. (when the time ends)

Exercise 1 On a separate sheet of paper, write a short paragraph about how you spend a typical day. Use at least six prepositions and expressions of specific time. Underline the prepositions.

7.3.2 General Time

Use prepositions of general time—at, by, in, on—when you refer to the time of day, a day of the week, a month, a season, or a year.

Exercise 2 Write six sentences about two or more special holiday events and how you have celebrated them. Use each of these prepositions of general time at least once: at, by, in, and on. Circle the prepositions.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

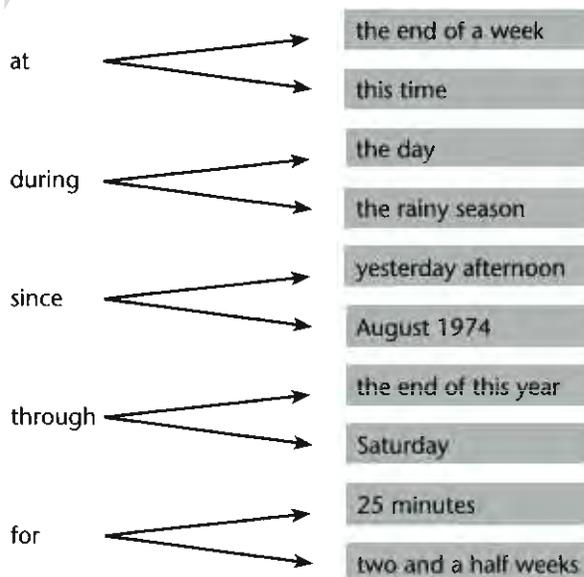

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

7.3.3 Length of Time

The prepositions at, during, since, through, and for indicate a span of time rather than one specific time or a general time.

In English “a half” comes after the number as in “two and a half weeks,” not “two weeks and a half.”

Exercise 3 Fill in the blanks with the correct preposition of specific time, general time, or length of time. The first one has been done for you.

Immigration Office

The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) office is open from 1 9:00 a.m. _____ 5:00 p.m. Monday _____ Friday. It is closed _____ an submit all required paperwork and complete the interview process _____ March _____ 15 16

 of any year should receive notification of approval of citizenship _____ time to _____ 17
 vote in any fall election.

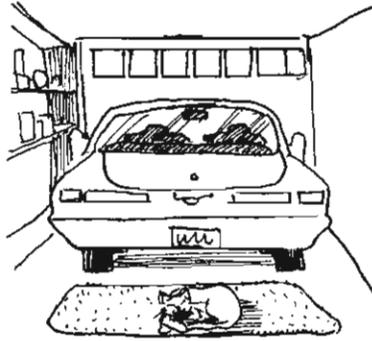

7.4 Prepositions of Location

Prepositions of location tell where something is. Here are the most common ones:

above	behind	close to	near	throughout across	below	far from	next to	under across from	beneath	in	on	underneath
ahead of	beside	in back of*	opposite among	between	in front of*	outside at	by	inside	over

* Pay careful attention to the word the in expressions with these prepositions of location.

in back of

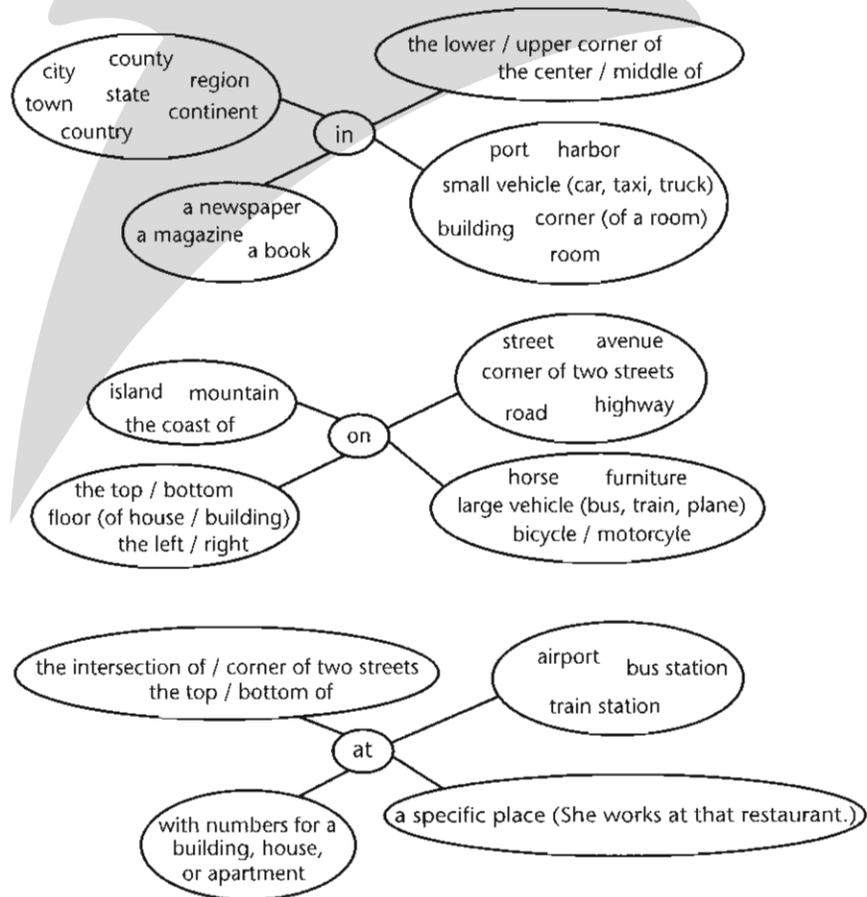

in the back of

The cat is sleeping in back of the car. (behind the car)

The cat is in the back of the car. (inside the back part of the car)

Use the preposition between with two people or things:

Between you and me, I'm really getting tired of this place.

Use among for three or more people or things:

Among all my friends, Joan is the hardest-working one.

7.4.1 Idiomatic Expressions With Prepositions of Location

Here is a list of idiomatic prepositions of location:

in bed (sleeping)	on the bed (sitting)
at home	at work
at / in school	at / in church	at / in the office at the hospital (visiting, working)	in the hospital (a patient)

Exercise 4 As you read the paragraph, choose the correct preposition in parentheses and underline it. The first one has been done for you.

Susana's Trip

Susana was (in, at) home on Tuesday, standing (in front of, in the front of) the window (in, on) her living room (at, on) the eighteenth floor of Ocean Towers, her apartment building. As she gazed out the window, she saw the marina (behind, below) her.

Scattered (outside, throughout) the marina were small boats, some tied to the docks and others sitting (between, among) the many buoys (at, in) the harbor. (On, In) her left, Susana saw a cruise ship sailing into port. She watched as the tugboat (beneath, behind) the ship guided it to its berth. Passengers (in, on) the ship were (over, outside) standing (at, on) the decks and waving to people (at the bottom of, below) them.

Susana wished she could take a cruise. It had always been her dream. She imagined herself (at, on) an island, surrounded (by, close to) deep blue water and (across from, far from) everyone and everything.

Suddenly, Susana heard the sound of the intercom (in front of, near) the front door. It was the doorman, buzzing to let her know that the taxi she had called for had arrived. In a couple of hours, she would be (on, at) the airport, sitting (on, at) a plane headed for the Arctic Circle, (in the top of, at the top of) the world. The 21

 Arctic Circle was as (far to, far from) a tropical island as a person could get. Susana 22 shivered as she closed the door to her apartment and waited (near to, next to) the 23 elevator. She'd rather be headed for a vacation (on, beside) that island!

7.5 Prepositions of Direction or Movement

These prepositions indicate a specific direction or a movement in a direction:

across	back to / from	in / into	past along	by	off	through around	down	onto	to
at	for	out of	toward
away from	from	over	up

Here are some examples:

If you go across the road, you'll see the entrance to the trail. (across applies to a flat area, such as a road, a parking lot, or a bridge)

You'll have to go over a hill before you see the pond. (over refers to an up/down movement, such as over a hill, a fence, or a bridge)

When you go through the Millers' garden, you'll know it's the end of the trail. (through indicates something having two sides or entrance/exit, such as a window, a garden, or a city)

7.5.1 Expressions With Prepositions of Direction or Movement

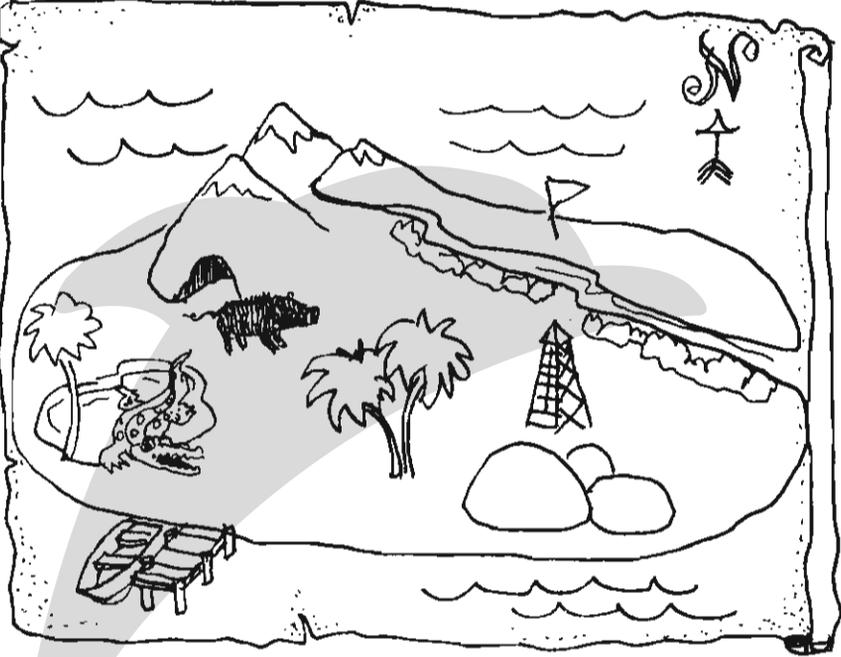

Here are some expressions using prepositions of direction or movement:

- arrive in a city, state, country
I arrived in Dallas yesterday.
- arrive at other places (restaurant, school, or work)
I arrived at the bank late.
- go to or leave for a place
I left for the airport at noon.
- go from a place to another place
I went from Miami to New York.

Exercise 5

Read the following directions for the treasure map. Underline the thirteen prepositions that show direction or movement. Correct the five that are wrong. The first one has been underlined for you.

Treasure Map

First, climb out of the boat. Walk along the pier out of the shore. When you get to the shore, turn east and go past the palm trees. Near the palm trees are some huge boulders. Climb by the boulders and head for the tower. Walk around the tower and through the bushes that run into the stream. Go across the stream, away from the tower. Soon you will see a flag on a pole. Dig until you find the box buried beneath the pole. Head back from your boat at the dock.

Exercise 6 In the space provided, write a paragraph describing a trip that you have taken or would like to take. Use at least eight direction / movement prepositions in your paragraph. Be sure to underline them.

7.6 Prepositions in Idioms

Some prepositions occur with nouns to form idiomatic expressions. Review the phrases on the next page. You must learn these combinations as a unit. There is no rule to explain when to use a certain preposition with a specific noun.

PREPOSITION + NOUN

at	on	out of	in odds	hold	control	a hurry
risk	sale	order	control
war	vacation	time	danger
work	loan	shape	debt
	one hand		luck
	the other hand		love shape trouble pain person public private

For more information on preposition combinations, see Chapter 13.

Exercise 8

In each item, one of the four underlined words or phrases is not correct. Circle the letter of the error and write the correction above the error.

1. Our dog Ginger loves to roam around the house. Currently, she's sleeping in the back of the van, so be careful not to hit her as you leave the driveway. You don't want to run her over.
2. We got Ginger in 2003 when she was six weeks old. She was so scared to be in a new environment that she spends most of her time in the bedroom closet.
3. Now Ginger owns the house and acts like the queen of the castle. You can find her under the bed, on the couch, and even below the pool.
4. Even though we've tried to train her to stay off the furniture, she rarely listens. Right now she's sleeping on bed. Yesterday she escaped from the back yard. We found her two hours later on the corner of Main Street and Himes Avenue.

Central Asia

Central Asia offers possibilities for imaginative travelers to experience new horizons. The many cities available to travelers include the pristine mountains of Kyrgyzstan, the historic cities found in Uzbekistan, and the picturesque countrysides of Kazakhstan. The relatively unknown areas offer alternative venues to the more popular areas of Europe, South America, and Asia. As the local economies are growing slowly, Central Asian prices are relatively cheap. Visitors can witness not only natural beauty but also towns and cities rich in history. Opulent mosques and palaces can be seen in the regional capitals of Central Asia. For a truly unforgettable experience, Central Asia has numerous venues of interest for the brave traveler.

Modals: Present, Future, Past

Modals are used with verbs to express many different meanings, such as the speaker's attitude or point of view about an action. You use modals in your everyday English speaking and writing now, but this review helps ensure that you are using modals correctly. In this chapter, a brief review of modals for the present and future is given before the longer explanations about past modals. Especially in writing, it is important to use the correct modal at the appropriate time while avoiding common mistakes.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Three of the four underlined modal phrases contain an error related to modals. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Internet Business

For a new Internet business, a good e-business plan should to offer detailed answers to basic questions. To begin, the planners need to determine if an Internet business will meet the needs of a group of customers. Furthermore, the planning process should provides planners with information than can helping them to identify and select groups of potential buyers, direct development of the online product or service, as well as the promotion, pricing, and distribution effort.

From: Pride et al., Business, p. 120.

9.1 Modals

Modals can be a single word or a multiword unit. Some single-word modals have a multiword counterpart.

Single	Multiword
will	be going to
must*	have to*
should	ought to
can OR could	be able to should	had better may might
shall

* The modals must and have to are used for necessity, but must is much more formal.

 The modals should and had better are similar in meaning but cannot always be used interchangeably. Had better is much stronger and implies a warning of some kind.

9.2 Meanings of Modals

One of the most difficult aspects of modals is their meanings. Each modal has a unique meaning, but one modal may also have multiple meanings and usages.

Meaning	Modal Example Sentences
Permission	May I leave as soon as I finish the exam? (formal) Can I leave as soon as I finish the exam? (informal) Would you mind if I asked you your age?
Request	Could you please sign the purchase order for me? Will you hold, please? Would you get the door for me, please?
Certainty, Probability, and Possibility	He will leave at noon. (100% certain) He can leave at noon if he wants. (100% possible) He must be from France. (probable or logical conclusion) He should arrive at 6 p.m. (strong expectation) He may/might/could arrive at 6 p.m. (possible)

Ability	He can run one mile in five minutes. (OR: He is able to run one mile in five minutes.)
Necessity	You must get a visa to enter that country. (OR: You have to get a visa to enter that country.)
Advice and Suggestions	Ella should work harder than she does. (OR: Ella ought to work harder than she does.) I don't think that you should watch so much TV. (OR: I don't think that you ought to watch so much TV.) He had better finish that report by 9:00 tomorrow morning or his boss will be upset. (very strong suggestion that implies that something bad will happen if the advice is not taken) If you're unhappy, just quit. You could start your own business. (offer advice or suggestion; speaker is unsure if listener may take advice; used in affirmative sentences) People might want to file their taxes early. (indirect suggestion)
Prediction, Intention, and Expectation	This new plan will succeed . (prediction or expectation) (OR: This new plan is going to succeed .) The president will allocate more money to schools. (intention) (OR: The president is going to allocate more money to schools.) The movie is supposed to be on Channel 8 at 10:00 p.m. (a planned event; conveys expectation) The final exam should be easy. (expectation) (OR: The final exam ought to be easy.)

9.3 A Few Basic Rules

These few basic rules about modals will help you as you work through this chapter.

1. The verb following the modal is always the base or simple form.

The professor must plan the final exam soon.

Do not use to between the modal and the verb, as in this error:

Incorrect: The professor must to plan the final exam soon.

Do not add endings to the verb, such as -s, -ing, -ed, as in these errors:

Incorrect: The professor must plans the final exam soon.

Incorrect: The professor must planning the final exam soon.

Incorrect: The professor must planned the final exam soon.

2. Use only one single-word modal with a verb.

The committee might approve the plan today.

Do not use two single-word modals together, as in this error:

Incorrect: The committee might could approve the plan.

It is sometimes possible to use a phrasal modal for the second meaning above:

The committee might be able to approve the plan.

3. Negative modals are formed in this order: MODAL + not + VERB.

She should not be here.

Do not use the auxiliary do/does/did to make a negative modal:

Incorrect: She doesn't should be here.

4. Questions with modals are formed in this order: MODAL + SUBJECT + VERB.

Could you please answer the phone?

Do not use the auxiliary do/does/did to make a question with a modal:

Incorrect: ~~Do you could~~ please answer the phone?

Correct: Could you please answer the phone?

5. Modals can be used with the progressive forms (verb ending in -ing).

We must be going.

I should be studying for tomorrow's exam.

The plane will be leaving in a few minutes.

6. Some modals have contracted forms, but contractions should be avoided in formal writing.

can not OR cannot can't will not won't

Subject + will Subject'll (They'll be late.)

Subject + had better Subject'd better (I'd better leave now.)

9.4 Forms of Past Modals

Past modals consist of three parts: (1) the modal, (2) the word have, and (3) the past participle of the verb. It is the past participle that makes the whole verb past tense. (Reminder: The past participle for regular verbs is the base form of the verb + ed. The past participle of irregular verbs is often formed with -en [spoken] or -ne [done].)

The following sentences give an example of each past modal in this chapter.

We should have hired more workers last year. Now our production has decreased.

Sam must have gone to the beach yesterday. He has a sunburn today.

Hurricane Katrina could have hit New Orleans directly, but it affected areas to the east of the city more.

She might have left her keys on the table, but she is not sure.

It may have rained last night. Look, the grass looks wet.

You would have gotten the job for sure if you had applied for it.

With past modal constructions, you must always use the past participle of the verb after MODAL + have.

Incorrect: She must have take the 7 p.m. flight to New York.

Correct: She must have taken the 7 p.m. flight to New York.

With past modal constructions, never use had; always use have:

Incorrect: She must had taken the 7 p.m. flight to New York.

Correct: She must have taken the 7 p.m. flight to New York.

9.5 The Modal should in the Past

Use should + have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. We use should have + PAST PARTICIPLE when the action (of the verb) did not happen and someone is sorry (regrets) that the action did not happen.

I failed the test. I should have studied last night. (The speaker did not study. The speaker regrets not studying last night.)

2. We use the negative form, should not have + PAST PARTICIPLE, when the action (of the verb) happened and someone is sorry (regrets) that the action happened.

My stomach hurts! I shouldn't have eaten those four doughnuts. (The speaker ate four doughnuts. The speaker regrets eating them.)

Exercise 1 Underline the should have + PAST PARTICIPLE construction in each sentence. Then put a check mark (✓) beside all of the sentences underneath that are true. The first one has been done for you.

1. She should have cooked the beans and the rice in separate pots.

a. She cooked the beans and rice in the same pot.

b. She cooked the beans and rice in two pots.

2. Tom is sure that he shouldn't have traveled to Taiwan in the summer.

a. Tom traveled to Taiwan.

b. Tom regrets traveling to Taiwan.

3. You should have told me this news sooner.
 - _____ a. The speaker now knows the news.
 - _____ b. The speaker still doesn't know the news.

4. I'm sorry for not inviting you to my party. I should have sent you an invitation.
 - _____ a. The speaker invited the person to the party.
 - _____ b. The speaker did not invite the person to the party.

5. Many people think that the U.S. shouldn't have dropped atomic bombs on Japan.
 - _____ a. Many people agree with the use of atomic bombs in World War II.
 - _____ b. Many people disagree with the use of atomic bombs in World War II.

6. That shirt shouldn't have faded after just one washing.
 - _____ a. The shirt lost some color when it was washed.
 - _____ b. The shirt looked better after it was washed.

Exercise 2 Write a sentence that uses should have or should not have + PAST PARTICIPLE to express the same idea. The first one has been done for you.

1. Joe bought a used car. He regrets buying it.

Joe should not have bought a used car. _____

2. You did not get a new umbrella. You are sorry about this.

3. Instead of taking a taxi, we took a bus from the airport. Taking a bus took much longer and was not as good as taking a taxi.

4. Toshio regrets quitting his job today.

5. Last night I went to bed after midnight. I regret doing this.

9.6 The Modal must in the Past

Use must + have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. Use must have + PAST PARTICIPLE when you are almost certain that the action happened. Based on the facts or current situation, you conclude that the action happened.

Joe looks really tired today. He must have gone to bed late last night. (The speaker thinks that Joe went to bed late last night.)

2. Use the negative form, must not have + PAST PARTICIPLE, when you are almost certain that the action did not happen.

Irene failed her spelling test. She must not have studied very much. (The speaker thinks that Irene did not study very much.)

Exercise 3 To complete these sentences, write the correct construction using must (not) have + PAST PARTICIPLE with the verb in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

1. No one ordered any dessert after dinner. Everyone (be) _____ must have been full.
2. When I saw Ben this morning, he didn't know who had won the football match last night. He (watch) _____ it on TV.
3. Paula's French is outstanding. I know she's a good language learner, but she (have) _____ a great French teacher, too.
4. Ellen returned four of the five dresses that she bought yesterday. They (fit) _____ her very well.
5. Rick didn't follow the teacher's directions for this assignment. He (understand) _____ the directions clearly.
6. Look at the decorations on these cakes! They're so elaborate! It (take) _____ a long time to make them!

9.7 The Modal could in the Past

Use could have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. Use could have + PAST PARTICIPLE when the speaker had the opportunity to do something, but you are not sure he did it. You can also use it when the action was possible, but you are not sure if it really happened.

After dinner, I felt really sick. It could have been the fish. It tasted a little strange. (The speaker thinks that one possible reason for being sick was the fish.)

2. Use the negative form could not have + PAST PARTICIPLE, when you are almost positive that the action did not happen. This form implies that it was impossible for the action to have occurred.

The evidence proves that the woman couldn't have killed her husband because she was traveling in a different country when he was killed. (According to the evidence, it was impossible for the woman to have killed the man.)

Editing

Exercise 4 Write a correction above the errors in the underlined parts of the sentences.

1. If you missed eight of the ten questions on the test, you could have passed it.
2. No one believes that the man could have kill his boss.
3. My late grandfather was extremely rich. He didn't own a BMW, but he couldn't have easily bought one or more of them.
4. I could visit many more places in Paris if I had had more time.
5. I could have lent you my car yesterday because I needed it all day.
6. I could have lent you my car because I needed it all day yesterday.
7. When we went to France last year, we could have fly on the Concorde.
8. It couldn't rain this morning. I would have noticed if the ground had been wet!

9.8 The Modal might in the Past

Use might have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. Use might have + PAST PARTICIPLE when the action was possible, but you are not sure if it happened. (This is the same meaning as may have or could have + PAST PARTICIPLE.)

After dinner, I felt really sick. It might have been the fish. It tasted a little strange. (The speaker thinks that one possible reason for being sick was the fish.)

2. Might have + PAST PARTICIPLE has a second meaning. It can be a suggestion about a past event, like could have. Sometimes it is a form of complaint.

Mother: The train trip took us several hours. I don't know why we came by train.

Ana: We might have flown. It would have been so much faster.

3. The negative form, might not have + PAST PARTICIPLE is used when the negative situation was possible, but you are not sure if it happened. (This is the same meaning as may not have + PAST PARTICIPLE.)

The teacher believes that Joe might not have written his paper by himself. (The teacher believes it is possible that someone helped Joe write his paper.)

Exercise 5 Read each sentence. Then write a sentence that means the same as the first sentence. Use might have or might not have + PAST PARTICIPLE. The first one has been done for you.

1. It is possible that it rained last night. I'm not sure.

It might have rained last night.

2. When you called last night, maybe David wasn't home then.

3. Why did Hector leave the party? Maybe he didn't feel well.

4. The student's answers are all wrong. Maybe he didn't understand the directions.

5. Perhaps the doctor prescribed the wrong medicine.

6. Why did the accident happen? Maybe the pilot turned onto the wrong runway.

9.9 The Modal may in the Past

Use may have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. Use may have + PAST PARTICIPLE when the action was possible, but you are not sure if it happened.

After dinner, I felt really sick. It may have been the fish. It tasted a little strange.
(The speaker thinks that one possible reason for being sick was the fish.)

2. The negative form may not have + PAST PARTICIPLE is used when the negative situation was possible, but you are not sure if it happened.

The teacher believes that Joe may not have written his paper by himself.
(The teacher believes it is possible that someone helped Joe write his paper.)

Exercise 6 Read each sentence. Then write a sentence that means the same as the first sentence. Use may have or may not have + PAST PARTICIPLE. The first one has been done for you.

1. Perhaps Jennifer went to her cousin's house.

Jennifer may have gone to her cousin's house.

2. It's possible that Ned didn't like the gift that Linda gave him.

3. Maybe some passengers survived the plane crash.

4. Maybe he didn't hear the announcement.

5. It's possible that the secretary has already received the documents.

6. Perhaps it was too late for Alan to buy a cheap ticket for the flight.

9.10 The Modal would in the Past

Use would have + PAST PARTICIPLE to form the past modal.

1. Use would have + PAST PARTICIPLE when the action did not happen. This meaning is for the main clause in conditional sentences: another condition was missing, and that's why the second action did not happen.

The young couple would have purchased the house if it had had two bathrooms. (The house did not have two bathrooms, so the young couple didn't purchase it.)

2. The negative form would not have + PAST PARTICIPLE is used when the action actually happened, but it would not have happened if something else had occurred first.

The pie wouldn't have tasted so sweet if I had added the correct amount of sugar. (The pie tasted too sweet because the speaker added the wrong amount of sugar.)

NOTE: Sometimes the if-clause is not stated; it is understood. You can find more information about if-clauses in Chapter 12.

Exercise 7 Fill in the blanks with would have + PAST PARTICIPLE of the verbs in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

1. (start, [negative]) Perhaps if Lincoln had not become the 16th president, the Civil War would not have started in 1861.
2. (like) People _____ the party better if you had had good music.
3. (be, [negative]) The spaghetti _____ crunchy if you had cooked it a little longer.
4. (win) If Kostov had done better in the second set, perhaps he _____ the match.
5. (be) The outcome of the election _____ the same if people had voted on computers instead of using the old methods.
6. (have, [negative]) If you had taken the medicine correctly, you _____ any problems with your stomach.

Exercise 8 Underline the six past modal forms in this paragraph and explain their meanings to a partner.

My Oldest Memory

My oldest memory is of a time when I was a very young child. I couldn't have been more than five years old. In fact, I might have been as young as three. I remember that I was with a woman who was our neighbor. It must have been around 6 or 7 o'clock because it was getting a little dark. The woman told me that we were going to walk to the store on the corner to get an ice cream cone. Just as we left the front steps of our house, the light above the store went out. It had just closed. We should have left earlier. If we had left the house a few minutes earlier, then we might have gotten to the store in time. If we had done that, then I could have had some ice cream. To this day, I cannot remember exactly who the woman was, but I certainly remember the day that I didn't get any ice cream.

CHAPTER QUIZ

Exercise 9 Circle the letter of the correct answer. Be prepared to explain your answers.

- As I sat waiting for my flight to take off, I read this statement on the information card:
"In an emergency, all passengers _____ the directions of the crew."
A. must follow
B. must have followed
C. might follow
D. might have followed
- I overheard a mother tell her son, "If you need to use your cell phone, you _____ do it now because you _____ make a call during the flight."
A. had better ... cannot
B. had better to ... cannot
C. must ... do not able to
D. must to ... do not able to
- A passenger seated next to me told me about a problem on her previous flight. As the passengers were boarding the plane, an alarm went off. She thought that one of the passengers may _____ an emergency door by mistake.
A. open
B. have open
C. have opened
D. to open
- About an hour after takeoff, the flight attendant gave each of us a small sandwich, but I could not eat mine because the cooks had put spicy mustard on all of them. They really _____ such spicy mustard.
A. should have added
B. should add
C. shouldn't have added
D. shouldn't add
- One passenger said that his worst flight was aboard a 747 with Southwest Airlines, but a flight attendant who was standing nearby corrected him. She said, "Are you sure it was a 747 with Southwest? Actually, if it was a Southwest jet, it _____ been a 747 because that airline does not have any jumbo jets."
A. might not have
B. could not have
C. might not had
D. could not had
- The pilot announced, "Ladies and gentlemen, we are very near the Salt Lake City Airport. We _____ shortly, so please follow the flight attendants' instructions at this point."
A. land
B. must land
C. could land
D. will land

Gerunds and Infinitives

Two verb forms in English are used as nouns: gerunds and infinitives. Gerunds are verbs ending in -ing. Infinitives are to + VERB. How do you know when to use an infinitive and when to use a gerund? This chapter will answer that question.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Four of the eight underlined words contain an error related to gerunds and infinitives. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Reading Skills

To read is much more than run your eyes across the page and recognizing words. It involves grasping the meaning of what is written, understanding the relationship of each sentence and paragraph to all the others. Getting more from your reading, you will need skim, reflect, read, and review each chapter.

From: V. Ruggiero. (2002). Becoming a Critical Thinker, 4th ed. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. xvi.

10.1 Forming Gerunds and Gerund Phrases and Infinitives and Infinitive Phrases

Here are the basic forms of gerunds and infinitives:

Gerund	Infinitive
VERB + -ing	to + VERB
swimming	to swim
laughing	to laugh

A gerund phrase includes the gerund and its related information.

Taking good class notes makes it easier to review for exams.

An infinitive phrase includes the infinitive and its related information.

To take good class notes, you should read about the subject in advance.

Exercise 1 Read the following paragraph on stress. Underline all the gerunds and infinitives. The first one has been done for you. There are ten more.

Handling Stress

To relieve stress, you must first understand which brain hemisphere is stressed. Feeling depressed or emotionally overwrought means your stress is in the right hemisphere. This is the creative, emotional, holistic side of your brain. To cut stress, switch to your matter-of-fact left hemisphere. How? Doing math or writing factual prose calms down the emotional right brain. Another option is to organize something; it has the same calming effect. Feeling time-stressed and overburdened means the left hemisphere of your brain is stressed. Singing or playing a sport will allow you to switch to your right brain and to reduce your stress.

From: Berko et al., Communicating, p. 188.

10.2 Gerunds and Gerund Phrases

Although gerunds, like infinitives, are formed with verb stems, they function like nouns. A gerund phrase is a gerund followed by a noun or pronoun.

1. Gerunds and gerund phrases as subjects

Eating vegetables is a good way to stay healthy.

A gerund as the subject of a sentence takes a singular verb. When multiple gerunds are used as the subject, they take a plural verb.

Eating vegetables and exercising are excellent ways to stay healthy.

When a gerund has multiple objects, the subject is singular.

Eating broccoli, carrots, and tomatoes is an excellent way to stay healthy.

2. Gerunds and gerund phrases as direct objects (see Section 10.2.1)

However, many people dislike preparing *vegetables.

3. Gerunds and gerund phrases as subject complements (after the verb be)

One easy preparation method is eating *them raw with a simple sauce.

In this case, the gerund is often inverted to the subject position without changing the meaning of the sentence.

Eating vegetables raw with a simple sauce is one easy preparation method.

4. Gerunds and gerund phrases as objects of prepositions (see Chapter 7)

Another method of preparing vegetables is stir-frying.

5. To form the negative of a gerund, simply place not immediately before the gerund.

Not cooking vegetables allows you to prepare a meal faster.

Exercise 2 Complete the following sentences with a gerund or gerund phrase using some of the words below or your own words. In the parentheses, write the function of the gerund in the sentence. The gerund can serve as the subject, direct object, subject complement (after the verb be), or object of a preposition. The first one has been done for you.

Verbs			Nouns
clean	fry	slice	counter	new recipes	salt
cook	mop	taste	dishes	olive oil	seafood
cut	peel	try	fruit	praise	tomatoes
eat	receive	use	meat	salad	vegetables

1. I'm tired of cooking meals every day of the week. (object of preposition)
2. Lisa's favorite hobby is _____ . (_____)
3. _____ is one of the benefits all cooks enjoy! (_____)
4. It's almost impossible to make a meal without _____ . (_____)
5. While some people enjoy _____ , I think it's a boring activity.
(_____)
6. My mother is great at _____ , but I'm not so good at it.
(_____)
7. I don't mind _____ , but I am tired of _____ every week!
(_____) (_____)

10.2.1 Verbs Commonly Followed by Gerunds

1. These verbs frequently have a gerund or a gerund phrase following them:

appreciate	delay	dislike	involve	practice	risk
avoid	detest	enjoy	miss	quit	stop consider	discuss	finish	postpone	recommend	suggest

My mother appreciated getting a puppy for her birthday.

2. Whenever a verb follows a preposition, the verb takes the gerund form. The common expressions in the following chart have a gerund or gerund phrase following them. (For a longer list of prepositions after certain verbs and adjectives, see Sections 13.3.2 and 13.3.3 in Chapter 13.)

be afraid of	be interested in	be worried about	dream about	thank (someone) for be good at	be responsible for	argue about	excel at	think about be used to	be accustomed to	believe in	talk about	think of Common error: We are interested in take summer classes.

Correct: We are interested in taking summer classes.

Common error: Did she thank you for drive her to work this morning?

Correct: Did she thank you for driving her to work this morning?

3. Other common expressions include:

- by + gerund to explain how something is done
You can pass this class by reading the text and keeping up with assignments.
- go + gerund to describe activities
Would you rather go bowling or go swimming this afternoon?

Exercise 3 Complete each sentence with the verb or expression in parentheses and add an appropriate gerund or gerund phrase. The first one has been done for you.

Studying for Exams

In order to pass the exam I just took, I should have _____ considered studying _____ 1
 (consider) the lecture notes. Unfortunately, I thought I had lots of time, so I _____ (postpone) over them. I was confident that I knew the subject, so I _____ about _____ (worry [negative]) the test.
2
3
 Instead I _____ (go) at the mall, and later my friends and I _____ (go) at a nearby club. That was a big mistake!
4
5
 With only a few hours left before the exam, I opened my book. Later that night, while sleeping, I _____ about _____ (dream) the 6 test. I woke up from that nightmare and _____ (finish) 7 the rest of the chapter. Then I went to school and took the exam. I learned my lesson the hard way. What do I recommend? I _____ not _____ 8

 (recommend) what I did. Instead, I _____ (suggest) 9 your notes regularly. By reviewing them every day, you won't _____ 10 about _____ (worry) any exam!

10.3 Infinitives and Infinitive Phrases

Infinitives consist of two words: to + VERB. An infinitive phrase is the infinitive followed by any noun or pronoun and modifying words.

1. Infinitives and infinitive phrases as a reduction of the phrase in order to (showing purpose)

To build its international business, the company spent millions on advertising in sixteen different languages. = [In order] to build its international business, the company spent ...

2. Infinitives and infinitive phrases as subjects

To live in a large city requires a lot of patience and nerve. (less common)

Compare with the gerund as the subject paired with the same verb. (Infinitives can be subjects, but gerunds are much more common as subjects.)

Living in a large city requires a lot of patience and nerve. (more common)

Remember: When an infinitive phrase begins a sentence, it is probably a "purpose" phrase, not the subject:

To live in a large city, you need a lot of patience. ([in order] to + verb = purpose)

3. Infinitives and infinitive phrases as direct objects

Mario wanted to stay at the beach, but it began to rain.

4. Infinitives and infinitive phrases after phrases beginning with it (it + be + ADJECTIVE or NOUN + INFINITIVE)

It is impossible to get a cheap apartment in a large city.

ADJECTIVE INFINITIVE

Many people say that it is a good idea to save money for the future.

NOUN INFINITIVE

Here are some common adjectives and nouns that are preceded by it + be and followed by an infinitive:

bad	dangerous	difficult	easy
fun	hard	important	impossible interesting	necessary	relaxing	a good idea
a bad idea	a pity	a shame	a waste

5. Infinitives and infinitive phrases with the verb take (it + take + NOUN + INFINITIVE)

It takes a lot of energy to find the perfect job.

6. Infinitives and infinitive phrases after certain adjectives

Habiba was happy to learn that she'd been accepted to graduate school.

Here are some common adjectives followed by infinitives.

afraid	glad	relieved	sorry ashamed	happy	reluctant	surprised bound	lucky	sad	sure careful	proud	shocked	willing

Note that accustomed to always takes a gerund.

I am accustomed to waking up at 5 a.m. every day.

7. To form the negative of an infinitive, simply place not immediately before the infinitive.

You should be careful not to strain your eyes in front of the computer.

Exercise 4 Complete the sentences with an infinitive phrase. In the parentheses, write the function of the infinitive in the sentence. Choose from one of the four following options: direct object, after a phrase with it + ADJECTIVE, to show purpose, or after certain adjectives. The first one has been done for you.

1. Margaret and her sister Jenna went to college to become their family's first college graduates. (to show purpose)

2. They were afraid _____, but their family encouraged them. (_____)

3. Margaret and Jenna wanted _____ at a prestigious university in California, but it was too expensive. (_____)

4. Then they found a university that was willing _____ _____ them a scholarship.
 (_____)
5. It was impossible _____ _____ such a wonderful opportunity. (_____
 _____)
6. During their first semester, they went to the library _____
 _____ . (_____
 _____)
7. In the beginning, it wasn't easy for Margaret and Jenna _____
 _____. However, they were proud _____
 _____ . (_____
 _____) (_____)

10.3.1 Verbs Commonly Followed by Infinitives

These verbs frequently have an infinitive or an infinitive phrase following them:

afford	agree	ask	decide	demand	deserve expect	hesitate	hope	learn	need	offer
plan	pretend	promise	refuse	wait	want

When no one else volunteered, Manny offered to go.

The students demanded to see the program director when the course was canceled.

Exercise 5

The following paragraph contains seven errors in gerund and infinitive use. Find and correct the errors. The first one has been done for you.

Searching for a Cure

As doctors continue to searching for a cure for the common cold, they have found some things that make people more vulnerable to catching a cold. One negative influence is to argue. People who argue are more likely to get colds than those who do not. Another characteristic is be a "loner." People who have strong social networks tend to be happier and therefore more resistant to colds. Finally, to stress over a job can lead to colds. There are many workers who do not feel confident enough to get their job done right. Some researchers believe that this lack of self-confidence can lead to lowered immune systems. To resisting colds, people should look at the quality of their lives. While patients wait for a cure for the common cold, they can begin bolster their bodies by to deal with the treatable issues mentioned above.

10.3.2 Verbs That Need Nouns or Pronouns Before the Infinitive

These verbs often need either a noun or a pronoun before the infinitive.

advise allow cause convince forbid force invite permit remind teach tell warn

We all warned Jason to stop eating so much junk food.

(noun before infinitive)

My father taught me to play tennis when I was young.

(pronoun before infinitive)

Exercise 6 Complete each sentence with the correct forms of the words in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

Piano Lessons

When I was a child, my mother (advise / me / study) advised me to study hard every day. She (not want / me / lose out) _____ ¹ on a quality education. For this reason, she (forbid / me / watch) _____ ² _____ too much television. Instead, she would (tell / me / practice) _____ ³ _____ the piano. I absolutely hated my mother's forcing (me / play) _____ ⁴ _____, but I always did what I was told. She would (invite / her friends / listen) _____ ⁵ _____ to my home concerts, and it always made me so nervous! Well, today I must thank her. As a well-known pianist who travels around the world, I am happy that she (convince / me / appreciate) _____ ⁶ _____ hard work. I would never have gotten where I am today without her focus on education and practice. ⁷

10.4 Verbs Commonly Followed by Either Gerunds or Infinitives

The following verbs often have either a gerund or an infinitive following them. The meaning is similar for both.

begin attempt continue hate love prefer start like

Jeanne prefers carrying her own luggage. (gerund)

Jeanne prefers to carry her own luggage. (infinitive)

The verbs forget, regret, remember, stop, and try are also followed by either a gerund or infinitive. However, the meaning is different for each usage.

forget I forgot taking this picture of the Eiffel Tower. In fact, I took several. (forget + GERUND refers to an earlier action that occurred)

I forgot to take a picture of the Eiffel Tower. Maybe I'll do it on my next trip. (forget + INFINITIVE refers to an action that did not occur) regret I regret telling you last week that you would be laid off. I was wrong. (regret + GERUND refers to an earlier action)

I regret to tell you today that you will be laid off next week. (regret + INFINITIVE refers to an action in the present)

- remember Now I remember taking this picture. It was on May 8th.
(remember + GERUND refers to an earlier action)
- I remembered to take this picture. I did not forget to do this.
(remember + INFINITIVE refers to an action at the same or later time)
- stop I was driving my car. I stopped to make a phone call.
(stop + INFINITIVE means to interrupt an action to do something else)
- My phone bill got too high, so I stopped making so many calls.
(stop + GERUND means to finish an action in progress)
- try You have hiccups? You should try holding your breath.
(try + GERUND means to experiment with a solution to a problem)
- The doctors tried to save her life, but she died. (try + INFINITIVE means to make an effort to do something that is usually difficult)

Exercise 7 Fill in the blank with the appropriate gerund or infinitive form of the verb in parentheses.

Passive Voice and Participial Adjectives

Passive voice can be difficult to understand. Before you study this chapter, you may find it a good idea to review the verb tenses in Chapter 4 and Chapter 5. This will help you understand passive voice better.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Four of the seven underlined words or phrases contain an error related to passive voice and participial adjectives. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Audience Feedback

Your ability to listen to yourself can be enhanced by two skills: translating audience feedback and listening. Good speakers silently ask and are answered questions as they speak. If an audience seems confused, the speaker may slow down and re-explain a concept. If the audience looks boring, the speaker may be added an interesting or amused story to rekindle their interest.

Adapted from: Engleberg and Daly, Presentations in Everyday Life, p. 39.

11.1 Passive Versus Active Voice

When a verb is in the active voice, the subject is the actor. In other words, the subject is doing the action.

The dog bit the man. (Who did the action? The dog.)

In contrast, when a verb is in the passive voice, the subject is the receiver of the action of the verb. The actor may (or may not) be expressed by a by + ACTOR expression.

The man was bitten by the dog. (Who did the action? The dog.)

In the first example (active voice), the speaker emphasizes the dog. In the second example (passive voice), the speaker emphasizes the man. The noun in the subject position is the one that the speaker emphasizes. When should you use the passive voice? Use it when the receiver of the action is more important than the one who did the action.

11.2 Form of Passive Voice

Passive voice always consists of a form of the verb be followed by the past participle of the action verb: be + PAST PARTICIPLE.

Penicillin was discovered in 1928.

The following chart gives you an overview of the passive voice of verb tenses in English.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present:	I write it	It is written
Present progressive:	I am writing it	It is being written
Present perfect:	I have written it	It has been written
Past:	I wrote it	It was written
Past progressive:	I was writing it	It was being written
Past perfect:	I had written it	It had been written
Future:	I will write it	It will be written
Future perfect:	I will have written it	It will have been written
Present modal:	I can write it	It can be written
	I should write it	It should be written
Past modal:	I could have written it	It could have been written
	I may have written it	It may have been written

The progressive forms are almost never used in the passive voice.

An easy thing to remember about forming the passive voice is that the verb usually has one more word (+1) than the active voice verb.

Active

They answer their mail immediately.

They have not called Jack.

They could have sent the package.

Passive + 1

Their mail is answered immediately.

Jack has not been called.

The package could have been sent.

Infinitives and gerunds can also be used in passive voice.

Infinitives

Simple: to + be + PAST PARTICIPLE

We waited to be served.

Perfect: to + have been + PAST PARTICIPLE

I was happy to have been selected.

Gerunds

Simple: being + PAST PARTICIPLE

Being selected was an honor.

Perfect: having been + PAST PARTICIPLE

I denied having been arrested.

Exercise 1 Put a check mark (✓) by the passive verb forms. The first one has been done for you.

Exercise 2 Underline the passive verb forms in this news report. The first one has been done for you. There are six more.

Commencement Address

In today's news, Prime Minister Clark gave a speech at the graduation ceremony at Dover University. As the guests were being seated, an orchestra played quietly. The prime minister was introduced by the president of the university, who was visibly moved by the prime minister's attendance at today's event. Prime Minister Clark received his degree from Dover University in 1979. Today's trip to the university was his first trip back to the area since then. When Clark's name was announced to the audience, a loud cheer could be heard for the lost son who had finally returned to Dover University. In his speech at this event, the prime minister noted the important role that today's graduates will play in shaping the future of our country. "A country is only as strong as its educated. You are our educated; thus, you are our strength. We are counting on you for leadership as we enter a new era." Some thought that the possibility of war with neighboring countries might come up, but serious topics such as this were not mentioned at all. Having been addressed, the students then came forward to receive their diplomas.

11.3 How to Change Active Voice to Passive Voice

To change the active voice to passive voice in a sentence with SUBJECT / VERB / OBJECT word order, follow these four easy steps. (See Chapter 13 for word order.)

1. Begin with a sentence that has an active verb.

Mark Twain wrote The Adventures of Tom Sawyer in 1876.

Identify the receiver of the action—The Adventures of Tom Sawyer. Move this receiver to the subject position in a new sentence.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer ...

2. Identify the verb—wrote—and its tense (simple past). After the subject, put the verb be in the same verb tense.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer was ...

3. Next, add the past participle of the verb you identified in Step 2.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer was written ...

4. Finally, include the original person or thing that did the action (the agent) in a by phrase.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer was written by Mark Twain ...

Then add the rest of the information (if there is any) from the original sentence.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer was written by Mark Twain in 1876.

In some cases, you may want to omit the agent if the main emphasis is on the receiver (the new subject) or if the agent or actor is obvious or unknown.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer, not A Tramp Abroad, was written in 1876.

Exercise 3

Underline the complete verb in each sentence and identify it as active or passive. Then rewrite the sentence by changing the voice of the verb from either active to passive or from passive to active. Remember that when you change active to passive, you may not necessarily include the agent in a by phrase. The first one has been done for you.

1. active In Unit 12, students must use a range of written sources to understand the causes of World War I.

In Unit 12, a range of written sources must be used to understand the causes of World War I.

2. _____ Video and other media facilitate the presentation and understanding of the events leading up to and following World War I.

3. _____ In the accompanying course textbook, the constantly changing nature of world governments over several decades has been emphasized in great detail by the authors.

4. _____ Both the illustrations and the written material in the text are protected by Title 17 of the United States Copyright Law.

5. _____ The introduction to the first chapter was written in 1999 by Charles Kingly, a well-known university history professor.

11.4 Three Common Errors With the Passive Voice

Writers tend to make three mistakes with the passive voice: in form, in use, and with intransitive verbs (verbs that do not take an object and therefore cannot be in passive voice).

1. Error with past participle form. Remember that the verb be must be followed by the past participle of the action verb.

Incorrect verb form: The book was writing in 1998.

Incorrect verb form: The book was wrote in 1998.

Correct past participle: The book was written in 1998.

2. Error with use. Remember that passive voice is used when the receiver of the action is more important than the agent (doer of the action). You should mention the agent only if it is important to the meaning or if it is not obvious.

Incorrect: Arabic is written by Arabic speakers from right to left. (by Arabic speakers is not necessary information)

Some writers use passive voice too often, especially just after they have learned it. Active voice is generally much more effective than passive voice. Use passive voice when

- you want the receiver of the action to be the main topic of your words:
Smoking is prohibited in this area.
- you don't know who did the action:
The First United Bank was robbed early this morning.
- the subject of the active sentence would be people or one:
Abraham Lincoln was considered an honest man.
- reporting unwelcome news or avoiding blame:
Taxes will be increased.
All of my important e-mails were deleted!
- the topic has already been mentioned:
Ethanol production is the latest hot topic for discussion. It is seen as a possible solution to the country's dependence on oil.

The following two examples describe the same event, but the writer's emphasis is different in each.

Active voice: The dog bit the thief. (The writer's focus is the dog.)

The thief quietly opened the window of the house. He climbed into the residence as carefully as possible so that he would not make any noise. He did not know, however, that there was a vicious dog watching over the house. The dog heard the noise of the intruder and reacted quickly. Like a bolt of lightning, the dog jumped up and barked ferociously. Then the dog lunged at the man. In a split second, the dog bit the thief, which ended the robbery.

Passive voice: The thief was bitten by the dog. (The writer's focus is the thief.)

The thief quietly opened the window of the house. He climbed into the residence as carefully as possible so that he would not make any noise. He did not know, however, that there was a vicious dog watching over the house. The thief heard the loud clicking of claws on the floor. The thief could not escape. He was bitten by the dog, which ended the robbery.

3. Error with intransitive verbs. English has two kinds of verbs: transitive and intransitive. Transitive verbs are followed by an object. For example, the verb announce must always have an object. You cannot say "Yesterday they announced." This sentence must have an object, as in "Yesterday they announced their engagement" or "Yesterday they announced the winners' names." Here are some transitive verbs:

announce (an engagement)	buy (a gift)	like (a person or thing)
discover (a cure)	find (a good deal)	take (a nap)

Intransitive verbs are not followed by an object. Here are a few intransitive verbs:

come die go happen seem occur

Intransitive verbs do not have grammatical voice, so they cannot be changed from active to passive voice. Study the following examples.

Transitive Verb, Active Voice	⇔	Transitive Verb, Passive Voice
They discovered a cure ...	⇔	A cure was discovered ...
The machine accepts coins ...	⇔	Coins are accepted ...
Intransitive Verb, Active Voice	⇔	No Passive Possible
The accident happened ...	⇔	was happened
The man died ...	⇔	was died

Exercise 4 Read the sentences. Find the error in each sentence and identify why it is an error (refer to Section 11.4). Then correct the error. The first one has been done for you.

1. World War II was won.

Error: no agent Why: agent is important

Correction: World War II was won by the Allies.

2. World War II was occurred more than fifty years ago.

Error: _____ Why: _____

Correction: _____

3. World War II was fighting in Africa, North America, Europe, and Asia.

Error: _____ Why: _____

CPA Credentials

Most accounting firms are included ¹ on their staffs at least one certified public accountant, or CPA, an individual who has met ² state requirements for accounting education and experience and has been passed ³ a rigorous two-day accounting examination. The examination is prepared ⁴ by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and covers accounting practice, accounting theory, auditing, taxation, and business law. State requirements usually are included ⁵ a college degree in accounting and from one to three years of on-the-job experience.

Once an individual becomes a CPA, he or she must be attended ⁶ continuing-education programs to maintain state certification. These specialized programs design ⁷ to provide the current training that is needed ⁸ in today's changing business environment. In addition, CPAs must be taken ⁹ an ethics course to satisfy the continuing-education requirement. Details regarding specific state requirements for practice as a CPA can obtain ¹⁰ by contacting the state's board of accountancy.

Exercise 6

Read these two paragraphs from an education textbook. If the underlined verb phrase is incorrect, write your corrected edit on the line. If it is correct, write correct on the line.

- 1. _____
- 2. _____
- 3. _____
- 4. _____
- 5. _____
- 6. _____

Education in the 1600s

Education has changed drastically since colonial days. In the 1600s, some girls received elementary instruction, but formal colonial education was mainly for boys, particularly those of the middle and upper classes. Both girls and boys might have had some preliminary training in the four Rs—reading, 'riting [writing], 2
1
'rithmetic [arithmetic], and religion—at home. Sometimes, for a small fee, a housewife was offered some training to children in her own home. In these cases, 3
she would be taught a little reading and writing, basic prayers, and religious beliefs.
4
In these dame schools, girls also learned some basic household skills, such as 5 cooking and sewing. The dame schools often are provided all the formal education 6 that some children, especially girls, ever received.

Throughout the colonies, poor children were often apprenticed or indentured to local tradesmen or housewives. Apprenticeships lasted for three to ten years, 8 generally ending around age twenty-one for boys and eighteen for girls. During that time, an apprentice would learn the basic skills of a trade and might also teach basic 9 10
7
reading and writing, and perhaps arithmetic, as part of the contractual agreement.

11.5 Stative Passive and Passive With Get

The stative passive is formed with the verb to be + PAST PARTICIPLE. In the stative passive, the past participle functions as an adjective and describes a state or situation. Stative passive constructions are not used with the by phrase.

The door to the office is closed.

Jay and Jenny are married.

The class was gone when I arrived.

Their new house was made of brick.

The passive with get is formed with a form of the verb get + ADJECTIVE or get + PAST PARTICIPLE. The past participle functions as an adjective and describes the subject. The use of passive voice with get is informal and often describes a process. Although you will hear the get construction frequently in informal conversation, you should remember that this construction is not preferred in formal academic writing. Follow your instructor's guidelines.

Jay and Jenny are getting married.

I got hired as an advertising copy writer.

A number of people got hurt in the accident.

She woke up late and got dressed in ten minutes.

Exercise 7 Complete the sentences with a stative passive or passive with get. Use words from the following list. The first one has been done for you.

confuse crowd lose schedule turn better depress hungry sick worry

be + PAST PARTICIPLE

1. I don't have any idea where I am. I think I am lost.
2. The tourists didn't understand the directions you gave them. They _____.
3. We should have taken a taxi. The subway _____ and I feel like I'm in a sardine can.
4. Hurry up. The tour bus _____ to leave in 3 minutes!
5. This hotel is so cheap that the heat _____ off on March 1st, no matter what the temperature is.

get + ADJECTIVE or PAST PARTICIPLE

6. We've been looking at paintings of fruit all day! I _____.
7. Our flight leaves in two hours and you haven't packed yet. I _____.

8. What's wrong with you? You're sneezing and coughing. Are you _____?
9. Our vacation is almost over. I'm _____.
10. How is that blister on your foot? Is it _____?

11.6 Participial Adjectives

The verb forms known as participles can also be used as adjectives.

The present participle, which is used to form progressive tenses, can also act as an adjective with an active meaning.

The engine noises were frightening the passengers. (present participle in progressive tense)

The passengers were nervous because of the frightening noises. (present participle as adjective)

The engine noises were frightening. (present participle as adjective)

The past participle, which is a necessary part of forming the passive voice, can also act as an adjective with a passive meaning.

The car was stolen by two young men. (past participle in passive voice)

The police found the stolen car a week later. (past participle as adjective)

11.6.1 Present Participles Used as Adjectives

As you have seen, present participles are verb forms that end in -ing:

interesting confusing surprising annoying losing

Present participles used as adjectives:

- are active
- refer to the cause of the experience
- describe what the effect is
- often describe inanimate (nonliving) nouns

The audience heard the results. The audience did not expect the results. = The results were surprising. No one could believe the surprising results.

The teacher explained the lesson. The students did not understand anything. = The explanation was confusing. The confusing explanation did not help.

11.6.2 Past Participles Used as Adjectives

Past participles are verb forms that end in -ed or an irregular form:

interested confused surprised annoyed lost known

Past participles used as adjectives:

- are passive
- refer to the person who feels or has the experience
- describe how the person is affected
- usually describe animate (living) nouns

The audience heard the results. The audience did not expect the results.

(The audience was surprised. The surprised audience was silent.)

The teacher explained the lesson. The students did not understand anything.

(The students were confused. The confused students need more help now.)

Culture Shock

Culture shock is a feeling often experienced by people who move to another country to live or study. There are distinct phases or stages of culture shock. During the first stage, the "honeymoon" stage, the ^{excited}~~exciting~~ newcomer ₁ is eager to explore and learn about the new culture. The person may even feel as though he or she is an invited guest ₂ in the country. Soon, however, that comforting feeling ₃ disappears. Earlier amused cultural differences ₄ suddenly become stressful. Repeating remarks ₅ by others about differences between the two cultures may be interpreted as insulting comments about the newcomer's native country. The comforting sounds 6 7

 of one's native language and the satisfied foods of one's homeland are missed even 8 more by the overwhelming newcomer as he or she struggles with communicating 9 in a new language and adjusting to a new diet. Fortunately, before long, the disappointing newcomer changes his or her negative attitude for an accepting one.
 10 11
 Previously rejecting customs may now be accepted or at least tolerated by the

B. revised ... interesting D. was revised ... interesting

Exercise 13 Write one to three paragraphs that report the news about an event. The event can be real or imagined. Tell what happened, when it happened, and why it happened. Try to give numbers and examples of details of the event. When possible, describe people's reactions to the event. Were they surprised? Terrified? Annoyed?

Try to use passive voice when possible. Underline your passive voice examples. Remember that passive voice is not as common as active voice or intransitive verbs in real English, so make sure that you do not have a disproportionate percentage of passive voice examples in your writing. Exchange paragraphs with a partner. Review your partner's paragraph, checking for correct use of passive voice.

Conditionals

In this chapter, you will learn about a simple but powerful word that we use to express conditions, or whether results are real or possible depending on other circumstances. That word is if.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Three of the five underlined words or phrases contain an error related to conditionals. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Forming a Union

Forming a union for workers can be complicated. There are set rules for forming a union. If at least 30 percent of the eligible employees sign authorization cards, the organizers generally requested that the firm recognize the union as the employees' bargaining representative. Usually the firm rejects this request, and a formal election is held to decide whether to have a union. If the union obtains a majority in the election, it became the official bargaining agent for its members, and the final step, certification, took place.

From: Pride et al., Business, p. 349.

12.1 Conditionals With if

We use adverb clauses with the conjunction (joining word) if to convey conditional ideas, that is, when the occurrence of one event depends on the occurrence of another event. (See Chapter 15 for more information about adverb clauses.)

The English language features four types of conditional sentences:

Conditional 1: A situation that is always true

- A. If the price of gas goes up, the cost of a bus ticket goes up, too.
- B. If the President does not like a bill, he vetoes it before it becomes a law.

Conditional 2: A real or possible condition for the future

- C. If I study tonight, I will get a good score on the final exam tomorrow.
- D. If Karkovia invades Bratlova, the army of Bratlova might fight back with nuclear weapons.

Conditional 3: An unreal or imaginary condition

- E. If Bolivia possessed a seacoast, the country's economy would be very different.
- F. If cars were able to run on water, the world would have a better environment.

Conditional 4: A past condition with hypothetical results

- G. If the paparazzi had not chased Princess Diana, she would not have died in 1997.
- H. If AIDS had been cured early, millions of people would have survived.

12.1.1 Punctuation With if Conditionals

As with other adverb clauses, the if-clause can either begin or end the sentence. We use a comma when the adverb clause comes first in the sentence. Thus, when an if-clause begins a sentence, a comma is required.

- *C. If I study tonight, I will get a good score on the final exam tomorrow.
OR: I will get a good score on the final exam tomorrow if I study tonight.
- H. If AIDS had been cured early, millions of people would have survived.
OR: Millions of people would not have died if AIDS had been cured early.

Exercise 1 In each sentence, underline the if-clause. Circle the verb inside the if-clause and the verb inside the main clause. Add a comma where necessary. The first one has been done for you.

1. If the air temperature drops below freezing, the forecast will be snow.
2. If the temperature is above freezing then rain is much more likely.
3. You should seek shelter immediately if you are outside during a thunderstorm.

4. If a tornado appears to stay in the same place and is growing larger this may mean that it is coming toward you.

* Throughout Chapter 12, example sentences are recycled for better comprehension. For example, C and H are also at the top of this page and on subsequent pages.

5. If you have seen a tree move or waves on the water you have seen the effect of wind.
6. If air that has been heated by the sun during the day cools enough at night the moisture in the air condenses and forms fog.
7. If the wind in a tropical storm reaches 74 miles per hour that storm becomes a hurricane.
8. In Medieval Europe, people used to ring church bells if they saw lightning or heard thunder.

12.2 Conditional 1: A Situation That Is (or Was) Always True

In the first type of conditional sentence, both the if-clause and the main clause describe situations that are or were always true. These situations are either in the present tense or in the past tense.

Note about verbs: To express situations that are always true, verbs in both the main clause and the if-clause are in the present tense. To describe a similar situation in the past, verbs in both clauses are in the past tense.

Conditional 1 in the Present Tense

- A. If the price of gas goes up, the cost of a bus ticket goes up, too.
- B. If the President does not like a bill, he *veto*es it before it becomes a law.

Conditional 1 in the Past Tense

- K. If I was late for work, my boss got really angry at me.
- L. If people wanted to sail from Miami to Los Angeles before the Panama Canal was opened in 1914, they sailed all the way around the southern tip of South America.

Note that in this type of conditional sentence, the meaning of if is similar to when or whenever.

- M. When the price of gas goes up, the cost of a bus ticket goes up, too.
- N. Whenever I was late for work, my boss got really angry at me.

Exercise 2 Read each condition below. Fill in the blank with a logical result of the information in the if-clause. Add commas where necessary. The first one has been done for you.

1. If you drop an egg, it breaks. _____
2. If you can't drive a car, you _____.
3. If water drops below 32 degrees, it _____.

4. As a child, if I didn't like what my mother cooked for dinner, my mother _____.
- _____
5. If I received a bad grade in high school, I _____.
6. If I need to mail a letter, I _____.
7. In the past, if children misbehaved in public, their parents _____.
- _____
8. Hundreds of years ago, if there was a solar eclipse, people _____.
- _____

12.3 Conditional 2: A Real or Possible Condition for the Future

In the second type of conditional sentence, the main clause describes a situation that will or may be true if the situation described in the if-clause actually happens. In other words, both situations only take place or could take place if the stated condition is true.

Note about verbs: To express conditions that may lead to future results, the if-clause takes a simple present tense verb. In the main clause, the verb for the result is accompanied by common modals such as will, can, may, might, should. (See Chapter 9 for more about modals.)

- C. If I study tonight, I might get a good score on the final exam tomorrow.
- D. If Karkovia invades Bratlova, the army of Bratlova will fight back with nuclear weapons.
- O. If it rains tomorrow, we might not drive to the beach.

Do not use will in the if-clause.

Incorrect: If it ~~will rain~~ tomorrow, we might not drive to the beach.

Exercise 3 For each of the scenarios below, write two sentences that address the conditions presented. The first one has been done for you.

1. You are not doing well in school. What can you do to improve your grades?

1a. If I study more frequently, my grades will improve.

1b. _____

2. You are not sure what to cook for your dinner guests. What can you serve them?

2a. _____

2b. _____

3. Your family has a picnic planned for tomorrow. What will you do if the weather is not good?

3a. _____

3b. _____

4. You are worried about your exam tomorrow. What will you do if you do not do well on the exam?

4a. _____

4b. _____

Exercise 4 Write six sentences based on a given scenario to complete a story that shows a chain of events. Each event has an effect on the next event. Use the verb in the main clause of one sentence as the verb in the if-clause in the next sentence. Circle the verbs in both clauses. The first one has been done for you.

SCENARIO: I have a choice between going to the library on Saturday and playing football with my friends. I am thinking about playing football.

1. If I (play) football on Saturday, I (will see) my good friends Jacob and Henry.

2. If I (see) my friends Jacob and Henry, I (will show) them my new car.

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

12.4 Conditional 3: Unreal or Imaginary Conditional

In the third type of conditional sentence, the if-clause describes a condition that is not true and the main clause describes a result that is not true. In other words, the information in both the if-clause and the main clause is unreal or imaginary.

Note about verbs: With unreal conditions, the if-clause takes a form that looks like a simple past tense verb. In the main clause, the verb for the unreal result is accompanied by the modals would or could.

E. If Bolivia possessed a seacoast, the country's economy would be very different. (Bolivia does not possess a seacoast, so the economy is not different.)

F. If cars were able to run on water, the world would have a better environment.
(Cars cannot run on water, so the world does not have a good environment.)

The verb be in the if-clause for unreal conditions is always expressed as were. In informal English, which is never good formal writing, you may hear was used instead of were.

Formal: If more money were given to education, we would have better schools.

Informal: If more money was given to education, we would have better schools.

Exercise 5 Write six sentences based on a given scenario to complete a story that shows a chain of events. Each event has an effect on the next event. Use the verb in the main clause of one sentence as the verb in the if-clause in the next sentence. Circle the verbs in both clauses. The first one has been started for you.

SCENARIO: Imagine that you have just won the lottery. The grand prize is $1,000,000.

1. If I (won) one million dollars in the lottery, I (would) buy a new car.

2. If I (bought)

12.5 Conditional 4: Past Conditional With Hypothetical Results

In the fourth type of conditional sentence, both the if-clause and the main clause describe a past condition and a past result, but neither of them actually happened. In other words, both the condition and the result are hypothetical.

Note about verbs: The verb in the if-clause is past perfect tense (had + PAST PARTICIPLE). In the main clause, the verb for the hypothetical result consists of the modal (usually would) + have + PAST PARTICIPLE.

G. If the paparazzi had not chased Princess Diana, she would not have died in 1997. (The paparazzi chased Princess Diana, and she died.)

H. If AIDS had been cured early, millions of people would have survived. (AIDS was not cured early, and millions of people did not survive.)

If the verb in the if-clause is have, then the correct form for the past perfect is had had.

P. If we had had more time, we would have stayed in Greece an extra week.

If-clause without if: You can write a past conditional if-clause without if by moving had before the subject. This structure is characteristic of advanced writing, and you should try to include it in your writing when possible.

G. Had the paparazzi not chased Princess Diana, she would not have died in 1997.

H. Had AIDS been cured early, millions of people would have survived.

Exercise 6

For each of the scenarios listed below, answer the question by writing two sentences that address the conditions presented. The first one has been done for you.

1. You did not pass yesterday's exam. What could you have done to avoid this situation?

1a. If I had studied more, I would have passed yesterday's exam.

1b. If I had paid attention more in class, I would have passed yesterday's exam.

2. You didn't get the job you wanted. What could you have done differently?

2a. _____

2b. _____

3. You had to cancel your trip to Mexico because of a problem. You lost all of your money on the flights and hotels. What could you have done to avoid this situation?

3a. _____

3b. _____

4. Write your sentences for 1a, 2a, and 3a again, but this time omit the word if and move had before the subject.

4.1a. _____

4.2a. _____

4.3a. _____

Exercise 7 Read each set of sentences. In the blanks, write the correct form of the verbs in parentheses. Refer to Sections 12.2 to 12.5 if you need help. The first one has been done for you.

1. (study, do)

1a. If I study for tomorrow's test, surely I will do well.

1b. If I _____ more every day, I _____ better on my class quizzes, but I just do not have enough time.

1c. If I _____ last week, I _____ better on yesterday's test.

2. (know, translate)

2a. If I _____ that Italian word on the wall, I _____ it for you when you asked me yesterday.

2b. I don't know Italian. If I _____ Italian, I _____ this letter for you now.

2c. I will go with you to your interview at the Italian Embassy tomorrow. If I _____ what the interviewer is asking in Italian, I _____ it for you.

3. (have, take)

3a. If I _____ a car, I _____ you to the mall right now.

3b. If I _____ my car back from the shop by tomorrow, of course I _____ you to the mall.

3c. I couldn't take you to the mall yesterday because my car was still at the shop. If I _____ my car back, I certainly _____ you to the mall.

4. (see, tell)

4a. OK. If I _____ Jim in the next few minutes, I _____ him that you are looking for him.

4b. I didn't see Jim. If I _____ him, of course I _____ him that you were looking for him.

Exercise 8 Read the paragraph. In the blanks, write the correct form of the verbs in parentheses.

Off to Alaska

Last year my husband and I took a trip to Alaska. We had a great time on this trip because we planned everything in advance. If we (plan, negative) _____ so well, we (have) _____ many problems because it was peak tourist season. We were on a cruise ship from Seward to Ketchikan. Because I get seasick easily, I brought my seasickness medicine with me. If I (forget) _____ to bring it with me, surely I (get) _____ seasick on the ship. My husband was so glad that I remembered to bring the medicine. He told me, "I can't believe that with all of these preparations, you actually remembered something as small as a bottle of pills. If you (have, negative) _____ those pills right now, you (be) _____ so sick, and I (have) _____ to stay in the room to take care of you, but you remembered, and now here we are having a great time together!" I quickly replied, "What? Are you saying that if I (be) _____ sick, you (stay) _____ 8 9

 in the room with me? If that (be) _____ true, I (insist) 10 _____ that you get out and see the sights even without me!" My 11 husband and I loved our trip together. If we ever (have) _____ 12 the opportunity to go back to Alaska, we (be) _____ sure to go.
13
 Alaska is a wonderful vacation destination.

Exercise 9 Internet Language Search

Choose a topic that you are interested in and find a website related to it. Search the website for sentences that contain the word if. Copy four sentences here for your topic. Write your topic on the first line. Circle the main verbs and analyze why the writer has used certain tenses for these verbs. This search is an excellent way of improving your academic English.

Your topic: _____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

Word Order and Word Combinations

In this chapter, you will review word order in English sentences and common word combinations found in English. Preposition combinations will also be treated extensively.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Three of the five underlined phrases contain an error related to word order or word combinations. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Bill Gates

In 1974, Bill Gates decided to drop out of Harvard and with high school friend Paul Allen wrote operating software for the newly emerging computers personal. They formed Microsoft and created MS-DOS. Later twelve years, Microsoft dominated the personal market computer, and Gates became the nation's richest billionaire.

From: Berkin et al., History of the United States, p. 968.

13.1 Review of Basic Word Order

The basic word order of an English sentence is SUBJECT + VERB + OBJECT. Of course not all sentences contain objects, and some of the rules vary depending on the type of verb that is used in the sentence. In the following section, you will review word order of sentences using the verb be.

13.1.1 Word Order With the Verb be

The verb be is the most commonly used verb in the English language. Sentences have several basic patterns using the verb be. Review the following structures.

Subject + BE + Complement (Noun)

Mr. Davison was the college president for over fifteen years.

SUBJECT BE COMPLEMENT

Subject + BE + Adjective

The dogs were thirsty after spending the day at the dog park.
SUBJECT BE ADJECTIVE

Subject + BE + Prepositional Phrase

The check is in the mail.
SUBJECT BE PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE

Subject + BE + Present Participle (verb + -ing)

All of my classmates are studying for the final exam right now.
SUBJECT BE + PRESENT PARTICIPLE

Subject + BE + Past Participle (Passive Voice) (verb + -ed/-en [irregular])

The final exam for ENG 107 was given on Monday, August 21.
SUBJECT BE + PAST PARTICIPLE

Exercise 1 Read the following paragraph. Fill in the blanks with an appropriate adjective, complement, prepositional phrase, or present participle. The first one has been done for you.

Attractions of Rome

Rome, Italy, is a popular tourist destination (be + complement). It is in the Lazio region on the western coast of Italy. Rome _____
 _____ (be + adjective) with many museums and parks to visit. For example, the Sistine Chapel, which was built in the 1470s, _____
 _____ (be + adjective) because of the beautiful images and colors that Michelangelo painted. Another interesting place to visit is, of course, the 2,000-year-old Coliseum. The Coliseum _____
 _____ (be + prepositional phrase), so tourists can easily walk from there to other nearby ruins like the Circus Maximus. Thousands of people visit this ancient part of the city every day. Not too far from this area is the Trevi Fountain. This fountain _____ (be + complement) where

 _____ (be + adjective), historic, and memorable.

13.2 Word Order of Adverbials

You learned that English sentences generally follow the SUBJECT + VERB + OBJECT pattern. It is common, however, to vary word order so that your writing does not sound too mechanical. One method of doing so is the placement of adverbials. Adverbials can be simple adverbs, adverb clauses or phrases (see Chapter 15), or prepositional phrases (see Chapter 7). Like adverbs themselves, adverbials describe how. Study the following groups of sentences, paying close attention to the word order. Notice how the position of the adverbial can change.

adverb: His view of the world changed immediately.

Immediately, his view of the world changed.

His view of the world immediately changed.

adverb clause: The experiment succeeded because the data were collected by hand.

Because the data were collected by hand, the experiment succeeded.

prepositional phrase: The child's cat sat on the roof and meowed loudly.

On the roof, the child's cat sat and meowed loudly.

Meowing loudly, the child's cat sat on the roof.

13.2.1 Negative Adverbs of Frequency

The normal position for adverbs of frequency is before the main verb but after be, modals, and auxiliary verbs.

During the fall semester, I usually go home for the weekend.

Correct: In this area, the noon temperature never drops below 100 degrees in July.

Incorrect: In this area, the noon temperature ~~drops never~~ below 100 degrees in July.

When using a negative adverb of frequency (never, rarely, seldom, barely, hardly ever), your writing will sound more advanced if you occasionally put the negative adverb in front of the subject. However, this placement means that you must rewrite the verb using "question" order, the same order as if it were a question.

Businesses with low capital rarely survive past their first year.

SUBJECT + NEGATIVE ADVERB + PRESENT TENSE VERB

Change to: Rarely do businesses with low capital survive past their first year.

NEGATIVE ADVERB + DO + SUBJECT + VERB

A composition class should never have more than twenty students.

SUBJECT + MODAL + NEGATIVE ADVERB

Change to: Never should a composition class have more than twenty students.

NEGATIVE ADVERB + MODAL + SUBJECT + VERB

13.2.2 Prepositions of Location

Depending on the intransitive verb used, you can sometimes invert the subject and verb after a prepositional phrase of location.

SUBJECT + VERB + PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE

Change to: On the wall hangs a brightly painted picture.

PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE + VERB + SUBJECT

Editing

Exercise 2

As you rewrite each sentence, vary the beginning to add interest or emphasis. Begin your new sentence with the underlined word. Make any other changes as necessary. The first one has been done for you.

1. Carla and Bob moved to the city to be closer to cultural attractions despite the poor housing market and high crime rate in the area.

Despite the poor housing market and high crime rate in the area, Carla and Bob moved to the city to be closer to cultural attractions.

2. They walked around their new neighborhood casually yet purposefully.

3. Residents have formed a neighborhood watch group in an all-out effort to discourage crime.

4. Carla and Bob sat and drank lemonade under a slowly spinning fan on their porch.

5. With so much time spent organizing their new home, they rarely have the time to do this.

Exercise 3 Read the following paragraph. Circle the five errors and write the corrections on the lines. The first one has been done for you.

1. did I imagine 3. _____ 5. _____
 2. _____ 4. _____

A New Job

Never in my life I imagined that I would get a job at a TV studio. I'd always wanted to be a doctor, and now I'm a television producer. I work in a local studio, and it is a building extremely modern. My office behind the main lobby, so I can be the first one to see who is visiting the station. My schedule is general flexible, so I'm able to take care of outside business fairly easily. While I didn't study to become a producer, I find it a very rewarding job. I've worked on news shows, variety programs, and even telethons! Rarely I get bored with my job duties.

13.3 Word Combinations With Prepositions

You reviewed the use of prepositions in Chapter 7. In this section, you will be given a more comprehensive list of word combinations with prepositions.

13.3.1 Noun + Preposition Combinations

Nouns + about	Noun + between	Nouns + on	Nouns + to * confusion	difference	advice	alternative question		tax	connection damage invitation reaction reply solution

*Although some of these nouns can be followed by infinitives, this combination involves a different structure. Here we are referring to the need for the preposition to between the noun and any following noun. Compare:

The scientists found a solution to stop the problem. (NOUN + infinitive)

The scientists found a solution to the problem. (NOUN + PREP + NOUN)

Nouns + of	Nouns + for	Nouns + in	Nouns + with advantage	answer	background	agreement
benefit	application	change	connection cause	check	decrease	contact
cost	concern	experience	contract decrease	demand	fall	experience
diagram	excuse	increase	the matter
example	fondness	interest	negotiations experience	interview	rise	trouble
fall	need
group	order
illustration	payment
increase	question
lack	reason
map	request
opinion	something payment photograph picture price rise understanding

Exercise 4 Fill in the correct preposition according to the noun. Then complete the sentence with the wording of your choice. The first one has been done for you.

1. I've always had an understanding of technical machinery.
2. I have a question _____.
3. Lately, I've developed a special interest _____.
4. To be a better student, I need to take advantage _____.
5. There is no excuse _____.
6. I have little experience _____.
7. I may need advice _____.
8. What was your reaction _____?

13.3.2 Verb + Preposition Combinations

As with preposition + noun combinations, prepositions that are combined with verbs must be learned as a unit. Below are some of the most common combinations, grouped by preposition.

Verbs + about	Verbs + at	Verbs + for	Verbs + of	Verbs + off
ask	guess	apologize	complain	break complain	laugh	ask	die (also die from)	call dream	look	buy	dream	cut forget	smile	do	get rid	fall talk	stare	look	think	jump
think	yell	make		keep worry		pay		live
		study		take
		thank		turn
Verbs + on	Verbs + to*	Verbs + toward	Verbs + with	Verbs + in count	agree	head	agree	excel
disagree	apologize	turn	argue	succeed
have	be used	walk	break up keep	belong	work	compete
pick	complain		cooperate
put	contribute		disagree
rely	explain		fill
take	introduce		get along
wait	listen		help
work	object		finish
	pay attention		work relate reply
	say speak
	talk

*Although some of these verbs can be followed by infinitives, this combination involves a different structure. Here we are referring to the need for the preposition to between the verb and any following noun. Compare:

The scientists listened carefully to understand our report. (VERB + infinitive)

The scientists listened carefully to our report. (VERB + PREP + NOUN)

Exercise 5

Read the following paragraphs with underlined VERB + PREPOSITION combinations. Find and correct the five mistakes in the combinations.

The Perfect Employee

One of the most sought-after qualities in an employee is the ability to get along ¹ with others. In today's world, and especially in the world of business, employees are seen as team members. They are expected to relate with ² all other members of the team and to work toward ³ a common goal, company success.

Similarly, employees are also expected to think about ⁴ and contribute toward ⁵ achieving the company's mission. Although at times employees may not agree about ⁶ a specific company policy, they are expected to support and follow it. At times they may even have to temporarily forget about ⁷ their personal goals and desires in order to accomplish the goals of the company.

Employees who cannot or will not cooperate with ⁸ others on the team often find they no longer belong at ⁹ the "inner circle" and begin to worry for ¹⁰ keeping their jobs. In many cases, they leave the company in search of another that better suits their work style and personality.

Exercise 6

Read the verbs in the list below. Fill in the blanks with an appropriate preposition. Then choose five of the VERB + PREPOSITION combinations and write an original sentence for each one. The sentences should be related to your academic studies.

- | | | | |
|-----------------|----------------|-------------|---------------------|
| guess _____ | listen _____ | study _____ | work _____ |
| apologize _____ | dream _____ | rely _____ | pay attention _____ |
| disagree _____ | complain _____ | think _____ | talk _____ |

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

13.3.3 Adjective + Preposition Combinations

Certain adjectives can be combined with prepositions. These, too, function as one unit and must be learned together. Listed below are some of the most common combinations.

Adjectives + about, at, for, with	Adjectives + by, with	Adjectives + for	Adjectives + from angry about / at / with	bored by / with	accountable	different concerned about / with	embarrassed by	bad	divorced excited about	frustrated by / with	good	isolated happy about / with		ready
sorry about / for		necessary think about unhappy about / with worried about
Adjectives + in, with	Adjectives + of	Adjectives + to*	Adjectives + with disappointed in / with	afraid	boring	familiar interested in	fond	committed	impressed guilty	confusing	pleased
	in favor	important	satisfied proud	married
	sure	opposed tired	pleasing unsure	related similar unimportant

(For a review of adjective + prepositions used with gerunds, see Chapter 10, Section 10.2.1).

*Although some of these adjectives can be followed by infinitives, this combination involves a different structure. Here we are referring to the need for the preposition to between the adjective and any following noun. Compare:

The scientists were pleased to receive the final report. (ADJ + INFINITIVE)

The scientists were pleased with the final report. (ADJ + PREP + NOUN)

Exercise 9 Circle the letter of the correct answer. Be prepared to explain your answers.

1. For weeks prior to graduation, the students at my school were so excited _____ graduation that they could not contribute anything of substance _____ class discussions unless the discussion involved graduation.

A. for ... to	C. about ... to
B. for ... with	D. about ... with

2. Because attending graduation was so important _____ me, I did not object _____ how much renting the gown and getting the invitations actually cost.

A. to ... to	C. by ... to
B. to ... about	D. by ... about

3. My mother wanted everyone in my family, including distant cousins that I had not seen in years, to attend my graduation, but I disagreed _____ her opinion. In the end, however, I gave in because I did not want to be the cause _____ any family problems.

A. about ... of	C. with ... of
B. about ... for	D. with ... for

4. The graduation event was amazing. The auditorium was packed. Never _____ so many people at one event!

A. I saw	C. I had seen
B. did I see	D. had I seen

5. The speaker chosen for our graduation ceremony clearly had a passionate interest _____ education, which was at least partially due to the fact that she is married _____ a former high school teacher.

A. for ... to	C. for ... with
B. in ... to	D. in ... with

6. I had to laugh _____ my little brothers. They were so frustrated _____ the length of graduation that they were falling asleep during the ceremony. At least they sat still for once.

Adjective Clauses and Reductions

This chapter reviews everything you need to know about adjective clauses and reductions.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

One of the three underlined phrases contains an error related to adjective clauses and reductions. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Thomas Edison

What are some of the important inventions for which Edison was responsible?

Born in 1847, Thomas A. Edison secured the first of his thousand-plus patents in 1869. In 1876, Edison, who was not even thirty years old, set up the first modern research laboratory, where could work he and his staff. In 1887, he opened a new facility that quickly became the world leader in research and development, especially for electricity.

14.1 Adjective Clauses and Relative Pronouns

An adjective clause is a group of words with a subject and a verb that modifies or describes a noun or a pronoun. An adjective clause functions just like an adjective.

The firefighters tried to save the old house. (The adjective describes house.)

The firefighters tried to save the old house that was burning. (The adjective clause describes house.)

You will recognize adjective clauses by the following relative pronouns: who, which, that, whom, whose.

Relative pronoun	Original sentence	Sentence with adjective clause who	The boy is my friend. He lives down the street.	The boy who lives down the street is my friend.
which	Two news articles were written by my science professor. They appeared in the latest edition of Nova .	Two news articles which appeared in the latest edition of Nova were written by my science professor.
that	The Japanese food is sashimi. Keith likes it best.	The Japanese food that Keith likes best is sashimi.
whom	The people are very interesting. Beverly works for them.	The people whom Beverly works for are very interesting.
whose	The TV newscaster is on channel 7. I trust her opinions most.	The TV newscaster whose opinions I trust most is on channel 7.

Who and whom are used only for people. Which is used only for things. That is used for both people and things (less formal than who(m) and which). Whose is the possessive and is used for both people and things. Note that what is not used as a relative pronoun.

Exercise 1 Read the paragraph and underline the six adjective clauses. The first one has been done for you.

SUVs

One of the most common types of cars is the SUV (Sport Utility Vehicle). SUVs are machines that were originally used in the military or in rugged terrain. These cars, which normally have four-wheel drive, are better able to maneuver in rough road conditions. Jeeps, which have been popular around the world for many years, originated with the U.S. military. Similarly, Land Rovers are vehicles that the British military has utilized extensively. SUVs are vehicles that have many advantages, but the amount of gas that they use is extremely high.

Exercise 2

Read the following sentences. If the sentence is correct, put a C in the blank. If it is incorrect, put an X in the blank and make the correction.

- _____ 1. I wish I had pictures of all the places that I have visited.
- _____ 2. Perhaps the best memories of my trips are of the people which I have met.
- _____ 3. Of all the wonderful places I have been, the one that I remember the most is Cape Breton, Canada.
- _____ 4. Even though they will probably never have the chance to visit me, I keep in contact with many foreign friends which I have made over the years.
- _____ 5. Nowadays, however, it is the Internet who helps me maintain my contacts.
- _____ 6. Without this tool, I would be unable to keep up with my friends, whose lives change as much as mine does.

Exercise 3

Read the paragraph and add appropriate adjective clauses where indicated.

Interview Tips

A successful job interview is one that results in a job offer. Interviewers who are skilled in interviewing techniques are good listeners who get the information they need to make a wise hiring decision. Most job interviews follow a question-and-answer format that may or may not be predictable. To increase your chances of getting the job you will need to prepare for the interview. You should anticipate questions _____ and formulate your answers ahead of time. You also need to form your own list of questions to ask the interviewer. By asking questions, you show interest in the job that you have applied for. On the day of the interview, dress appropriately for the position

2

3

Be on time. Introduce yourself and shake hands with the interviewer. During the interview, listen carefully to the questions that you are being asked. Remember that you are speaking to the person _____ the job that you want. Close the interview with a statement that emphasizes your interest in the job and thank the interviewer for his/her time. Later, send a thank-you letter to the interviewer _____

14.2 Non-restrictive and Restrictive Adjective Clauses

Adjective clauses come in two types: non-restrictive and restrictive. Non-restrictive clauses are separated from the rest of the sentence by a comma. Restrictive clauses are not.

14.2.1 Non-restrictive Adjective Clauses

When the information in the adjective clause is not essential to the meaning of the sentence, set it off with a comma or commas.

My only sister, who lives in California, is a doctor.

(The adjective clause gives extra information. You can take out the information between the commas and not change the meaning of the sentence.)

The Eiffel Tower has an elevator, which I rode to the top.

Non-restrictive clauses always use a comma. Do not use that with non-restrictive adjective clauses.

Incorrect: My only sister, that lives in California, is a doctor.

The Eiffel Tower has an elevator, that I rode to the top.

14.2.2 Restrictive Adjective Clauses

When the information in the adjective clause is essential to the meaning of the sentence, do not set it off with a comma or commas. If you take a restrictive clause out of the sentence, either the sentence will not make sense or the meaning will not be correct.

My sister who lives in California is a doctor.

(If you have more than one sister, then the adjective clause gives essential information. If you take out the information, it is not clear which sister you mean.)

The car that has a broken headlight belongs to Mrs. Williams.

(The adjective clause specifies a particular car. Without this descriptive information, you would not know which car belongs to Mrs. Williams.)

Exercise 4 Use the extra information in the second sentence to create a non-restrictive adjective clause that you add to the first sentence. To begin the clause, use the relative pronoun in parentheses. Be sure to use commas to set off the clause. The first one has been done for you.

1. Tashkent is experiencing economic growth these days. Tashkent is the capital of Uzbekistan. (which) Tashkent, which is the capital of Uzbekistan, is experiencing economic growth these days.

2. My boss is planning to transfer to Uzbekistan.
 My boss has been working for the company for ten years. (who)

3. His consulting firm is opening a new Central Asian office.
 The firm is one of the most successful in the country. (which)

4. The consulting firm's financial advisers were happy with the expansion.
 The advisers routinely analyze economic trends abroad. (who)

5. My boss will leave for Uzbekistan at the end of the year.
 His family will be accompanying him. (whose)

Exercise 5

Read the following sentences and underline the adjective clause. If the sentence is punctuated correctly, put a C in the blank. If it is not punctuated correctly, put an X in the blank and make the correction. The first two have been done for you.

- C 1. My parents, who are now retired, live in a suburb of London.
- X 2. Their son, who is a student at London's School of Economics, lives with them.
- _____ 3. This university which is one of the most prestigious in all of Europe caters to some of the brightest young minds of today.

Exercise 6 Read the paragraph and insert the correct relative pronouns in the blanks. Sometimes more than one answer is possible. The first one has been done for you.

International Travel

International travel has changed dramatically in the past fifty years. In the mid-twentieth century, people who/that ¹ wanted to travel to exotic destinations often went by ship. Such famous vessels as the Queen Mary were commonly used by travelers _____ ² ventured abroad. However, since the invention and modernization of the jet plane, _____ ³ has continued to grow in popularity, transatlantic ocean liners have become less popular. One reason is the speed of the journey. Ocean liners, _____ ⁴ often take more than one week to get from the United States to Europe, are not practical for businesspeople. For example, a person _____ ⁵ a company sends to Europe for a convention cannot spare such a long time traveling. This person's objective, _____ ⁶ is standard procedure for most businesses, is to go to the convention, do business, and then come home. Some people, however, are tired of the "faster is better" mentality _____ modern airlines are advertising. They are now looking 7 for alternative, more exotic modes of travel. For these people, _____ are 8 anticipating the “journey” as much as visiting the destination, high-priced ocean liner trips are just the ticket!

14.3.3 Omitting the Object Relative Pronoun

When the relative pronoun is the object of the adjective clause, native English speakers often omit the relative pronoun. (See also Section 14.7 about adjective clause reductions.)

The women whom I regularly see on Sundays are my mother’s friends.

The women I regularly see on Sundays are my mother’s friends.

The job advertisement that the company provided to the newspaper appeared last week.

The job advertisement the company provided to the newspaper appeared last week.

It is incorrect to omit the relative pronoun when it is the subject of the adjective clause.

Incorrect: The girl is sitting in the park looks nervous.

Correct: The girl who is sitting in the park looks nervous.

Exercise 7

Read the diary entry and circle the six relative pronouns. If a relative pronoun can be eliminated, draw a line through it. The first one has been done for you.

Dear Diary,

Today was a very exciting day for me. It was my first day in high school, and I was extremely excited. I signed up for the Spanish class which I had wanted for a long time. Surprise! I got into the class! The teacher, who is from Malaga, Spain, is very nice. I also got into a chemistry class. The lab, which is filled with all sorts of scientific equipment, is a bit scary, but I think it will be interesting. Lunchtime was great because I got to see all the friends that I hadn’t seen all summer long. Overall, I think this will be a wonderful year. There are so many interesting extracurricular activities that I want to participate in, as well. Overall, I think this is a year that will keep me busy and happy!

14.4 Relative Pronouns as Objects of Prepositions in Adjective Clauses

In addition to functioning as subjects or as objects, relative pronouns can also begin adjective clauses that function as objects of prepositions. Here are some examples with the prepositions to and for:

The fitness club to which I belong is coed. (Common in formal language, including writing: which is the object of the preposition to and refers to club in the main clause.)

Other variations are possible when there is a preposition in the adjective clause:

The fitness club which I belong to is coed.

The fitness club that I belong to is coed.

Incorrect: The fitness club that I belong is coed. (Be careful not to forget the preposition if it is necessary.)

Incorrect: The fitness club to that I belong is coed. (Don't put a preposition before the relative pronoun that.)

Correct: The fitness club I belong to is coed. (relative pronoun omitted; very common in spoken English, especially informal language)

Incorrect: The woman for who you bought the flowers was very happy. (Don't put a preposition before the relative pronoun who.)

Correct: The woman for whom you bought the flowers was very happy to receive them.

Remember: Of all of these options, the preferred way to construct a relative clause with a preposition in writing is using PREPOSITION + which or whom at the beginning of the clause.

Formal

- The period in American history to which you are referring is called the Depression.
- The candidate about whom we were talking is a Democrat.
- The candidate whom we were talking about is a Democrat.

Informal

- The period in American history that you are referring to is called the Depression.
- The period in American history you are referring to is called the Depression.
- The candidate that we were talking about is a Democrat.
- The candidate who we were talking about is a Democrat.
- The candidate we were talking about is a Democrat.

Exercise 8 In each pair of sentences, change the second sentence to an adjective clause. Add a relative pronoun and commas where they are needed. The first one has been done for you.

1. The college has a professional development office.

George just graduated from the college.

The college from which George just graduated has a professional development office.

2. The woman works in the university's professional development office.

George spoke to the woman.

3. The Student Services Building is near the center of campus.

This office is located in the Student Services Building.

4. The university students are recent graduates.

These services are most beneficial for university students.

5. Some of the employment tests took two hours to complete.

George paid a small fee for some of these tests.

6. A private employment agency would be his last resort.

George has heard good things about this agency.

14.5 Adjective Clauses With the Possessive whose

Sometimes when you combine two sentences using an adjective clause, the second sentence contains a possessive. In this case, use the relative pronoun whose.

Redesigned by ieltsdinhluoc.vn

Irene doesn't know the family whose car was stolen.

Main sentence: Irene doesn't know the Smiths.

Second sentence: Their car was stolen.

The possessive adjective their becomes whose when the sentence is made into an adjective clause.

The author whose book was published posthumously won the Nobel Prize for Literature.

Main sentence: The author won the Nobel Prize for Literature.

Second sentence: His book was published posthumously.

The possessive adjective his becomes whose in the adjective clause.

Exercise 9 Study the picture and write an original sentence about each student. Use an adjective clause with the relative pronoun whose. The first one has been done for you.

1. The boy whose glasses are on his head is Charles.
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

14.6 Adjective Clauses That Describe Place, Time, and Reason

An adjective clause can describe a place, a time, or a reason. These clauses begin with the relative adverbs where, when, and why.

14.6.1 Adjective Clauses That Express Place: where

Use the relative adverb where to describe a place.

The city where I was born is an ancient Roman site.

The rooms where George Washington slept are now famous landmarks.

When we talk about places, we often use the prepositions in and at.

in Singapore at the beach

In adjective clauses, the relative adverb where often replaces the phrase in which or at which.

the city where I was born = the city in which I was born the room where George Washington slept = the room which George Washington slept in

14.6.2 Adjective Clauses That Express Time: when

Use the relative adverb when to express time and time relationships.

The exact moment when I won the Spanish poetry contest was last Friday afternoon at 3:15 p.m.

Do you recall the day when we got married?

In adjective clauses, when can replace in which or on which.

The exact moment when I won the Spanish poetry contest = The exact moment in which I won the Spanish poetry contest

The day when we got married = The day on which we got married

14.6.3 Adjective Clauses That Give Reasons: why

To give reasons and answer why, you can use for which or that to begin the adjective clause.

The reason for which Dr. Hughes won the hospital award was his hard work.

The reason that Dr. Hughes won the hospital award was his hard work.

Do not use WHY to introduce adjective clauses.

Incorrect: The reason why he bought that car is its good fuel efficiency.

Correct: The reason that he bought that car is its good fuel efficiency.

Exercise 10 Complete the dialogue using the answers from the box. You may use some of the answers more than once.

who(m) which that whose where when Ø

John: Hey, Pablo! What's new?

Pablo: Not much. My professor just returned the exams _____ we took last week.
1

John: Oh yeah? How'd you do?

Pablo: Not as well as I had hoped, unfortunately. I misunderstood two questions _____ were in part 2 of the test, and they were worth twenty points each!
2

John: That's a bummer. Maybe you can do some extra work. Is the professor _____ teaches the class flexible?
3

Pablo: I think so. I just can't believe that the reason _____ I missed those questions was because I read the directions too quickly.
4

John: Hey, that happens. I remember one time _____ I thought I had done so well on a test, and later I found out that all my answers were supposed to be the opposite! You know how sometimes questions ask for the negative? So, I understand.
5

Pablo: I don't know. Maybe I should talk to my professor. This exam grade _____ I got will ruin my grade point average.

John: Look, it's noon. Why don't you go to the place _____ your professor has lunch and talk to him? It can't hurt.
7

Pablo: You're right, John. I'm going to go right now. And I'll let you know what happens.
If nothing else, I've learned that this is a professor _____ directions are tricky!
8

John: Good luck.

Pablo: Thanks ...

14.7 Adjective Clause Reductions

Sometimes a clause, which contains a subject and a verb, can be reduced or shortened to a phrase. Here are two rules about adjective clause reductions.

1. If the adjective clause contains the verb be (in any form), you can omit the relative pronoun and the verb be.

The man who is next to me must be a diplomat of some kind.

The man next to me must be a diplomat of some kind.

People who were born before 1960 in the United States are called "Baby Boomers."

People born before 1960 in the United States are called "Baby Boomers."

Shakespeare, who is the most well-known British author of all time, continues to fascinate readers today.

Shakespeare, the most well-known British author of all time, continues to fascinate readers today.

This particular reduction is called an appositive. It is a noun phrase that gives a definition or explanation of the previously mentioned noun.

2. You can sometimes reduce adjective clauses without the verb be. In this case, omit the relative pronoun and change the verb to the -ing or present participle form.

We study in a university which consists of six separate colleges.

We study in a university consisting of six separate colleges.

People who live in cities generally do not exercise as often as those who live in rural areas.

People living in cities generally do not exercise as often as those living in rural areas.

- Exercise 11 Underline the nine adjective clauses in the paragraph. If an adjective clause can be reduced to a phrase, make those changes above the clause.

Mother of Miami

Mrs. Julia Sturtevant Tuttle is known as the "Mother of Miami." In 1873, she brought her two small children to see the land that her father had purchased, land which was located on the Miami River. She fell in love with the wilderness that she saw, and formed a vision that included beautiful homes and lush gardens. In 1891,

Adverb Clauses and Reductions

This chapter reviews everything you need to know about adverb clauses and their reduced forms.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the three underlined phrases contain an error related to adverb clauses and reductions. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Culture

If the humanities are concerned with culture in an individual sense, they are also concerned with it in an anthropological sense. Think of the comparison between a child's mind and a farmer's field. The child's mind is cultivated, it develops and an individual acquires habits, beliefs, and values. When use the word culture in this sense, it often helps to compare it to the cultivating that takes place in biology.

From: Witt et al., The Humanities, p. xxvii.

15.1 Adverb Clauses and Subordinating Conjunctions

An adverb clause is a group of words with a subject and a verb that modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb. An adverb clause functions similarly to an adverb.

My roommate will go home to visit her parents when she finishes her research paper. (The adverb clause modifies, or tells more about, the verb will go.)

You will recognize adverb clauses by the following subordinating conjunctions, most of which come at the beginning of the clause. (Subordinating conjunctions connect elements that are not equal, such as a dependent clause with an independent clause. See Chapter 17, Section 17.1, and Appendix 4, p. 299)

Reason/Cause:	because	since
Condition:	if*	even if	unless	when	in case	in the event that provided that
Contrast:	while	although	whereas
Concession:	although	though	even though
Result:	so	(not used to begin sentences)
Purpose:	so that	so Time relationship:	after	as soon as	before	when	while	until whenever	as	once

15.2 Punctuating Adverb Clauses

Here is the rule for punctuating an adverb clause: Put a comma after the clause if the clause begins the sentence. If the adverb clause comes after the main clause, no punctuation is needed.

Hee-jon went to the park because the weather was fine.

Because the weather was fine, Hee-jon went to the park.

Therefore, whenever an adverb clause begins a sentence (i.e., it comes before the main clause), you need a comma.

Although the movie was well advertised, it did not make a lot of money at the box office.

Until we get money to buy a car, we are going to take the bus to work.

It is easy to make a mistake with because. Do not put a comma before the subordinating conjunction because.

Incorrect: The British eventually won the war, because they had superior troops and supplies.

Correct: The British eventually won the war because they had superior troops and supplies.

When the conjunction so introduces an adverb clause of purpose, we do not need a comma. In this case, so can also be replaced with so that. When the conjunction so introduces a result, we use a comma.

I went to the library so I could print my paper on a laser printer. (purpose)

I went to the library, so I was able to print a copy of my paper on the laser printer. (result)

* Hypothetical if-clauses are covered at length in Chapter 12.

Exercise 1 In each sentence, underline the subordinating conjunction and write its function on the line. Refer to the chart on page 206. Add or correct the punctuation if necessary. The first one has been done for you.

1. Whenever Irene looks for a new job she gets nervous. time
2. This happens, because she doesn't have a lot of experience in interviewing. _____
3. If she took a course in job hunting she would probably be more confident. _____
4. She will appear more motivated and ready to start a new career, after doing this. _____
5. While the course is not free the benefits will help her in the long run. _____

Exercise 2

Read the following sentences. Some contain errors in punctuation or syntax (function in the sentence). If the sentence is correct, put a C in the blank. If the sentence is incorrect, put an X in the blank and make the correction. The first one has been done for you.

- X 1. While they are theoretically beneficial global trade agreements do not always work to the benefit of everyone. An example of this is the international steel industry.
- _____ 2. As the U.S. steel industry began losing more and more money, its steelworkers worried about losing their jobs.
- _____ 3. The domestic situation deteriorated steadily as cheaper steel imports began to flood the U.S. market.
- _____ 4. Because the president wanted to protect the domestic steel industry he decided to levy a heavy tax on steel imports.
- _____ 5. Importers of steel from abroad began to question the lawfulness of this action, after it was decided upon.
- _____ 6. So that it could prevent this from happening again the European Union called on the World Trade Organization (WTO) to investigate.
- _____ 7. While this situation can be remedied by using external forces such as the WTO, it is unlikely that the import/export battles between the United States and the rest of the world will end soon.

Exercise 3 Some clauses in this paragraph are incomplete. Read the paragraph once. Then go back and fill in the missing information.

A Productive Day

After I _____
1

_____, I immediately went to my room. It was extremely dirty, so _____

2

My family hates it when _____ 3

_____. This process took about two hours, but it was not unpleasant. I listened to my favorite CD while 4

When I finished cleaning, I _____

5

_____. After that, I called my best friend, Joey. We like to play basketball together if _____ 6

_____. As soon as we finished talking, _____

7

_____. We played one-on-one for a few hours, then I went home. Because I did not have any homework, _____

8

_____. All in all, it was quite a productive day.

15.3 Adverb Clauses and Verb Tense

In sentences with adverb clauses, use the same verb tense in both parts of the sentence—the main clause and the adverb clause.

Whenever the manager calls a meeting, the employees get nervous. (present tense)

Because the manager called a meeting, the employees got nervous. (past tense)

Do not use future tense in an adverb clause even if the time of the action is clearly a future event. Instead, use the simple present tense.

Incorrect: When the world's population ~~will reach~~ 10,000,000,000, there might not be enough food.

Correct: When the world's population reaches 10,000,000,000, there might not be enough food.

Exercise 4 Complete each sentence with information that makes sense. Be sure to pay attention to the verb tense in both clauses.

1. When dot.com companies first appeared, many business people _____

2. This economic boom began to drop as _____

3. Many investors lost money after _____

4. While dot.coms struggle to hold on to their profits, other respectable companies _____

5. Because investors often show less interest in risky ventures, they _____ Exercise 5 Use the introductory information in column 1 and the subordinating conjunctions in column 2 to create sentences with adverb clauses. Draw a line from each main sentence to a subordinating conjunction that makes sense and then complete the adverb clause. Remember that an adverb clause takes the form: SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTION + S + V. More than one match is correct. The first one has been done for you.

Main Sentence	Adverb Clause
1. The students were exhausted	although _____
2. My classmate is crying	because they finally finished their projects.
3. We start a new semester tomorrow	after _____
4. My final grade in biology was only 79	if _____
5. I did not get along with my math professor	before _____
6. I started to go to the library more	since _____
7. Students could not survive a day at school	so that _____
8. I did not like math class	, so _____ once _____
	provided that _____

Exercise 6 Rewrite sentences from Exercise 5 with the adverb clause beginning the sentence. Add the appropriate punctuation. The first one is done for you. Write three more.

1. Because they finally finished their projects, the students were exhausted.
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____

15.4 Adverb Clause Reductions—Forming Adverb Phrases

Sometimes a clause, which contains a subject and a verb, can be reduced or shortened to a phrase. To reduce an adverb clause to an adverb phrase, you usually omit the subject and sometimes alter or omit the verb. The following subordinating conjunctions begin adverb clauses that can be reduced.

if even if unless when while although though after before until whenever even though

There are two ways to form an adverb phrase from an adverb clause.

1. Delete the subject and the be verb.

When John is tired, he usually goes home to take a nap.

When tired, John usually goes home to take a nap.

Sometimes you need to change the pronoun in the main clause to the specific noun. John replaces the pronoun he in the main clause.

2. If the adverb clause contains a verb that is not a be verb, you can sometimes delete the subject and change the verb to the progressive form.

While Karen ate the pizza, she watched a horror movie on TV.

While eating the pizza, Karen watched a horror movie on TV.

15.4.1 Dangling Modifiers

If you are not careful when you reduce adverb clauses, it is easy to create a dangling modifier. First, make sure that the subject of the adverb clause is the same as the subject of the independent clause. If the subjects are different, reducing the adverb clause to an adverb phrase creates a dangling modifier.

Correct: While Irene was studying, the dog began to bark.

Incorrect: While studying, the dog began to bark. (The dog was not studying, so studying is a dangling modifier. It does not have anything to modify that makes sense.)

Another way to check that your adverb phrase is correct is to take the subject of the main clause, put it in front of the adverb clause, and see if it makes sense:

The dog, while studying ... (You can stop there because the dog can't study in the sense Irene studies.)

Exercise 7

Underline the four adverb clauses in the following paragraph. If an adverb clause can be reduced to an adverb phrase, make the changes above the clause. The first one is done for you.

A Scary Hike

While Lisa was hiking through the

^{Lisa}
Andes Mountains, she had a very bad scare. She had seen a rocky hill not too far away and decided to try to climb it.

When Lisa was halfway up the hill, the rocky surface began to crumble. She was terrified, and she didn't know what to do. She held on to the rocks and tried to adjust her footing. After she got a good foothold, she attempted to resume climbing. Thirty minutes later, an exhausted and frightened Lisa reached the top of the hill. Nowadays Lisa stays away from rocky mountains. Even if she is invited by her closest friends to go hiking, she will politely refuse.

Exercise 8

In some of the following sentences, the underlined part contains an error. If the sentence is correct, put a C in the blank. If the sentence is incorrect, identify the error in the blank as P (punctuation), IR (incorrect reduction), or DM (dangling modifier). Then make corrections above the original sentence. The first one is done for you.

^{IR} 1. Before became a military general, Ed Haskins was known by his teachers as a ^{he} lazy student.

_____ 2. The military operation was not supported by the public, although the president had ordered the mission.

_____ 3. Even though it was raining, the military operation was carried out as it had been scheduled.

_____ 4. Because the educational policy was amended, the instructors had to take extra coursework to continue teaching in the classroom.

- _____ 5. The states' political delegates returned to their hotel after the presentations ended.
- _____ 6. While preparing for his presidential address to Congress, a serious car accident occurred outside the White House.
- _____ 7. Unless the workers unite, the company will not prosper in the global marketplace.
- _____ 8. After hearing the government's latest pollution statistics many scientific experts commented on the validity of the numbers.

15.5 Reason and Concession: Clauses Versus Phrases

Both adverb clauses and adverb phrases can show reason and concession.

15.5.1 Showing Reason: Because versus Because of Because and because of show reason and take different grammatical structures. It's important to know the difference. Adverb clauses can begin with because:

Because it was raining, we decided to cancel our trip to the mountains.

Adverb phrases can begin with because of:

Because of the rain, we decided to cancel our trip to the mountains.

The two sentences have the same meaning, but note that in the second sentence, because of must be followed by a noun.

15.5.2 Showing Concession: Although Versus In spite of / Despite

Although and in spite of or despite show concession and take different grammatical structures. It is important to know the difference. Adverb clauses can also begin with although:

Although it did not rain, the crops did not die.

Adverb phrases can also begin with in spite of or despite:

Despite the lack of rain, the crops did not die.

Use of with in spite of but not with despite.

Incorrect: Despite of the lack of rain, the crops did not die.

Exercise 9 In each sentence, change the adverb clause to an adverb phrase or change the adverb phrase to an adverb clause. The first one has been done for you.

1. Because of low production costs, the company exceeded its output of merchandise.

Because production costs were low, the company exceeded its output of merchandise.

2. Because export taxes increased, prices rose sharply.

3. Consumers bought more import automobiles although they cost more than domestic models.

4. In spite of difficult labor relations, the company turned a profit.

5. Greece's agricultural production increased despite the drought.

Noun Clauses

This chapter reviews everything you need to know about noun clauses.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Both of the underlined phrases contain an error related to noun clauses. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Yahoo!

What did begin as a simple listing of favorite websites has evolved into one of the world's best known and most successful e-businesses. Jerry Yang and David Filo were working on Ph.D. degrees at Stanford University when they first created their directory of interesting websites. Eyeing the business potential, the two wrote a business plan, registered the Yahoo! name, and obtained 1 million dollars in venture capital funding to get under way. Business students all over the world are studying how became such a huge success these two individuals.

16.1 Forms of Noun Clauses

A noun clause is a group of words with a subject and a verb that can be a subject, an object, or an object of a preposition. A noun clause can do what a noun can do.

My roommate told me that he signed up for the course yesterday.
(The noun clause is the object of the verb told.)

A noun clause usually consists of three key components:

- an initial relative pronoun or adverb—many of the same ones that begin adjective clauses (see Chapter 14)
- a subject
- a verb

These are the words that commonly begin noun clauses.

who whom what when where why which how how (adjective) whether if that

-ever Words

whoever whomever whatever whenever whichever wherever however however (adjective)

Why the accident happened is a mystery. (subject)

No one knows whether the meeting is on the first floor or the second floor.
(direct object)

The witnesses said that the man entered the bank around 9 a.m. (direct object)

You can talk to whomever you choose. (object of preposition)

It is important that all of the passengers arrive at the airport early. (subject complement)

In sentences with the structure

It + be + ADJECTIVE + (NOUN CLAUSE: that + S + V)

remember to include the word It as the subject. Every sentence needs a subject!

Incorrect: Is necessary that all the students take both English and science.

Correct: It is necessary that all the students take both English and science.

Incorrect: Is obligatory that people be at least eighteen years old to vote?

Correct: Is it obligatory that people be at least eighteen years old to vote?

Sometimes the relative pronoun that begins the noun clause is also the subject of the clause. This may happen with who, what, or which.

SUBJECT VERB OBJECT (noun clause)

No one understands what first causes this chemical reaction.

subject verb

SUBJECT (noun clause) VERB OBJECT

What first causes this chemical reaction has perplexed scientists.

Exercise 1 Read this essay and underline seven more noun clauses. The first one is done for you.

Leadership Styles

From country to country and even from culture to culture, styles of what people consider good leadership vary. In the United States, leadership means getting things done. CEOs generally have a great deal of authority and are expected to use it. Qualities that make an effective leader in Chicago or Dallas, however, might not be valued in England or Japan. What experts in the global marketplace are coming to understand is that no two cultures view leadership in the same way.

According to analysts, effective Japanese leaders make employees feel secure, they expect compliance, and they display a “harmonious personality.” Japanese leaders assume that employees have a familylike loyalty to the company. In effect, they act as “parents” in the family, supporting individuals and demonstrating understanding but maintaining firm control over information and operations.

In German and Austrian organizations, a style called “Towards a Common Goal” is prevalent. Each department has a clear chain of command, and information and instruction are passed down from top to bottom. Leaders, who are primarily autocratic, base their authority on their place in the organization’s hierarchy. Thus, in Germany and Austria, which position a leader occupies within a company is crucial.

Accord and compromise characterize leadership in Sweden and Finland, where leaders motivate employees through communication and consensual decision making. Aptly called “Consensus,” this leadership style requires that the company maintain open communication. In fact, Swedish law mandates that management discuss important decisions with all employees before implementation.

Regardless of the country or culture, experts list three skills that are a must for good global leaders. Whoever has good interpersonal skills and financial discipline and gives employees minimal rules and maximum trust will be a good leader anywhere.

16.2 Functions of Noun Clauses

A noun clause functions in a sentence just like a noun—as subject, object of the verb, or object of a preposition. Remember that you can recognize a noun clause by one of the relative pronouns or adverbs that begin the clause (see Section 16.1 for a list of these words).

Don't confuse noun clauses with noun phrases.

Noun Phrase	Noun Clause
The cause of the hotel fire is a mystery.	How the fire began is a mystery.
The government is investigating the cause of the hotel fire .	The government is investigating how the hotel fire began .

16.2.1 Noun Clause as Subject

A noun clause can be the subject in a sentence. It is important to keep in mind that a noun clause as a unit is singular, so it requires a singular verb.

SUBJECT (noun clause) VERB OBJECT
What really causes this skin reaction consumes millions of research dollars.
subject verb

16.2.2 Noun Clause as Object of the Verb

A noun clause can be the object of a verb in a sentence. Remember to use the correct word order in the clause.

SUBJECT VERB OBJECT (noun clause)
An allergy to wheat limits how a patient's body can fight back.
subject verb

16.2.3 Noun Clause as Object of the Preposition

A noun clause can be the object of a preposition in a sentence:

PREPOSITION OBJECT (noun clause)
According to what the doctor's report said, an allergy may be the cause.
relative pronoun subject verb

PREPOSITION OBJECT (noun clause)
The doctor gave allergy medicine to whoever wanted it.
subject verb

In that clauses functioning as subjects of sentences, the word that is necessary. In all other cases, the word that is optional when it begins noun clauses. (A noun clause without that is a reduced noun clause.) However, in formal speaking and in writing, we strongly recommend that you include the word that rather than omit it whenever it can occur.

Speaking (informal):

The report says six million people came to the U.S. between 1990 and 2000.

Writing (or formal speaking):

The report says that six million people came to the U.S. between 1990 and 2000.

Exercise 2

Read the following joke about an antiques collector and a cat. Write NP (noun phrase) or NC (noun clause) above each underlined group of words. Identify its function as S (subject), OV (object of the verb), or OP (object of the preposition).

Telling a Joke

NP (S)

An antiques collector with lots of money was walking in the downtown area of a city one day. He saw a small skinny cat on the sidewalk.

2

The cat was drinking some milk from a small dish. The collector looked again at the dish.

What the antiques collector saw shocked him.

3

The small dish on the sidewalk was extremely old, and the antiques dealer knew

4 at once that it was very valuable. He was so interested in what he had just seen that he immediately walked into the store to talk to the owner about buying the valuable antique dish. The man did not want the owner to suspect that the dish was so valuable, so he offered the owner some money for the cat.

7

He said that he would pay ten dollars for the cat, but the owner refused. The man was getting desperate, so he offered the owner a crisp fifty-dollar bill from his wallet.

8

9

At this point, the owner could no longer refuse what the man was offering.

10

Then the man quickly added, "You know ... how about including the dish, too?"

That cat is probably used to eating from that dish." The owner replied, "No, sir,

I'm sorry. You may be right about the cat and the dish, but that dish is not for sale." "Why not?" asked the man. The owner answered, "Well, I'll tell you why it's not for sale. You see, it's my lucky dish. So far this week, I've sold fifteen skinny cats!"

11

Some of the underlined groups of words in this paragraph contain an error. Circle the errors and write corrections above them.

The Art of Telling a Good Joke

We all know people who tell great jokes at parties and other gatherings. Perhaps you have wondered whether could you ever be such a good joke teller. If so, there is good news for you. The skills needed to become a good joke teller can be practiced and learned. While it is true than ² some people are naturally good at telling jokes, there are a good number of people who have become good joke tellers through practice. Good joke tellers completely understand what is their joke ³ before they start telling it. Good joke tellers can add whatever want ⁴ to the joke as they tell it, but they clearly know the details of the beginning, middle, and ending of the joke.

Is also important ⁵ to consider who the audience is ⁶. Perhaps you have learned through experience that ⁷ not all jokes are appropriate for all audiences. Finally, to be successful, a joke teller must know many more jokes than knows the audience ⁸. Do you wonder that you can learn these skills ⁹ for telling jokes? They are not so difficult.

With the right amount of practice, is certain ¹⁰ that you can become a great joke teller.

A Joke: Who Is the Real King of the Jungle?

One day a lion woke up in a cranky mood. As he walked out from the bushes where he had been sleeping, he found a small monkey. The lion roared loudly and asked, "Do you know who is the king of the jungle?"

1

The tiny, scared monkey quickly replied that was the king of the jungle the lion.

2

The monkey had given the anticipated answer pleased the lion greatly. Feeling very satisfied, the lion walked slowly away from the little monkey.

Just minutes later, the lion ran into a rabbit. The rabbit realized that had nowhere to hide, so it just sat there trembling. Again, the lion roared loudly and shouted, "Tell me who is the king of the jungle."

5

The little rabbit answered as clearly as it could, "You are the king of the jungle." Feeling even better and more arrogant than before, the lion walked slowly away from the rabbit.

A few minutes later, the lion found himself in front of an old elephant. Once again, the lion roared and shouted, "Who the king of the jungle is?"

6

The old elephant did not hesitate a second. He grabbed the lion with his trunk and threw the lion against a huge tree. The elephant did this three more times until the lion lay on the ground, exhausted and bruised. The lion was confused by that had just happened.

7

"I don't know why did you do this," said the lion. "If you don't know the answer to my question, there is no reason to get angry about it."

16.3 Common Problems With Noun Clauses

- Wrong Word Order. Remember that the word order for noun clauses is RELATIVE PRONOUN or ADVERB / SUBJECT / VERB or, if the relative pronoun or adverb is also the subject, SUBJECT (= RELATIVE PRONOUN or ADVERB) / VERB

Incorrect: I don't know when happened the accident.

Correct: I don't know when the accident happened.

Incorrect: Can you remember who is she?

Correct: Can you remember who she is?
- Omitting the Verb. Don't forget the verb in the main sentence!

Incorrect: Why the pilot didn't show up a mystery.

Correct: Why the pilot didn't show up remains a mystery.

Incorrect: That teachers need more pay a simple fact.

Correct: That teachers need more pay is a simple fact.
- Wrong Verb Form After Certain Expressions. For certain expressions that signal importance, you must always use the base form of the verb in the noun clause—not future tense, past tense, or even the added -s in third-person singular. Here are the expressions:

it is important that ...	subject + suggest that ...	subject + request that ...
it is imperative that ...	subject + recommend that ...	subject + insist that ...
it is necessary that ...	subject + demand that ...	subject + propose that ...

Incorrect: It is important that Mr. Thompson is here at 9 a.m.

Correct: It is important that Mr. Thompson be here at 9 a.m.

Incorrect: The airline recommended that Kate arrives two hours early.

Correct: The airline recommended that Kate arrive two hours early.
- Wrong Verb Tense With Reported Speech. In reported speech, the verb in a noun clause is one tense "older" than the same verb in a sentence without a noun clause. In other words, present changes to past, past changes to past perfect, and will changes to would.

Quoted Speech	⇔	Reported Speech
Present tense: He said, "I work at IBM."	⇔	Past tense: He said that he worked at IBM.
Present progressive: He said, "I am working at IBM."	⇔	Past progressive: He said that he was working at IBM.

Quoted Speech		Reported Speech
Past tense: He said, "I worked at IBM."	⇔	Past perfect: He said that he had worked at IBM.
Present perfect: He said, "I have worked at IBM."	⇔	Past perfect: He said that he had worked at IBM.

Incorrect: The 1990 report said that the U.S. has 200 million people.

Correct: The 1990 report said that the U.S. had 200 million people.

Better Sentences: Variety, Fragments, Run-ons, and Comma Splices

In this chapter, you will review sentence variety (the three main sentence types: simple, compound, and complex). In addition, you will also review common sentence errors such as run-ons, comma splices, fragments, and incorrect punctuation.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the four underlined phrases contain an error related to better sentences. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Work Teams

In a professional setting, people may be involved in a number of different kinds of groups. One of the most prevalent groups in U.S. industry is the work team. As organizations work to accomplish their goals. They have found that it is important to set up work teams. A team to achieve its goals, management must commit to empowering the team.

17.1 Sentence Types

English sentences come in three basic types: simple, compound, and complex.

Simple Sentences

- Contain one independent clause
- May have more than one subject or verb

The Mississippi River flows from northern Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.
SUBJECT VERB

The Mississippi River begins in Minnesota and ends in Louisiana at the Gulf.
SUBJECT VERB VERB

Compound Sentences

- Contain two or more independent clauses joined by a coordinating conjunction Coordinating conjunctions connect two equal elements, such as two independent clauses. The seven coordinating conjunctions in English are for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so (FANBOYS to help you remember these seven words). (See Appendix 4, p. 299.)

- Have at least two subject-verb combinations
- Have clauses equal in importance

The water pipes in the building broke, so the offices were closed for the day.

INDEPENDENT CLAUSE

INDEPENDENT CLAUSE

Complex Sentences

- Have one independent clause and one dependent clause joined by a subordinating conjunction Subordinating conjunctions connect elements that are not equal, such as a dependent clause with an independent clause. Examples of subordinating conjunctions include although, because, before, and after. (See Appendix 4, p. 299.)

- Have an independent clause that has more importance than the dependent clause

Although it was drizzling, the city held the parade as scheduled.

DEPENDENT CLAUSE

INDEPENDENT CLAUSE

Punctuation Note: When an independent clause is followed by a dependent clause, generally no comma is needed. However, when a dependent clause comes first and is followed by an independent clause, a comma is required after the dependent clause.

No comma: The city held the parade as scheduled although it was drizzling.

INDEPENDENT CLAUSE

Exercise 1 Read the sentences below and expand them by adding the parts of speech indicated. The first one has been done for you.

Simple Sentences

1. The tree cast a shadow.

Add: a subject (house), two adjectives (enormous, old), and a prepositional phrase (over the lawn); also change a shadow to shadows.

The enormous tree and the old house cast shadows over the lawn.

2. The car turned.

Add: a verb (sped away), two adverbs (sharply, quickly), and a prepositional phrase (down the highway)

Compound Sentences

3. We loved the movie.

Add: a sentence (They hated it.) joined by but, two adverbs (absolutely, simply), and an adjective (new)

4. Jimena mowed the lawn.

Add: a sentence (Ted washed the cars.) joined by and, a prepositional phrase (in the driveway), and an adjective (overgrown)

Complex Sentences

5. Whenever she hears him play the guitar, she feels weak.

Add: a prepositional phrase (in the knees), an adverb (always), and an adjective (dizzy)

6. I showered before I ate a breakfast of toast and coffee.

Add: an adverb (quickly) and two adjectives (simple, black)

17.2 Vary Sentence Structure and Length

One way to add interest to your writing and increase its effectiveness is to vary the structure and length of your sentences. Academic writing almost never features a high percentage of simple sentences. The important point here is to have variety.

- Begin sentences with prepositional phrases instead of putting the subject first
- Use a combination of simple, compound, and complex sentences
- Intersperse short, simple sentences with longer, more complex ones
- Use modifiers or appositives in simple sentences. An appositive is a word that identifies or explains the meaning of another word in that same sentence. An appositive is usually set off by commas.

George Washington, the first U.S. president, was born in 1732.

APPOSITIVE

- Convert compound sentences into complex ones
- Use phrases in simple sentences

Compare the following two paragraphs. Which one has variety in sentence structure and length?

A. I had a great weekend. On Saturday, my friend came over. Her name is Linda. We went to the beach. It was hot. We swam all afternoon. We watched the sun set. We ate dinner at a restaurant. We got home late. We were tired. I slept all day Sunday.

B. I had a great weekend. On Saturday, my friend Linda came over, and we went to the beach. It was hot, so we swam all afternoon. Later we watched the sun set and ate dinner at a restaurant. When we got home, it was late, and we were tired. I slept all day Sunday.

Exercise 2

Rewrite each sentence according to the directions in parentheses. You can rewrite in more than one way; for example, you might delete information or break a long sentence into two shorter ones.

1. (Shorten) She assembled all of her baking supplies, and she found her favorite cookie recipe, and she baked cookies, and she offered them to her family for dessert.

2. (Shorten) This recipe is easy to understand, and it's easy to prepare.

3. (Use an appositive) Anna Svenson is the creator of the Heavenly Taste recipe books, and she was interviewed on Food for Families, which is a television cooking show that is extremely popular with women between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-nine.

4. (Convert compound sentence to complex type; use although or even though) Baking is a fairly easy task, but some people are not comfortable using an oven.

5. (Convert compound sentence to complex type; use because) We did not have enough eggs, and we had to go to the supermarket yet again!

Editing

Exercise 3

Using the directions in parentheses, rewrite these sentences as a paragraph in the space provided. Remember to indent your paragraph.

1. (Combine into one sentence) The city was on the Atlantic Ocean. The city was hit by a hurricane. The city was almost entirely destroyed.

2. (Separate into two or more sentences) Electrical power to the city was cut off, and the water was contaminated, and many trees were uprooted after the hurricane, and people were very worried about their homes.

3. (Combine into one sentence) Mrs. Heldon was the mayor of the city. She appealed to the citizens. She asked them to remain calm, and she asked them to wait for rescue teams.

4. (Separate into two or more sentences) The Red Cross is an international relief organization, and it set up tents for homeless people, and it delivered food and clothing to the residents, and it fed the workers who rescued people from their homes.

17.3 Common Sentence Problems and Challenges

If your writing contains errors in sentence structure, it is difficult for readers to understand your ideas clearly. This section addresses the most common types of sentence-structure errors: run-on sentences, comma splices, fragments, and punctuation.

17.3.1 Run-on (Fused) Sentences and Comma Splices

Run-on Sentence

It is easy to mistakenly connect two sentences when you add sentence variety to your paragraphs, especially in the form of compound and complex sentences. If you don't add a connector or punctuation correctly, the result can be a run-on, or fused, sentence. Here are two simple ways to fix run-ons:

1. Separate the two independent clauses with a period. Do this if the sentence is too long or if the clauses are not closely related.

Incorrect: We need to make a decision soon our choices are to either refinance our mortgage or take out a home equity loan. (sentence too long)

Correction: We need to make a decision soon. Our choices are to either refinance our mortgage or take out a home equity loan.

Incorrect: We need to make a decision soon the Stones have decided to refinance their mortgage. (clauses unrelated)

Correction: We need to make a decision soon. The Stones have decided to refinance their mortgage.

2. Separate the two independent clauses with a semicolon. Do this if the sentences are not too long or if they are closely related.

Incorrect: A fifteen-year mortgage will mean high monthly rates a thirty-year mortgage will lower the monthly mortgage payment.

Correction: A fifteen-year mortgage will mean high monthly rates; a thirty-year mortgage will lower the monthly mortgage payment.

3. Connect the two independent clauses with a coordinating conjunction.

Incorrect: A fifteen-year mortgage will mean high monthly rates a thirty-year mortgage will lower the monthly mortgage payment

Correction: A fifteen-year mortgage will mean high monthly rates, but a thirty-year mortgage will lower the monthly mortgage payment.

Comma Splice

Another problem is connecting two sentences with only a comma. This type of error is called a comma splice.

Incorrect: An adjustable rate mortgage is one option, a fixed rate mortgage is another.

To fix a comma splice, connect the two sentences with some type of connector. Common connectors include coordinating conjunctions (such as and, but, or, so), subordinating conjunctions (such as because, although, when), and adverbial conjunctions, or transitions, (such as however, therefore, consequently). (See Appendix 4, p. 299.)

An adjustable rate mortgage is one option, and a fixed rate mortgage is another. (coordinating conjunction)

An adjustable rate mortgage is one option while a fixed rate mortgage is another. (subordinating conjunction)

An adjustable rate mortgage is one option; however, a fixed rate mortgage is another. (adverbial conjunction/transition)

The punctuation in the examples changes, depending on the kind of connector.

Exercise 4

Read each sentence. Put a C in the blank if the sentence is correct and an X if it is incorrect. On a separate sheet of paper, correct each sentence that is incorrect.

- _____ 1. Taking a course online has some disadvantages, for example if you have a question, you can't get an immediate answer.
- _____ 2. Discussion boards are forums for posting thoughts and opinions; however, as in a classroom, you must monitor what you say in order not to offend your classmates.
- _____ 3. Students in some online courses participate from countries all over the world and it's interesting to exchange ideas and information with them.
- _____ 4. Online courses require students to be self-disciplined it's easy to put off doing assignments.
- _____ 5. In some respects, online classes are similar to those held in a classroom in other respects they are very dissimilar.
- _____ 6. Assignments are graded in an online course; therefore, it is important to allow yourself enough time to do them well.

Benefits of Baking

There are many ways to reduce stress in your life one of the best ways I have found is through baking, it takes your mind off your everyday problems and redirects your energy and you become creative and productive.

The benefits of baking include the pleasure you derive from being creative and the gratitude you receive from the people who are the recipients of your efforts. Like cookies, praise is never hard to swallow.

Baking also has a down side it often happens that once people discover that stress for you equals baked goods for them they begin to find ways to increase your stress, for example you are assigned to many committees suddenly. The solution? I have not had time to figure it out yet, I am too busy baking.

17.3.2 Fragments

Have you ever tried to be concise and put end punctuation after a phrase or dependent clause, creating an incomplete sentence? These incomplete sentences, known as fragments, may have a subject and a verb, but they cannot stand alone as complete thoughts or sentences.

Important: Fragments are considered one of the worst writing errors. Learn what fragments are and how to avoid them.

You can correct sentence fragments in two ways:

1. Connect the fragment to an independent clause.

Incorrect: I had a hard time getting up this morning. ~~Although I slept well last night.~~

Correction: I had a hard time getting up this morning although I slept well last night.

2. Change the fragment to an independent clause.

Incorrect: She was born in Northwoods. ~~A small town with no stoplights on Main Street.~~

Correction: She was born in Northwoods. It is a small town with no stoplights on Main Street.

Exercise 6

Read the following short essay and underline the nine fragments. The first one has been done for you.

My "To Do" List

I start off every weekend with a long "To Do" list. And lots of energy. On Friday night, I reward myself by relaxing. I might watch a movie or go out with my friends. Or even stay home and read a book.

When Saturday morning rolls around, I take advantage of the opportunity to sleep in. By noon I'm up and ready to tackle the items on my list. I do a load of laundry and then head for the grocery store. Where I spend time looking at all the luscious tropical fruits and choosing some for my Sunday breakfast.

During the late afternoon. I finish the laundry and usually discover my energy level has dropped. I'm going out later, so I take a quick nap. Although I haven't finished my chores. Suddenly, it's Sunday. Before I know it. I read the paper and enjoy a leisurely breakfast. I check my "To Do" list to see what else I can accomplish. But I'm always shocked. Here it is, mid-afternoon on a Sunday. Too late to start a new project. I might as well finish reading the paper. And think about writing a new list again next week. Where does weekend time go?

17.3.3 Sentence Punctuation

Sentence punctuation helps you create the meaning you want. It also tells readers how to read a sentence, so learning how to use punctuation correctly is essential. Listed here are six of the major punctuation marks that you will need to write correct sentences—period, comma, semicolon, colon, apostrophe, and quotation marks. If you want more detailed information than you find here, it is a good idea to consult an in-depth style and writing guide or grammar reference.

1. Period

- Indicates a full stop at the end of a sentence

I am thinking about going to graduate school next year.

- Used at the end of an abbreviation

Dr. Ballard has a Ph.D. in linguistics.

2. Comma

- Separates items in a series

We have meat, cheese, and bread for lunch.

- Separates independent clauses connected by a coordinating conjunction

The car needs gas, but it does not need any windshield wiper fluid.

- Separates phrases or dependent clauses before independent clauses
Even though they have two biological daughters, they are adopting another daughter.
- Sets off non-restrictive elements
Mr. Lantern, owner of the corner bakery, just sold his shop and retired.
- Sets off direct quotations
“Dan,” she said, “please don’t forget to mail these letters.”

3. Semicolon

- Separates two independent clauses with related information
Joey came on Saturday; Bobby will come tomorrow.
- Separates two independent clauses connected by an adverbial conjunction or transition
Last week they bought a plane ticket to Los Angeles; however, today they changed their minds and decided to drive there instead.
- Separates items in a list whose items contain commas
Please be sure to bring your passport, if it is current; your inoculation card, which must be certified; and your admission letter, which needs to be stamped and signed by the school official.

4. Colon

- Introduces information in a list
The cost of the trip includes the following: round trip airfare, hotel accommodations, transportation charges, and all meals.
- Introduces an explanation of the first clause
Most of the students share a common goal: they want to improve their writing.

5. Apostrophe

- Indicates omissions in contracted forms
He’s coming, but we’ve heard that before, haven’t we?
- Shows possession
Would you please return Juan’s book to him?

6. Quotation Marks

- Indicate the beginning and end of a direct quote
An important leader in the American Revolution, Patrick Henry said, “Give me liberty or give me death.”
- Indicate the title of a short work
Have you ever read Franz Kafka’s short story “Metamorphosis”?

Exercise 7

Insert correct punctuation in the sentences below and change the incorrect punctuation. When you insert a period, be sure to capitalize the first word of the next sentence. There may be more than one way to punctuate some sentences.

Dream Analysis

I have just finished reading an article called Living in a Dream World by Dr. Carl Young in Psychology: It's All in Your Mind magazine. This article explains a great deal about dreams for example it explains that all dreams are not equal in importance. Dreams that have importance will remain in a persons memory for years dreams that have little or no importance are easily forgotten.

In order to analyze one's dreams, it helps to recall the following the people, animals, or objects in the dream, the mood; the atmosphere; and any color in the dream it was surprising to discover that not all people dream in color.

Dreams and their meanings differ from person to person however, there are common themes. A dream about a bird may represent freedom a dream about insects may represent the dreamers hard work; a dream about floating down a river may refer to the passage of time in the dreamer's life.

After I finished reading the article I realized that a person's dreams are an emotional barometer of sorts that should be explored in order to learn what messages the unconscious mind is sending the conscious one.

CHAPTER QUIZ

Exercise 8 For each item, read the first sentence and determine whether it contains any errors. Then read the three choices and circle the letters of all the correct revisions. Be prepared to explain your answers.

1. Whenever I see an ATM, I am tempted to withdraw funds.

Parallel Structure

In this chapter, you will review and practice using grammatical structures to make your writing balanced. Balancing the grammatical structures of words, phrases, clauses, or sentences in your writing is called parallel structure. It gives coherence to your writing, and you can use it to link ideas. Structures that are connected with coordinating conjunctions or correlative (paired) conjunctions are written in parallel form, and writers often emphasize parallel structure through comparisons and repetition. This chapter offers practice that will improve your writing through the use of parallelism.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the five underlined phrases contain an error related to parallel structure. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Left-Hemisphere Dominance

Generally speaking, the left hemisphere in most people appears to be dominant for language abilities: speaking, reading, and written. The hemisphere of the left also appears to be dominant for tasks requiring logical analysis, problem solving, and mathematical computations.

From: Jeffrey S. Nevid (2007). Psychology Concepts and Applications. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, p. 71.

18.1 Parallel Words

Good English writers make the following elements parallel:

- Words that are paired (tall and slim: both are adjectives)
- Items of equal rank (animal, vegetable, and mineral: all three are nouns)
- Items in a series (bike, swim, and run: all three are verbs)

Using multiple items that are grammatically parallel makes writing sound better by providing a better balance for the sentence. Consider the difference that one extra adjective makes in the following two sentences:

Students returning to school on Monday were greeted by clogged streets and garages as the roughly 8,000 parking spaces quickly filled up.

Students returning to school on Monday were greeted by clogged streets and packed garages as the roughly 8,000 parking spaces quickly filled up.

In the second example the adjectives clogged and packed are synonyms, but they are not redundant. Together, they are balanced. Each adds a special “flavor” to the sentence that makes the writing sound better. We see the parallel structure in the prepositional phrase: preposition + adjective + object + and + adjective + object.

In parallel structure, you balance nouns with nouns, verbs with verbs, adjectives with adjectives, and so forth. Here are some examples.

1. Words connected with coordinating conjunctions: for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so. (See Appendix 4, p. 299.)

My favorite subjects are history, psychology, and math. (3 nouns)

The dentist did not let me eat or drink anything for at least an hour. (2 verbs)

Their wedding day was beautiful, bright, and festive. (3 adjectives)

The ambassador spoke quietly yet forcefully. (2 adverbs)

2. Words connected with correlative conjunctions. (These conjunctions work only in pairs, such as both/and, neither/nor.)

I like neither Vivaldi nor Mozart. (2 nouns)

To succeed in this job, you must both learn fast and work hard. (2 verb phrases)

The morning dawned not foggy but clear, not humid but dry. (4 adjectives)

Two subjects connected by both ... and take a plural verb.

Both my plane ticket and my passport were lost. (2 subjects)

Exercise 1

As you read the paragraph, circle and identify the seven examples of parallel structure: adjectives (3), adverbs (1), noun/pronoun (1), and verbs (2). The first one has been done for you.

1. adjectives
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____
7. _____

Choosing a Career

Choosing a career is at the same time both exciting and frightening. On one hand, it is exciting because there are so many professions and fields from which you can choose. On the other hand, it is frightening because if you make a mistake, decide on the wrong career, and find yourself with a lousy job, you may be unhappy or frustrated for your entire working life. Clearly, it is important to consider your options completely and thoroughly before making the final decision. To find the perfect job, you should both research your field of interest and talk to a career counselor to help make the correct choice. However, your ultimate career choice must be based on personal, professional, and financial reasons that make sense to you. This life-altering decision matters so much because it will affect not only you but also your family.

18.2 Parallel Phrases

Phrases, as well as words, must be balanced in your writing. Be sure to balance like elements: prepositional phrases with prepositional phrases, infinitive phrases with infinitive phrases, and gerund phrases with gerund phrases. Phrases may be joined with coordinating conjunctions or correlative conjunctions. Here are some examples.

1. Phrases connected with coordinating conjunctions:

The cat climbed over the fence, up the tree, and onto the roof of the house next door. (3 prepositional phrases)

The judge told her to take the stand and to tell the truth. (2 infinitive phrases)

They usually spend their weekends entertaining their friends or fixing up their house. (2 gerund phrases)

2. Phrases connected with correlative conjunctions:

His satisfaction lies not in his title but in his daily work. (2 prepositional phrases)

They can't decide whether to take a cruise or to go on a safari. (2 infinitive phrases)

His idea of a relaxing evening is either biking around the island or watching the sun set over the lake. (2 gerund phrases)

Exercise 2 As you read the paragraph, underline the seven parallel words and phrases. Then locate and correct the three errors.

Cloud Types

How much do you know about the clouds you see in the sky every day? Clouds are defined by their general appearance and by their altitude in the atmosphere. Cloud types include cirrus, stratus, and cumulus. There are three basic cloud levels: under 10,000 feet, between 10,000 and 20,000 feet, and higher than 20,000 feet. Nimbus clouds produce precipitation and can tower up to 60,000 feet. Learning these few terms and to gaze at the sky are all that you will need to begin impressing your friends and family. Once you have learned the cloud classification system and the weather associated with specific cloud types, you can begin to predict the weather and matching skills with your local TV meteorologist!

18.3 Parallel Clauses

In your writing, be sure to balance noun, adjective, and adverb clauses to give them equal weight. Use coordinating and correlative conjunctions to join your clauses. Study the examples below.

1. Clauses connected with coordinating conjunctions:

Unfortunately for all of us, what she says and what she does are very often two different things! (2 noun clauses)

I am a person who works hard and who gets along well with others. (2 adjective clauses)

Are you staying home because you are tired or because it is a school night? (2 adverb clauses)

2. Clauses connected with correlative conjunctions:

He appreciated neither what she said nor how she said it. (2 noun clauses)

She's asking not where he went but when he went. (2 noun clauses)

They won the contract either because they bid low or because they knew someone on the committee. (2 adverb clauses)

For the following paired correlative conjunctions, the subject closer to the verb determines whether the verb is singular or plural.

Not only my parents but also my brother visits Colorado every winter.

Either my brother or my parents are coming to Colorado to visit this winter.

Neither my sister nor her son has ever been to Colorado.

Exercise 3

As you read the paragraph, study the underlined words, phrases, and clauses. Then locate and correct the five errors in parallel structure.

Diet and Exercise

What people eat and how much they are exercising are two factors that determine their overall health. Eating a diet of foods that supply inadequate nutrients and that contain high amounts of refined carbohydrates leads to weight gain and increased risk of heart disease, diabetes, and getting cancer. Thus, it is important to eat not only a wide variety of fresh fruit and vegetables every day but also grains, proteins, and so-called healthy fats. Many people also suffer poor health because they fail to exercise or to be active. Failing to exercise because they do not have enough time or that they find it boring is probably the biggest problem they face. However, time and being bored are not reasons to give up but hurdles that they have to overcome.

18.4 Parallel Sentences

Finally, balancing sentences with sentences adds parallelism to your writing. Just like words, phrases, and clauses, sentences can be joined with coordinating or correlative conjunctions. (See Chapter 17 for information about sentence types.)

1. Connected with coordinating conjunctions:

One day he was there, and the next day he was gone. (simple)

He was tired, and he looked ill, so I urged him to see a doctor, and he saw one the next day. (compound)

If you leave now, you can still catch a bus, but if you stay, you'll have to take a cab home. (complex)

2. Connected with correlative conjunctions (often sounds formal):

Not only does she hold a full-time job Monday through Friday, but she also volunteers at a hospice on weekends.

Either he turns in his report tomorrow or he starts looking for a new job.

Nor is most commonly used with neither as a correlative conjunction.

Neither he nor I can come to the party.

For as a coordinating conjunction means because and is considered formal usage.

We decided to abandon the idea of buying a house, for the prices had risen dramatically and were now out of our range.

Exercise 4 Add a clause to each of the incomplete structures below in order to make each structure parallel. The first one has been done for you.

1. The first exercise in the unit was easy, but the rest were hard.
2. The idea of parallel structure makes sense, and it's almost formulaic, _____

3. Either the grammatical structures are balanced or _____

4. Not only do instructors mark down for errors in parallelism, but _____

5. If you proofread your work, you'll catch your mistakes, but _____

Editing

Exercise 5 Rewrite these sentences to make their elements parallel.

1. The Great Plains is a vast, relatively flat region, and the region has no trees that stretches from north to south across the center of the nation.

2. The buffalo provided most essentials: meat, clothing and shelter, bones and horns were made into implements, and even fuel for fires.

3. Women raised corn and squash and gathered wild fruit and vegetables, and men did the hunting and went fishing near their village and cultivated tobacco.

4. A Plains Indian lesson on sharing is "When you see a boy barefooted and lame, take off your moccasins and give them to him. If you see a boy hungry, you should bring him to your home and give him food."

5. Most white Americans believed that land was a commodity to be bought and sold and that land was to be used but not individually owned was a tradition believed by Native Americans.

Exercise 6

Edit and then rewrite the following sentences. Use correlative conjunctions (paired) to make the grammatical structures in each sentence parallel.

1. Almost half of the students in Section 003 of Freshman Composition neither showed up for the final nor did they turn in their five required essays.

2. The composition instructor was not only a knowledgeable teacher but also fair.

3. It would be best if you included sources for your topic both from the Internet and used the university library.

4. The student received a zero for plagiarizing not an essay but for plagiarizing a research paper.

5. The students need to either choose a research topic or they should ask the instructor to assign one.

6. Both the type of test and how long it is are important considerations when studying for an exam.

18.5 Parallel Comparisons

When you make comparisons using parallel structures, use these expressions:

er / more / less ... than as ... as the same as similar to Remember that the items you are comparing must have the same grammatical structure.

Incorrect: Going to a movie is more expensive than ~~to rent~~ a video.

Correct: Going to a movie is more expensive than renting a video.

Incorrect: Investing in his company is the same as ~~to throw~~ your money away.

Correct: Investing in his company is the same as throwing your money away.

When you use parallelism in comparisons, the comparisons must follow these rules.

1. Comparisons should be complete. Repeat the whole parallel structure in each item and include all the comparison words.

Incorrect: I am happier at my new job.

Correct: I am happier at my new job than at my old one.

Correct: I am happier at my new job than I was at my old one.

Incorrect: I can't believe you lost. You played as well, if not better than your opponent.

Correct: I can't believe you lost. You played as well as, if not better *than your opponent.

Incorrect: Stan Johnson is taller than anyone on the team. (He is on the team, so he can't be taller than anyone on the team.)

Correct: Stan Johnson is taller than anyone else on the team.

Correct: Stan Johnson is taller than any other player on the team.

2. Comparisons should be clear. Make sure the meaning of your comparison is obvious.

Incorrect: I think your boss likes Angela more than you. (Does this mean more than you like Angela or more than your boss likes you? The meaning is unclear.)

Correct: I think your boss likes Angela more than you like Angela.

Correct: I think your boss likes Angela more than your boss likes you.

3. Comparisons should be between similar items. The comparison must make sense.

Incorrect: The cost of a house in Mississippi is less than Texas. (House and Texas are not similar.)

Correct: The cost of a house in Mississippi is less than one in Texas.

Incorrect: Popular music in the United States is similar to your country. (Music and your country are not similar.) Correct: Popular music in the United States is similar to music in your country.

Editing

Exercise 7

Edit and then rewrite the comparisons in the following sentences to make each sentence parallel. The first one has been done for you.

1. Some students are better at learning languages.

Some students are better at learning languages than are other students.

2. Writing in a second language is usually more difficult than to speak.

3. The book that you used in your grammar class is similar to my class.

4. The writing homework was as difficult today as yesterday.

5. I think I prefer listening to language CDs more than you.

6. The rules for using semicolons in English are almost the same as Spanish.

Exercise 8 Use the phrases below to write sentences containing comparisons. Have a partner check your sentences for parallel form. The first one has been done for you.

1. my strengths / my weaknesses

I think my public speaking strengths are more obvious to people than my weaknesses are.

2. feeling calm / feeling nervous

3. informative speeches / persuasive speeches

4. community college speech courses / community college writing courses

5. planning a speech / presenting a speech

6. good public speakers / poor public speakers

18.6 Parallel Repetition

Parallel repetition means repeating articles, prepositions, to before a verb, or other words to emphasize parallel structure. This repetition can help make the parallel items clear and eliminate omissions or potential awkwardness from your writing. When you repeat articles or prepositions, you add clarity to a series of items. The repeated word must appear with each item, not just with two of three items.

At the same time, parallel structure makes repeating some words unnecessary. In general, avoid repetition when it makes your writing too wordy. Compare the examples below.

Articles

Possible: For the first time in his life he had a good job, a home, and a family.

Possible: For the first time in his life he had a good job, home, and family.

Incorrect: For the first time in his life he had a good job, a home, and family.

to before a verb

Possible: Now is the time to organize, to plan, and to act.

Possible: Now is the time to organize, plan, and act.

Incorrect: Now is the time to organize, plan, and to act.

Prepositions

Possible: She told her son to play ball not in the living room but in the yard.

Relative Pronouns

Possible: The candidate believes that this country is ready for change, that the people are willing to sacrifice, and that there can be no change without sacrifice. (Repeated that makes the grammar clear.)

Weak: The candidate believes that this country is ready for change, the people are willing to sacrifice, and there can be no change without sacrifice. (Long sentence may increase confusion.)

Subjects

Possible: In her mind, life was an adventure or simply wasn't worth living.

Better: In her mind, life was an adventure or life simply wasn't worth living. (Repeated subject improves clarity.)

Wordiness

Weak: My editor is good at researching background facts, researching hard-to-find material, and researching information just published. (Repeating researching causes wordiness.)

Better: My editor is good at researching background facts, hard-to-find material, and information just published. (Statement is more concise and still clear.)

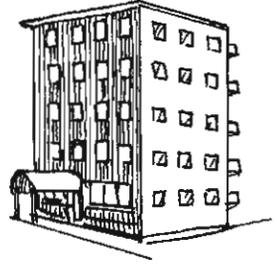

When you write a paragraph, especially one of comparison/contrast, repeating parallel structures can help you develop the main idea. You may use parallel structure in all or in only some sentences of your paragraph. Study the examples of parallel structure in the following paragraph.

There are several differences between living in an apartment and living in a house. One difference is privacy. Living in a house offers a person more privacy than living in an apartment does. Another difference is maintenance. Living in a house requires the tenant to make all repairs and upkeep, but living in an apartment puts responsibility for upkeep on the landlord. A third difference is cost. Not only is living in a house usually more expensive than living in an apartment in terms of rent, but it also costs more to furnish and to keep up a house than it does an apartment.

Editing

Exercise 9

Edit the following sentences, adding or eliminating repetition, to improve the parallel structure.

1. The lawyers were relieved to learn that Mr. Owens, the former executive director, had come, that he had signed the agreement, and had left without incident.

2. They had presented a list of issues, possible resolution, and deadline which were all acceptable to their client.

3. Mr. Owens went to his attorney's office, and Mr. Owens made an appointment for both himself and his wife.

4. His wife is amazing—look at the way she handles the responsibility of home, the responsibility of work, and the responsibility of volunteering amid all this turmoil.

5. Mr. Owens told us that he couldn't come to next week's board meeting and he had reasons he couldn't come to next week's board meeting.

6. Mr. Owens lost the respect of the board, not because he wasn't working hard but his employees weren't.

Exercise 10

Read the following excerpts from famous speeches, noting the underlined structures. Locate the nine errors in parallelism and correct them by rewriting the structures, adding or deleting words as necessary.

1. Patrick Henry to the Second Virginia Convention on March 23, 1775:

“... Sir, we have done everything that could be done to avert the storm that is now coming on. We have petitioned; we remonstrated; we have supplicated; we have prostrated ourselves before the throne and have implored its interposition to arrest the tyrannical hands of the Ministry and Parliament.

... The battle, sir, is not to the strong alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the brave. I know not what course others may take, but as for me—give me liberty or you can give me death!”

2. Abraham Lincoln at the dedication of a cemetery in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, on November 19, 1863:

“... We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live.... But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, this ground cannot be hallowed by us.... It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us ... that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God will have a new birth of freedom, and government of the people, by the people, and for people shall not perish from the earth.”

3. John F. Kennedy at his inauguration in Washington, D.C., on January 20, 1961:

“We observe today not a victory of party but a celebration of freedom.... Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate.

Let both sides explore what problems unite us instead of belaboring those problems which divide us. Let both sides seek to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors.... The energy, the faith, devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it, and the glow from that fire can truly light the world.

And so, my fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you are able to do for the country.”

4. Robert F. Kennedy at a rally informing the audience that Martin Luther King, Jr., had been assassinated on April 4, 1968:

“... What we need in the United States is not division; what we need in the United States is not hatred; what the United States needs is not violence or lawlessness; but love and wisdom, and compassion toward one another, and a feeling of justice toward those who still suffer within our country, whether they be white or they are black.”

Confusing Words and Structures

In this chapter, you will review and practice words that can confuse writers and speakers of English.

CHECK YOUR GRAMMAR

Two of the five underlined phrases contain an error related to confusing words and structures. Can you explain why each of these underlined areas is (or is not) wrong? Discuss with a partner.

Time

Each of us has an idea of what time is, but most of us have never really learned a proper definition. We cannot look time; however, we certainly know that it exists. We may know that events are affected by times, but a clear definition may elude us. We feel that we know what time is, but defining it is difficult.

19.1 Verb Pairs

Verb pairs can be confusing. Take some time to study and review these pairs. Then do the exercises that follow.

(fall) fell / fallen = to collapse, drop, or go down

She fell off a ladder while she was trimming the trees in her yard.

Before the leaves had fallen, it snowed.

(feel) felt / felt = to sense or touch; to believe; to be affected by

She felt a sharp pain in her ankle when she hit the ground.

They feel they are learning a lot in that class.

borrow = to ask for temporary use of something from someone; to take

Can I borrow your car this weekend?

I borrowed twenty dollars from him until next Tuesday.

lend = to allow temporary use of something by someone; to give

She lent me her car for the entire weekend.

Could you lend me twenty dollars until next Tuesday?

(lie) lay / lain (intransitive verb—does not take an object) = to recline

He lay on the ground after being hit by an opposing team member.

I'm tired. I'm going to lie down and take a short nap.

(lay) laid / laid (transitive verb—takes an object) = to place or put

Every night he lays his clothes out for the next day.

I know I laid my keys on the counter when I came in. Where are they?

make = to build or construct; to create or produce; to change something

To make you happy, I made you a sandwich.

We need to make plans for our new business if we intend to make any money.

do = to perform or accomplish something; to talk about actions or work

Could you do me a favor and do the shopping for me this weekend?

What does he do for a living? I think he does interior decorating.

must not = to prohibit

You must not let your passport expire.

do not have to = to be optional or unnecessary

You don't have to live on campus when you study, but dorms are available.

(NOTE: Must and have to are very similar in meaning in the affirmative)

(raise) raised / raised (transitive verb—takes an object) = to increase; to lift or move something to a higher position

Gas station owners raised the price of gas by fifty cents almost overnight.

They play the national anthem whenever they raise the flag.

(rise) rose / risen (intransitive verb—does not take an object) = to increase; indicates that something moves to a higher position

Gas prices rose by fifty cents almost overnight.

The sun rises a few minutes earlier every day until the summer solstice.

say = to speak (used without an indirect object); does not indicate who the listener was

They said that they were going to come over about 6:30 tonight.

tell = to speak (used with an indirect object); indicates who was listening; expressions include tell a lie, tell the truth, tell the time, tell a story

They told me that they were going to come over about 6:30 tonight.

see = to use one's eyes (involuntary action)

I saw the accident while I was waiting for the light to change.

look = to use one's eyes (voluntary action); focus is on the object; shorter duration than watch

We looked at six new houses that were on the market.

Could you look at my paper and correct the errors?

watch = to use one's eyes (voluntary action); focus is on what the object is doing; longer duration than look

We watched that new TV program last night.

I don't want the soup to boil over. Could you watch it while I answer the phone?

used to (+ VERB) = to no longer occur or happen (indicates change)

We used to watch the news on ABC, but now we watch CBS.

He didn't use to come to work so early. It's 7:15, and he starts at 8:00.

be/get used to (+ NOUN or NOUN equivalent) = to become accustomed to or familiar with something

After living in Alabama for ten years, I'm used to hot, humid weather.

They arrived here only two weeks ago. They still need to get used to hearing English all the time.

waste = to use something unwisely or foolishly

Please turn off the lights when you're not in the room. You're wasting energy by leaving them on.

He sat in my office and wasted half an hour of my time chatting about his dog.

lose = to be unable to find or locate; to not win

It's easy to lose money if you don't invest wisely.

They lost the game by two points in the last ten seconds of the final quarter.

Exercise 1 As you read the essay, underline the correct verbs in parentheses. The first one has been done for you.

Colorado Trip

Last summer we (did, made) plans for a trip out west to Colorado. We stopped along the way to enjoy all the outdoors had to offer. From our camper in Denver, for example, we could (watch, see) the Rocky Mountains. They were absolutely 2 majestic—(rising, raising) mightily from the land, standing tall and stately, looking 3 powerful against the piercing blue Colorado sky. Looking at them (did, made) me 4
1
(feel, fell) as though I were experiencing nature for the first time.

5
It was only then that we discovered we had forgotten our camera. I don't know why we forgot—we (were used to traveling, used to travel) more than we have 6 lately, so maybe we just got out of the habit of packing the camera. I thought I had (said, told) my husband, Dennis, to pack it, but he (said, told) he hadn't heard me
7 8
(say, tell) anything about it.

9
I (felt, fell) awful, but we decided not to (lose, waste) time worrying about it. If we 10 11 couldn't (borrow, lend) a camera from my sister, who lived in nearby Westminster, then 12 we would simply buy a new one. After all, our purpose in traveling to Denver was to capture the natural beauty of one of America's western states.

Our vacation was wonderful and we (watched, saw) many beautiful places 13 besides Colorado. We (looked, watched) the sun set over rivers, valleys, and 14 mountains all across the West and (saw, looked) it (raise, rise) in the early morning 15 16 stillness that (lay, laid) at the edge of forests and woods. We sat in silence, listening 17 to the sounds of nature: water flowing over rocks in a stream, birds calling, and small animals scurrying about unseen, in search of food.

If you ever get the chance to go camping, you (must not, don't have to) pass 18 it up. Don't (lose, waste) time trying to decide whether it will be a worthwhile 19 opportunity—it will! Camping taught us a great deal. What we brought back with us, along with our pictures and memories, was a renewed interest in nature. We're not (losing, wasting) any time planning our next trip. In fact, once we returned home, we got out the atlas right away!

Exercise 2 Put the following list of words, phrases, and expressions in the correct columns below. Then, on separate paper, use three words or phrases from each column in sentences. Suggestion: This is not an easy exercise. Consult a dictionary, an English speaker, or a web source for help.

- the laundry for a living plans for tonight money homework
- coffee a living a good job one sick so much noise
- a term paper the shopping dinner a key word search new friends
- a phone call some yard work trouble well on an exam the dishes
- a mistake good time bread up an exam an enemy
- fun of a face a favor angry something over
- a salad housework time in jail math someone happy

DO	MAKE
the laundry

19.2 The Verb get

It is very easy to confuse some verbs because they are used in idiomatic expressions and thus have multiple meanings. One of the most problematic of all verbs in English is get.

get meaning arrive (get + TO + PLACE; get + HOME)

What time does your plane get to Atlanta?

When did you get home?

get meaning become (get + ADJECTIVE)

Are you getting hungry?

She got excited about the party.

(ALSO: get sick, get sleepy, get angry, get upset, get engaged, get married, get divorced, get busy, get tired, get well) get meaning receive (get + NOUN)

He's getting a raise.

I got a letter from Mom today.

(ALSO: get a ticket (meaning: a citation from the police), get a job, get a new car, get some news, get a call) get meaning to cause something to happen (get + PRONOUN + INFINITIVE)

I got them to reduce my taxes.

We got her to reconsider taking the job.

Special expressions:

I got up late today.

He got off the plane at 6:00.

(ALSO: get on the bus, get over an illness, get out of the car, get in trouble, get with something, get behind in work, get off work)

Although the word get is extremely common, avoid using this word in formal writing. Instead, use one of its more specific synonyms. For example, write become weak instead of get weak.

Exercise 3 Answer the questions, using the verb get as defined in Section 19.2. Use the pronoun I to begin each sentence. The first one is done for you.

1. When did you arrive?

I got here late last night.

2. When did you receive your degree?

3. When did you become ill?

4. What time did you finish work last night?

5. When did you have Alex paint your house?

19.3 Verb + Object + Base Verb

A confusing English structure for some writers is two consecutive verbs. If two verbs are near each other in a sentence, the most common pattern uses an infinitive for the second verb: verb + infinitive.

If you want to succeed in business, you must have a solid plan and be ready to work.

If you want me to assist you with any of the work, call me on my cell phone.

However, three verbs—make, have, let—are followed by only the base form of the verb:

make: The boss made us all work late.

have: Mike had Nancy complete the final inspection forms because everyone else was busy.

let: I let the children stay up late tonight.

In addition, verbs of perception—see, hear, watch, feel—are often followed by the base form of the verb:

see: I saw Josh leave the party.

hear: The flight attendant heard the young passenger scream.

watch: The police officers watched the man break into the house.

feel: During the earthquake, we felt the building move violently.

Verbs of perception may be followed by a gerund (-ing form) to emphasize the length or repetition of the action:

hear: The flight attendant heard the young passenger screaming.

feel: During the earthquake, we felt the building moving.

Exercise 4 Use the words given to write sentences telling what mothers usually do for their children. Include the words mothers and their children in each sentence. The first one is done for you.

1. make / eat / spinach Mothers make their children eat spinach.

2. sometimes let / watch / scary movies on TV

3. have / clean up / their own rooms

4. make / do / all of their homework

5. have / call / if they are going to be late

6. never / let / play outside in bad weather

19.4 Nouns

When nouns have similar forms or similar meanings, it is easy to get them confused. Understanding the difference between count nouns and noncount nouns will help you use nouns correctly in your writing.

As we saw in Chapter 1, count nouns can be counted. They have two forms: singular and plural.

Could you give me an example of a past tense verb?

Could you give me three examples of confusing verbs?

Noncount nouns cannot be counted. They have only one form. We don't use noncount nouns with words that indicate singular or plural.

Correct: The sand on this beach is unusually dark.

Incorrect: The many sands on this beach are unusually dark.

Here is a list of frequently used count nouns and noncount nouns, with their definitions and examples of how they are used.

history (noncount) = events that happened in the past

They say that history repeats itself.

story (count) = literature; retelling of something

Did you read the story on the front page?

time (noncount) = quantity, period, or duration of minutes, hours, months, etc.

There isn't enough time to accomplish all the tasks on my list.

time(s) (count) = separate occasions, experiences

We had a good time at the party last night.

I've asked him for his e-mail address at least three times.

news (noncount) = information about events

I saw the news about the war on TV.

information (noncount) = knowledge, facts

Could you give us some information about your new restaurant?

work (noncount) = occupation

I love my work and the people I work with.

works (count) = product, creation

They have two works of art from Picasso displayed.

homework (noncount) = assignment to be completed at home

There's too much homework to do in an hour!

number (count) = numeral

Big bold numbers on their hats identified the team players.

a number (+ plural; noncount) = several, many (unspecified number)

You have a number of options to consider.

the number (+ singular; noncount) = the total, unspecified

The number of people coming is small.

Exercise 5 Complete the sentences using nouns from Section 19.4. The first one has been done for you.

Gifted Education Program

I read an interesting _____ story _____ in the newspaper this morning. It was 1 about a person who spends most of her _____ working with children 2 from a local elementary school.

It seems _____ of children in the school are gifted and, thus, are way ahead of their classmates. For example, one gifted child was known for finishing his _____ so quickly that his teachers couldn't find any _____ to 4 5
3
challenge him.

Apparently, this _____ reached a local artist who then volunteered to come into the classroom three _____ a week to work with the gifted students. She helps them to create their own _____ of art, which they display on the walls throughout the school. Others see these art displays; as a result, _____ of children interested in participating in the program has grown.

19.5 Pronouns and Contractions

Pronouns that have similar spellings can be easily confused. Study the meanings and examples of the following pronouns.

its = possessive form of it; indicates belonging to the thing mentioned

The dog wagged its tail as I approached.

it's = contracted form of it is or it has

It's true (it is). It's (it has) been years since I visited Chicago.

IMPORTANT: its' is NOT a word in English!

their = possessive form of they

Have you seen their new car?

they're = contracted form of they are

They're coming over for dinner tonight.

there = used as subject of be verb in a clause or sentence

There is another new car dealer in town. There are now at least seven dealers to choose from when buying a car.

whose = possessive for who or which

Whose car keys are these?

The dog whose collar is missing belongs to my neighbor.

who's = contracted form of who is or who has

Who's (who is) going with me? Who's (who has) made the list of what we need to get?

your = possessive for you

Please spell your last name for me.

you're = contracted form of you are

You're the new secretary, aren't you?

Exercise 6 Circle the correct form of the word in parentheses.

1. The public relations and advertising people in every campaign are vital to a campaign's success. (There, They're) is no doubt that (they're, their) the ones ultimately responsible for winning an election.
2. In a televised debate, some questions are spontaneous; others are planted. I do not think that this is a fair practice; however, (its, it's) not my decision to make.
3. (Who's, Whose) questions will be asked during the debate? (Who's, Whose) in charge of this important step in a public debate?
4. After the debate, experts attempt to predict which candidate did better in the debate. (There, Their, They're) opinions may not matter so much. What really counts is what the voters think. On election day, the voters will speak, and only then can we find out (they're, their) preferences.
5. In large campaigns, the area will be divided into smaller zones or districts to be more efficient with the campaign's people and money resources. By the way, do you know (whose, who's) the leader for (you're, your) district?
6. I am pretty sure (its, it's) Randall Kelly.
7. (You're, Your) lucky that (it's, its) not Pat Goodman. Not one of the campaign volunteers wants to deal with him. The volunteers literally run away when he heads in (there, their) direction!

19.6 Quantifiers, Intensifiers, and Emphasizers

Writers use the adjectives in this section to indicate how many or to intensify or emphasize something.

many: used with count nouns

There are rules, but there are many exceptions as well.

much: used with noncount nouns; usually used in negative sentences

We haven't had much time to practice this season.

quite: intensifier; not as strong as very

I got home quite late last night.

The test was quite hard.

very: intensifier

I got home very late last night.

The test was very hard.

too: emphaser; implies excessiveness and often requires additional information to complete the meaning; used with a negative meaning (that is, something was not possible)

I got home too late to watch the news last night.

In formal writing, do not use the word too with a positive adjective or adverb.

Incorrect: The food was ~~too~~ delicious. (What is the negative meaning?)

Correct: The food was very delicious. (OR: The food was extremely delicious.)

so (+ ADJECTIVE / ADVERB that): emphaser; if an explanation is not given, the assumption is that the listener knows the result

I got home so late last night that I couldn't function at the office today.

The test was so hard. (This would usually mean that I'm sure I failed it. It is not necessary to say the second part. It is understood.)

such (+ a / an + ADJECTIVE + NOUN that): emphaser; if an explanation is not given, the assumption is that the listener knows the result

I got home at such a late hour last night (that I'm tired today).

It was such a difficult test (that I'm sure I failed it).

Exercise 7

Read the following paragraph. Find and correct the four errors in quantifiers, intensifiers, or emphasers.

Stress and Vacation Time

In the past, not very many research had been conducted on the topic of stress and its effects on the body. Today, however, there has been so an increased interest in the subject that government grants are available for continued study on the topic, especially the effect of vacation time on an individual. In the United States, unfortunately, few employers offer their employees more than two weeks of vacation time each year. A few U.S. companies offer three to four weeks of vacation, but employees usually have to have already worked at least ten years for the company to qualify for that many time off. In many cultures, a two-week vacation is little short to "recharge a person's batteries." More research still needs to be done to evaluate the effects of vacation time on workers.

19.7 Prepositions

Prepositions link nouns or pronouns to other words in the sentence in order to express relationships. Examples of relationships include time, location, and direction. (See Chapter 7 for more about prepositions.)

Many prepositions are confusing because they are used idiomatically. Study the uses and examples in this section.

between: used for two persons or things

The inheritance was split between the two brothers.

among: used for three or more persons or things

Among the seven children, only three were able to attend college.

in, after: to indicate time (in+length of time; after+name of the time or event)

Remember that in for the future is the opposite of ago for the past:

in six weeks ≠ six weeks ago.

I'll see you in a week after final exams.

since: from a time in the past (since+name of the time or event)

I've known him since 1999.

for: amount or duration of time (for+length of time)

I've known him for three years.

Exercise 8

Read each sentence and mark C for correct or X for incorrect. Then correct the sentences that contain errors. The first one has been done for you.

- Among
- X 1. ~~Between~~ all the instructors in the Anthropology Department, Dr. Harris has taught the longest.
2. Dr. Harris is going to meet with her dean after three days.
3. Between you and me, I think the anthropology final exam will be very tough.
4. We've been waiting for our test results from Dr. Harris since a week.
5. Besides teaching, Dr. Harris has been the chair of the Anthropology Department since four years ago.
6. Dr. Harris has been publishing her research studies for years.
7. We're taking our anthropology midterm exam after spring break.
8. Since 2005, the Anthropology Department has grown threefold!

19.8 Confusing Adjectives and Adverbs

Many adjectives and adverbs in English can be difficult to use correctly. Study the following meanings and examples. (Note that some pronouns can be confused with adjectives or adverbs that are spelled the same way.)

ago = in the past; used with amount of time; reference point is the present time

I worked with him three years ago.

before (+ NOUN or clause) = in the past; used with or without amount of time; reference point is past time

I've worked with him before.

all = total amount

All of the students worried about the exam.

almost = nearly; not quite

Almost all of the students passed the exam.

most = the largest number or amount

Most students had studied for the exam.

bad = substandard, poor; not good; incorrect; not in good health; sorry

The movie we watched last night was bad.

I feel bad for her—she just had her car stolen for the third time.

badly = poorly, in a bad way or manner

The team played badly in the final quarter and lost the game.

good = positive, not bad; appropriate; high quality

The meal at La Maison was good but not too expensive.

well (ADJECTIVE) = in good health

I was sick last week, but I'm well now.

well (ADVERB) = successfully; proficiently; in a good way or manner

You handled that awkward situation quite well.

ever = at any time

Have you ever driven in a stock car race?

She hadn't ever planned to open her own business.

never = at no time

No, I have never heard of the rock group Boulder Heads.

alike = (ADJECTIVE, used after linking verbs) = similar

People say we look alike.

like (PREPOSITION) = having the same characteristics; equivalent

John looks like his brother.

Like Bolivia, Austria has no seacoast.

another (ADJECTIVE) = additional

I need another cup of coffee.

another (PRONOUN) = an additional one

She drank a cup of coffee and then another.

other (ADJECTIVE) = different or distinct from someone / something

Other students took the same exam.

others (PRONOUN) = additional ones

Others took the same exam.

the other(s) one of two; the remaining one or ones

I didn't care much for this video. The other one I watched was funnier. (ADJECTIVE)

I didn't care much for this video, but I liked the other. (PRONOUN)

this, that singular; near / far

This kind of music hurts my ears.

That problem is one I just can't solve.

these, those plural; near / far

These kinds of exams are hard.

Those stories are wonderful for kids.

Exercise 9 As you read the passage, find and correct the eight errors in word usage.

Retirement Money Tips

How many people each year lose large sums of money through bad investments?

How many others aren't even aware that almost their money has been invested badly?

Whether you're already an investor or are ready to become one, you can benefit from these six tips. Be sure all your retirement funds will still be there when you need them!

Know your financial goals and your “risk-comfort level.” If high-risk investments make you anxious, then invest in something that will preserve your capital and offer you less risk. This kinds of funds will obviously yield a lower rate of return than other higher-risk investments, but these lower return is your trade-off for feeling comfortable.

Consult a financial planner. Meet with the planner to discuss your personal financial goals and to develop a plan specific to your needs and circumstances. These kinds of meetings should continue to occur with your planner even if your investments are doing well.

Alike most others investment consultants, your financial planner will be paid for his or her services. Know what fees you will pay and how they are calculated. Ask questions if you are unsure how the fees are assessed.

Make sure your investments are diversified. Don't never invest all of your money in the same kinds of asset classes. Find out if there is a fee to transfer from one fund to another.

Monitor both your investments and account statements. Before investing in a new fund, read the prospectus. If you do not understand it well enough, ask the other person to read it as well. If you still have questions, consult other sources.

Finally, be prepared to invest for the long term. If an investment sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Unlike good investments, scams often promise unusually high rates of return. These promises should be investigated thoroughly before you invest in the fund. You don't want to invest bad.

19.9 Other Confusing Words too, so, either, neither: used to avoid repeating words or phrases

Julie is confused about all of this. I am, too.

Julie is confused about all of this. So am I.

He didn't turn in his final paper. I didn't either.

He didn't turn in his final paper. Neither did I.

so, not: used to respond to a question or comment

Is Liz working today? I think so. I don't think so.

How was your interview? Did it go well? I'm afraid not.

Will it rain? I hope so. I hope not.

Exercise 10 Read the following dialogue. Fill in the blanks using too, so, either, or neither. The first one has been done for you.

James: I completely forgot to do the assignment!

Kevin: So did I.
1

James: Does this mean we're going to get a zero for the day?

Kevin: I'm afraid _____.
2

James: Hey Kevin, you heard about Sherrie's party tonight? I'm not going.

Kevin: I'm not _____. By the way, didn't you have a job interview last week?
3

James: Yep.

Kevin: Well? Did you get it? I hope _____.
